'No knowledge' of Ellsberg psychological study

Kissinger denies 'profile' order

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger testified today that he did not authorize or have any knowledge of a psychological profile that was ordered in 1971 for Pentagon Papers defendant Daniel Ellsberg.

Kissinger answered only three questions in a 90-second appearance during the trial of former White House aide John Ehrlichman and three others on charges of conspiring to burglarize the office of Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

"Did you authorize David Young directly or indirectly to obtain a psychological profile on Daniel Ellsberg from the CIA?" asked William Frates, chief defense lawyer for Ehrlichman, who had subpoenaed Kissinger.

"I did not," Kissinger said.

"Apart from whether you authorized it, did you have any knowledge that such a profile was being done by the CIA?" Assistant Watergate Prosecutor Philip Bakes asked.

"I had no such knowledge," Kissinger replied.

"Did you have any knowledge of any plan to obtain information from Ellsberg?" Bakes asked in his only other question.

"I had no such knowledge," Kissinger said in his final answer.

Ehrlichman's attorneys had subpoenaed the secretary of state in an effort to determine who authorized the break-in at the Hollywood office of Dr. Lewis Fielding over Labor Day weekend, 1971.

Kissinger returned Tuesday from his six-nation diplomatic mission in Europe and met with President Nixon during the morning before appearing in court.

Before Kissinger's testimony, U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell told attorneys for the defendants that there was no law permitting the Central Intelligence Agency to allow an individual to commit a crime.

Kissinger, wearing a blue suit, walked into the jammed courtroom after Gesell simply said, "Call the next witness," and Frates stated, "Secretary Kissinger."

Kissinger placed his hands on the Bible and swore "I, do," as the clerk read the oath. Frates asked him to state his name and title.

"Henry Albert Kissinger, secretary of state," he said. Ninety seconds later, Gesell excuses him, adding he hoped that it had not interferred with his schedule too much. "Thank you very much," Kissinger replied.

Five minutes after he left the witness chair, Kissinger emerged from the courthouse and marched down a long, broad walkway surrounded by policemen who yelled "open it up, open it up" to a throng of reporters and cameramen who had gathered to question the secretary.

The police forced a solid line of press members to break ranks as Kissinger strode rapidly to a limousine waiting at the curb. He drove off immediately in a caravan of vehicles without responding to shouts of reporters.

EARL WARREN

Death of Earl Warren recalls stormy issues

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Earl Warren, who rose through the same rough-and-tumble California Republican politics as President Nixon to dominate a Supreme Court era that bears his name, died late Tuesday at 83.

The retired chief justice of the United States had been in Georgetown University Hospital suffering from a heart ailment since last week and was listed in fair condition Tuesday morning. But cardiac arrest occurred about 8 p.m. and Warren died unconscious with his wife and two daughters at his bedside.

Perhaps the major achievement of the court during Warren's 16-year tenure was the 1954 unanimous decision outlawing segregated schools. Warren himself, however, said in later years the most significant ruling was the 1962 "one man, one vote" decision giving federal courts jurisdiction over state legislative reapportionment.

Warren also headed the commission that investigated the assassination of President John F. Kennedy and determined that Lee Harvey Oswald, acting alone, killed Kennedy.

President Nixon, who opposed many of the Warren Court's decisions expanding the rights of criminal suspects, said Tuesday night Warren was "an articulate spokesman for the ideals he cherished. He did not invite controversy but neither did he shun it; he fulfilled his duty as he saw it."

Warren, whose career in public life spanned 50 years until his retirement in 1969, was a crime-fighting district attorney of Alameda County, Calif., state attorney general, three-term governor and Republican vice presidential candidate in 1948. From 1936 until 1952 Warren harbored presidential ambitions. He was appointed chief justice by President Eisenhower in 1953, replacing Fred M. Vinson.

Upon leaving the court, Warren said, "I would like the court throughout its history to be remembered as a court of the people."

The controversies surrounding the civil rights, voting rights and civil liberties cases between 1953 and 1969 made Warren an opponent of judicial and political conservatives and an enemy of the far right, especially the John Birch Society. Billboards throughout the country trumpeted the slogan, "Impeach Earl Warren."

He answered criticism, however, by saying: "A man whether he is a Communist, a Fascist or a Ku Klux Klanner, or whatever it might be, is entitled to have his rights protected in the courtroom."

Warren is survived by his widow, Nina, sons James, Earl and Robert and daughters Nina "Honey Bear" Bryan, Dorothy Van Knight and Virginia Daly, wife of former newscaster John Charles Daly.

Hospital officials said Warren had long suffered from severe angina, a painful stricture of the heart muscle's blood vessels that starves the heart of oxygen.

Until May of this year, when he was hospitalized briefly, Warren had been lecturing around the country and was writing an autobiography.

MURDER SUSPECT ARRESTED

Ontario police officers handcuff Jose Salazar Sanchez, 23, at 12057 S. Turner Ave. after placing him under arrest on suspicion of murdering an elderly Ontario man, identified as Howard C. Young, 68, a retired auto mechanic. Mr. Young was found dead in his rented home. He had been beaten and tied from head to foot with different types of wire and rope. Sanchez is in West End Jail.

Suspect held in murder of elderly Ontarian

ONTARIO — A 23-year-old Ontario man was arrested on suspicion of murder Tuesday shortly after the body of a retired mechanic was found beaten and bound with bailing wire and electrical cord in an old two-room house behind 12057 Turner Ave.

Jose Salazar Sanchez of 1900 S. Campus Ave., Apt. 39 E, this morning was booked in the West End Jail, suspected of murdering 68-year-old Howard C. Young sometime Monday night or Tuesday morning.

Mr. Young, a retired auto mechanic afflicted with emphysema, was found lying on the floor of the old house about 12:45 p.m. Tuesday by Rosendo Guiterrez, 65, the victim's landlord. Guiterrez said that he became curious about Young when the elderly man did not come out of his home as he usually did in the early morning hours. Guiterrez, who resides in an adjacent house, had been renting the old wooden frame two-room home to Young since last October.

Guiterrez told West End Sheriff's Deputy O. B. Olson he stood on a pail to peer inside the house through a broken window and saw Mr. Young lying on his side between the kitchen and the bedroom, bound from head to foot with different types of bindings.

Olson said he and Guiterrez kicked open the door of Young's house and went inside. Olson said when they entered they found Young's small dog

New city school board appointee draws fire

By PHYLLIS CANNON
P-B Staff Writer

POMONA — Mrs. Mary Montes was appointed to the Pomona school board by a 3-0 vote Tuesday over objections from speakers in the audience and a threat her appointment would be challenged.

The motion to appoint Mrs. Montes, 35, was made by Dr. James Bell, last year's board president, and seconded by Don Donnelly, this year's vice president. Philip S. Wessels cast the third yes vote.

Board President Ken Pine, explaining that he still felt "even stronger" that any person who sits on the school board should be elected by the public, abstained from voting.

Four from the audience, Harriett Harrison, Ron Foster, Lorraine Zeigler and Nelson Scherer, asked the board not to appoint a replacement for Roy O. Day, who resigned June 10., but rather to place the matter on the November ballot.

Scherer, 306 Lincoln Ave., advised the board, "It's better to spend the $4,000 now (to have the question settled in the general election in November) than $12,000 in December (the cost of a separate, special election which could be forced by voters who might challenge the appointment)."

Foster told the board, "we do intend to challenge any appointments. The 500 to 600 signatures (five per cent of the registered voters who cast ballots in the last regular school board election) will not be too difficult to obtain."

Mrs. Harrison, a retired teacher, said her interest in good schools is very keen. She felt making an appointment placed "too great a responsibility on the board" and asked, "should not the voice of the people be heard in upcoming elections in November?"

Mrs. Zeigler said only she thought "it would be fair" to place the matter on the November ballot.

Mrs. Montes, an unsuccessful candidate for the school board in 1973, was not present when the appointment was made. She entered the board room midway through the meeting and Pine introduced her.

Mrs. Montes was a candidate for the Democratic nomination in the 35th

Nixon's lawyer says he felt tape not relevant

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon did not release the transcript of a tape in which he urged aides to conceal their involvement in Watergate because it was "not that relevant," his lawyer said today.

A transcript of that —in which Nixon told aides "I want you all to stonewall it ... plead the fifth Amendment, cover up or anything else, if it'll save it, save the plan" —was made public Tuesday when the House Judiciary Committee published its own transcripts of eight presidential tapes in its possession.

James D. St. Clair, Nixon's impeachment lawyer, told reporters at a news conference that the taped discussion had nothing to do with whether Nixon was involved in the Watergate cover-up but dealt instead with how his aides were to handle themselves when called before the Senate Watergate Committee.

"So I see nothing sinister at all in this, you know. I still don't think it's relevant," St. Clair said.

The "plan mentioned in the Nixon quote was referred to earlier in the transcript as "the cover-up plan.

There were a number of differences in the Judiciary Committee transcripts and those of 31 conversations released by the White House April 30. The committee transcripts include expletives, phrases and an entire lengthy section of the March 22, 1973 meeting which are not found in the White House transcripts.

It was the March 22 meeting that contained the Nixon quote St. Clair said "we felt was not that relevant.

"On the other hand, we furnished the tape to the House so that if they felt it was relevant they could publish it," St. Clair said. "They obviously felt it was relevant and published it.

He also defended the White House-edited tapes, saying, "Basically squabbling over words is not a very fruitful exercise. Its the overall gist of it that counts and I submit that the gist of it is substantially the same on any version.

What is an omission to one person may not be to another. What is inaudible to some may not be to others. Many of the materials that appear in the House transcripts are more favorable to the President than those that were released by the White House."

The committees version was transcribed on recording equipment which its counsel John M. Doar said was superior to that used b ythe White House. It contained numerous discrepancies when compared to the White House version.

The committee transcripts include expletives, phrases and an entire lengthy section of the March 22 meeting which are not found in the White House transcripts.

Roughly, the second half of the March 22, 1973, meeting Nixon had with John W. Dean III and former Attorney General John N. Mitchell was omitted from the White House transcript, but is contained in the committee's.

After discussing the upcoming Senate Watergate probe, the committee transcript quotes Nixon as telling Dean:

"I don't give a shit what happens.

"I want you all to stonewall it, let them plead the Fifth Amendment, cover up or anything else, if it'll save it — save the plan. That's the whole point."

A few minutes earlier in the same conversation Nixon had said: "But now —what —all that John Mitchell is arguing, is that now we, we use flexibility in order to get on with the cover-up plan."

Sen. Sam J. Ervin, Jr., D-N.C., chairman of the Senate Watergate committee said this version was "in perfect harmony" with testimony his committee received to the effect that Nixon's advisers "concluded that they would be publicly in favor of the committee's investigation, but would do everything they could to impede and obstruct the investigation."

In the Judiciary Committee's transcript Nixon appeared to be weighing whether or not to disclose facts to the Senate Watergate Committee.

"I would prefer, as I said to you, that you do it the other way," Nixon said. "I would particularly prefer to do it that other way if it's going to come out that way anyway."

Nixon also said in the transcripts, "Up to this point, the whole theory has been containment, as you know, John." The President went on to express his concern for protecting his top aides, including Dean and H.R. Haldeman.

"We're going to protect people, if we can," he said.

Aussies tell Sinatra: pack bags and get out!

SYDNEY (UPI) — A wave of union indignation at Frank Sinatra and his bodyguards, who manhandled two men and a woman reporter whom he called a $1.50 hooker, brought cancellation of his comeback tour today —and then stranded him in Australia.

Sinatra was scheduled for a five-concert, $135,000-a-night tour but bowed to union pressure and cancelled his second performance in Australia after his guards beat up the two men and the woman in Melbourne.

Shortly after Sinatra blasted the press as a bunch of bums and women reporters as hookers and broads before a sellout audience of 6,200 at Melbourne's Festival Hall Tuesday, three unions told him to "pack his bags and get out of Australia." They included the technicians who would have helped stage his performances.

Television cameramen David Hill and Mike Mehhan and newswoman Hilary Sexton were cut about the face in a violent scuffle at Sinatra's Melbourne hotel when they tried to photograph him in a corridor. Jim Oram of the Daily Mirror said Sinatra's "goon squads" blocked the way and then attacked the newsmen.

The bruised newemen said they were seeking legal advice on the incident.

The scuffle broke out after a previous incident at the concert hall where Sinatra made a 20-yard dash past newsmen with grunts of "get out of my way."

Transport Union workers refused to load gas into Sinatra's private jet, the hotel workers union at the Southern Cross Hotel in Melbourne refused to serve food and drink in the suite he shared with Mrs. Barbara Marx, wife of Zeppo, of the Marx Brothers, and his team of 17 friends, labelled by newspapers as "the Goon Squad".

Sinatra demanded today that the press apologize to him, but Jim North, secretary of the New South Wales division of the Australian Journalists Association, said:

"If Sinatra dosn't apologize to the media I will call on 114 affiliated unions and ask them to blackball Sinatra unless he apologizes for calling our women journalists whores."

Australians also were angered at Sinatra's easy way with customs. It takes an average of 30 minutes to get through Australian customs but Sinatra did it the easy way when he arrived Sunday from Tokyo on a QANTAS 747. He passed through in a matter of seconds and then raced into town at high speed in a white Rolls-Royce with little regard to the speed laws.

"Who the hell does this man Sinatra think he is?" asked Neville Wran, leader of the Labor opposition in the New South Wales Parliament.

DEFENSE WITNESS

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, who has just returned from a diplomatic mission in Europe, is showing here arriving at U.S. District Court in Washington to testify for the defense in the Ellsberg break-in trial. John Ehrlichman and three others are on trial in connection with the 1971 burglary of Ellsberg's psychiatrist's office. Kissinger will complete the defense testimony.

L.V.-S.D. compromise may speed road improvements

A compromise may be in the works between officials of La Verne and San Dimas that will permit work to begin on improvements to San Dimas Canyon Road.

Staff members from both cities held a meeting this week to try to resolve the problem. La Verne officials are to decide today if a public works permit will be granted to allow the closing of San Dimas Canyon Road so that the project can begin.

In a meeting held Monday with all of the contractors presently working on San Dimas Canyon Road for various projects, contractors agreed not to permit trucks to travel on Romola Avenue and instead will use a graded detour road that will be constructed just for truck use during the one-month construction period.

This appeared to be the main objection La Verne officials had to the $230,000 improvement project that will provide a new traffic signal at San Dimas Canyon Road and Foothill Boulevard and improvements for about half a mile north of Romola Avenue.

The project has been delayed because La Verne has not granted a public works permit for the project. At a City Council meeting several weeks ago La Verne councilmen refused to contribute a $9,600 share to the project.

San Dimas Director of Public Works Frank Basile said this morning that "work will begin tomorrow if La Verne officials grant the permit today." Although San Dimas officials are still hopeful that La Verne will reconsider and contribute to the project, Basile said his concern at this point is getting the project under way without further delays.

About 600 feet of the project area is within the boundaries of the City of La Verne.

La Verne officials earlier said they wanted San Dimas to construct a special detour road that would keep traffic off of Romola Avenue during the construction period. But since residents in the area objected mostly to truck traffic, Basile said the meeting with contractors working in the area seemed the best solution to the problem.

Although traffic is heavy during the summer months because of the popularity of San Dimas Canyon Park, Basile said if the project can get under way this week, it should be completed by mid August.

Azusa woman succumbs to crash injuries

POMONA — An Azusa woman died early today from injuries suffered Monday when her car ran off the San Bernardino Freeway and landed on its top on the White Avenue on-ramp.

Manya Slevkoff, 20, was driving west in the freeway's slow lane when her car hit an asphalt curb, causing the vehicle to overturn.

It then rolled down a dirt embankment and came to rest on its top across the White Avenue on-ramp, said highway patrolmen.

The woman, who suffered head and internal injuries, was admitted to Pomona Valley Community Hospital's intensive care unit. She died at 5:40 a.m. today.

Grenade explodes here, may have been stolen

POMONA — A military-type tear gas grenade which exploded in a backyard here late Monday night was the same type device stolen serveral days before from a California National Guard armory in Compton, police said today.

The discovery was made after examination of 37 fragments of the genade found in the backyard at 155 E. Pearl St.

The resident there, Gladys M. Glasco, 56, told police it was almost 11 o'clock when she heard a dull explosion behind her residence. Within a couple of minutes fumes began irritating her eyes and nose and she called police.

Other persons linbing in the four-family building told of similar irritations and one woman took her two young children to a medical facility where their eyes were washed out. No one was injured, however.

Firemen also were called to the scene because of the initial fear that the fumes were from a natural gas leak. All the families were evacuated from the building.

Police said that 100 similar grenades were among the military loot carried off in the break-in at the armory in Compton. But, they said, there was no proof that the grenade which exploded here had been taken in the Compton burglary.

Anderson re-elected by Claremont trustees

CLAREMONT — William A. Anderson, manager of data processing for American Savings and Loan Association in Whittier, was re-elected president of the school board Tuesday night during the annual organizational meeting.

Compared to past elections of the board president, the 1974 election was short and sweet.

Board member Arthur Steffen nominated Anderson, with Mrs. Beverly Shacklett seconding the nomination. There were no other nominations.

Anderson, re-elected to the board for a four-year term in 1973, said that it was a pleasure serving the board.

"We don't always agree on all things," he said, "But when we disagree we disagree agreeably."

Steffen was elected vice president of the board.

In other board actions, Mary Ellen Kilsby provided the deciding vote on the proposed seventh-grade pilot program for Sycamore Elementary School this fall.

Mrs. Kilsby sided with Steffen and Robert Stafford in favoring the program which will be offered to 14 seventh-graders who will be housed at Sycamore School. She was absent in the board's 2-2 deadlock on the issue at a prior meeting.

Anderson and Mrs. Shacklett voted no.

Principal John Bobo reassured the board that the teachers at Sycamore School will administer the novel program with no additional funding from the district.

The program is open to all seventh-graders in the district, but Sycamore students were given first preference.

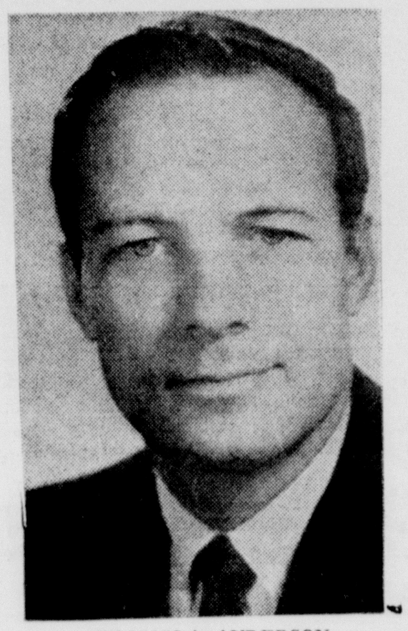

Bobo said that the program is not for just one type of student, but offers individual instruction for all.

The board attached a condition calling for a progress report on the program in January.

The board received no bids on the leasing of classrooms at Mountain View Elementary School. Because of decreasing enrollment, the district had sought to lease three rooms to private business.

The board at a previous meeting had learned that Douglas Carrington, representing the Music Education Center, was interested in leasing four rooms beginning Sept. 1.

The board held off awarding bids on carpeting of 35 classrooms throughout the district until a study has been completed by business manager Charles Abbott of the enrollment needs of the district.

Man, 33, stabbed in fracas at mailboxes

POMONA — A 33-year-old man was stabbed late Tuesday afternoon after ordering an unidentified younger man to stay away from an apartment building at 11th Street and Waters Avenue.

Larry J. Chittenden was reported in satisfactory condition today at Pomona Valley Community Hospital after undergoing surgery for a wound in his abdomen.

Police said Chittenden ordered the other man away because Chittenden had seen him rifling mailboxes at the building. An argument developed between the two during which, according to the victim, the other fellow pulled a knife and stabbed him.

Witnesses said that before the stabbing, the younger man was joined by two companions in the attack on Chittenden. After several blows were struck, Chittenden was stabbed. He walked a short distance and collapsed and his attacker ran north on Waters Avenue.

Police described the man as a Negro in his 20s, 5 feet 7, weighing 160 pounds. He had a 1½-inch afo hairdo, bushy sideburns and a goateer and wore a white T-shirt, blue jeans with 3-inch cuffs and white tennis shoes with black stripes.

The incident drew a crowd of 30 to 35 persons.

Painter breaks knee in tumble

CLAREMONT — Louis C. Caudillo, 46, 1875 San Bernardino Ave., Pomona, was reported in good condition today at Pomona Valley Community Hospital, where he was taken after falling from a ladder here Tuesday. Caudillo was painting a house at 534 W. 12th St., when he fell, breaking one knee.

English program plans two training sessions

CLAREMONT — The Volunteer Vital English (VVE) program will conduct two summer teacher training sessions, according to coordinator Marquita Strang.

The first will be held tonight at 7 at the Claremont United Church of Christ, Congregational. The second will be July 27, at 1 p.m. in the Chino Public Library.

VVE, established in this area three years ago, has helped more than 500 non-English speaking men and women. Volunteers go into homes of the foreign born and teach English, taking a personal interest in families and assisting them in working out their problems and finding ways to relate to their communities.

More than 150 people have volunteered to teach through the program. However, Mrs. Strang said more volunteers are needed since daily requests for help are received.

"To teach in this program one does not need to have any teaching experience or know a foreign language," said Mrs. Strang. "Each prospective teacher attends two teacher training sessions and then is assigned a family or individual."

The program is non-profit and non-denominational. It is supported by donations and pledges from churches, service and community organizations and individuals.

Additional information concerning VVE may be obatained by calling 626-4214, 629-3806 or 593-9915.

Upland gives 7½% raises

UPLAND — The City Council here passed a resolution Tuesday evening approving a 7½-per-cent across-the-board pay increase for all city-employes except police.

The wage agreement was accompanied by a new classification schedule for city employes.

The classification schedule includes a realignment of positions in the fire department and all other city departments except the police department.

Tied to the realignment is an average pay increase of another one-half of one per cent, making a total average pay increase for city employes of eight per cent.

Pay increases for police are still being negotiated.

Additionally, the council Tuesday merit rules concerning vacations for evening initiated action to amend the city employes. The council wants to set a maximum vacation time of 20 days for all employes except police and of 22 days for police.

The money for the pay increase will come from reductions in other parts of the city budget, according to Lee Travers, acting city manager. Travers indicated that library services probably will be cut back, and a tree-trimming program will either be reduced or eliminated. Some of the money for the pay increases will come from reserves the city keeps for emergencies.

There will be a tax increase this year, Travers said, but the tax boost was caused primarily by Upland residents' approval in March of a retirement plan for city police.

In other business conducted Tuesday evening, the council appointed Olaf Snyder to the Housing Authority Board.

Snyder, a retired educator, is a graduate of UC Berkeley and Claremont Graduate School He taught for 41 years at Chaffey High School and Chaffey College, and he was for six years dean of instruction at the college.

Girls attract themselves

SHEFFIELD, England (UPI) — Girls who use perfume hoping to attract men are more likely to turn themselves on, according to Sheffield University Zoologist Francis Ebling.

In a research paper, Ebling said most perfumes are based on smells from male animals and whatever the origin of the scents they are much more potent for women than they are for men because women's nostrils are more sensitive.

He's unarmed for God now

LONDON (UPI) — John Michael Bradley, 25, walked into St. Charles Hospital Sunday and said "I've had a message from God to have my right arm cut off."

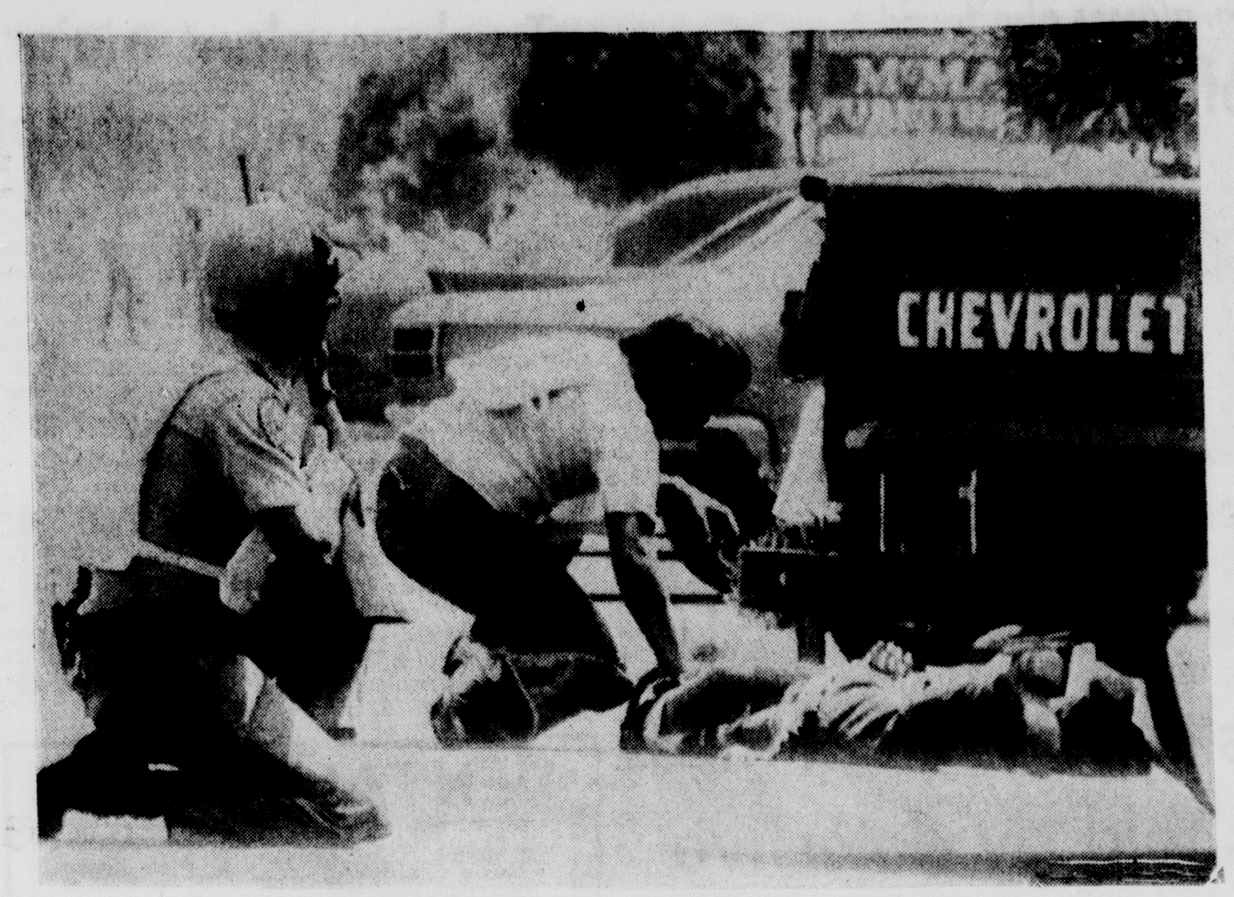

Hospital personnel turned him away.

A few hours later he returned with a tourniquet on the newly severed arm He explained that to fulfill "God's message" he had held his arm on a railway track and let a train run over it.

SHOOTOUT IN BALDWIN PARK

A man, claiming to be a hostage but being treated as a suspect, is handcuffed and held under a truck where he had crawled after leaving a pawn shop in Baldwin Park while police and a holdup man engage in a shootout. The holdup man and an off-duty police officer were killed in gunbattle.

Off-duty officer killed while assisting police in shootout at Baldwin Park

BALDWIN PARK, Calif. (UPI) — Tuesday was supposed to be a special day for El Monte policeman Manuel Arceo, 31.

It was his day off, and Tuesday night the City Council was going to present him with a commendation for heroism for rescuing a blind couple from a burning home in April.

The same spirit that won him the commendation cancelled the ceremony.

Arceo was killed during the day, because he volunteered to help in a gunbattle in another city, on his day off, to rescue hostages held in a pawn shop by a deranged youth who wanted "to kill cops."

He became the first El Monte officer to be killed in the line of duty.

Arceo was standing in a nearby doorway as J. Michael Barola, 22, burst out of the pawnshop in Baldwin Park, firing a rifle at besieging police.

Barola, who had earlier wounded another policeman and a woman bystander, killed Arceo, and then died in a hail of bullets from other officers.

A hostage remaining in the store after the gunman died, talking to a UPI reporter by telephone, said he was afraid to come out or fear police would mistake him for an accomplice and shoot him too. UPI telephoned police and the man emerged safely.

The incident began when Barola entered the Buy Back Store and Pawn Shop, grabbed a machete and threatened the owner, Yolanda Cummings, 58, demanding guns.

She said she offered to give him money but he did not want it, "he just wanted guns to kill cops." She gave him a rifle, two shotguns and several pistols.

Meanwhile, two employes triggered a silent alarm and with a male customer sneaked out of the shop. An estimated 50 officers surrounded the shop, 30 from Baldwin Park and the others from the sheriff's department and the police departments of two neighboring towns, including El Monte, where Arceo was in the station house when the report came in and volunteered to help.

Barola made Mrs. Cummings and a customer keep a lookout for police, apparently eager to shoot it out with them.

The customer, John Mitchell, 20, said Barola ordered him "to load the guns and said if I got the idea of shooting him he would kill me."

Barola opened fire on arriving officers, but while he was occupied Mrs. Cummings escaped.

A crowd of about 2,000 gathered to see the gunfight.

Barola fired about 20 more shots, hitting one of the bystanders, Beatrice Cabrera, 37, in the leg, and Irwindale policeman Arne Ogaard, 30, in the foot. Police did not return the fire for fear of hitting hostages.

"I was loading the shotguns for him and thinking about shooting him to help the cops out, and he warned me again I'd better not," Mitchell said later.

Police told Barola by bullhorn to surrender. Instead he burst out the door firing a rifle, killing Arceo before other officers shot him down.

When UPI telephoned the pawn shop, Mitchell answered. "I'm afraid to go out there," he said. "I keep trying to phone the police but the line is always busy. I sure would appreciate it if you would give them a ring."

After UPI called police, Mitchell emerged, was questioned and released.

Alleged crime figures face 54 charges

12 indicted; Mafia called 'out of business' in L.A.

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A federal grand jury Tuesday returned indictments against 12 alleged organized crime figures in a move that the Justice department said "puts the Mafia out of business" here.

The 12, including the reputed head of a Mafia "family," were charged with 54 counts of conspiracy, extortion, interstate transportation of stolen money, interfering with interstate shipments through threats of violence, shakedowns and loan sharking.

They were indicted following an 18-month investigation by the Justice Department's organized crime strike force, the FBI and city police.

They were accused of trying to extort protection money from both legal and illegal businesses.

Eleven of the 12 were arrested by the FBI within hours after the indictments were signed by U.S. District Court Judge A. Andrew Hauk.

A major witness before the grand jury was a 6-foot-3, 300 pound Mafia "enforcer," Harry Coloduros, 35, of Los Angeles, who was named an unindicted coconspirator.

He has been in protective custody for two months, since agreeing to cooperate with federal investigators, agents said. Those indicted include:

—Peter John Milano, 50, Northridge, operator of a Van Nuys bail bond agency and reputed head of a Mafia family, already under federal indictments for allegedly running a crooked gambling ring and directing an attempt to smuggle 2.2 pounds of pure heroin into Honolulu.

—Sam Orlando Sciortino, 55, Fountain Valley and Palm Springs, who the FBI says is a ranking member of the Nick Licata Mafia family.

—James Regace, 60, Anaheim, who the FBI says is the No. 2 man in the Licata family.

—Allan Smiley, 67, Los Angeles, arrested in the past for murder, robbery and bookmaking. Smiley was with gangster Bugsy Siegel when Siegel was killed in 1947 by a gangland assassin firing through a window into a Beverly Hills home.

—Sam Farkas, 57, Los Angeles, like Smiley, a former close associate of mobster Mickey Cohen. Police said Farkas is a bookie with a take "in the millions" of dollars.

—Raymond "Rocky" DeRosa, 47, Tarzana, alleged enforcer-collector for the syndicate.

—James Testa, 35, Los Alamitos, formerly of Cleveland, Ohio, also indicted with Milano on the drug smuggling charges.

—Frank Stellino, 49, Palos Verdes, owner of a Torrance delicatessen, Licatas son-in-law and also related to Sciortino.

Torture victim describes how three were slain

OGDEN, Utah (UPI) — A middle-aged man who survived shooting, stabbing, strangulation, poisoning and the ramming of a ballpoint pen in his ear has testified at the murder trial of the men accused of torturing him.

Orrin Walker, 43, Tuesday described two hours of torture during a robbery at Ogden's Hi-Fi shop as five people were shot through the head. He said he heard "the spatter of blood."

Three of the victims died, including his son, Stanley Walker, 20, Sherry M. Ansley, 19, and Mrs. Byron Naisbitt, 52.

Walker told how he and the others were methodically forced to drink liquid drain cleaner which the robbers said was "a mixture of vodka and a German drug of some sort."

He described the shooting of each of the victims and how one of the robbers tried to finish him off by strangling him with an electrical cord and then by ramming a ball-point pen through his ear drum.

"It went so deep I could feel it against my esophagus," Walker said. "He struck it three times."

Mrs. Naisbitt was the first to be shot, he added, "and I heard the splatter of blood against the wall."

Walker testified at the preliminary hearing of Keith L. Roberts, 20, Lawton, Okla., one of three Hill Air Force Base airmen charged with murder in the robbery slayings.

Earlier hearings for Dale S. Pierre, 21, Trinidad, W.I., and William A. Andrews, 19, Jonesboro, La., were closed to the public and the press. Both were bound over to the District Court.

Walker named Pierre and Andrews as the two men he saw inside The Hi-Fi Shop and said it was Pierre who tortured and shot the victims.

Warren's court sparked bitter civil rights issue

Former Chief Justice Earl Warren, who presided over one of the stormiest periods in the high court's history, came to Washington after serving as a crime-fighting district attorney and three-term California governor.

He spurred the court to landmark, and highly controversial, decisions involving civil rights, voting laws and civil liberties.

Appointed to the high court by Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1953 with no prior experence as a judge, Warren and his colleagues stunned the nation with the school desegregation ruling in 1954. Warren Court rulings involving reapportionment and the rights of criminal suspects provoked heated debates and put the Supreme Court in the national spotlight.

Warren, who said he "never felt the loss" of not winning a national office, was the Republican vice-presidential candidate on the ill-fated Thomas Dewey ticket in 1948. He served as California governor from 1942 until his appointment to the high court in 1953.

Warren, criticized as "traitorous" by his enemies and praised for his "judicial statesmanship" by admirers, characterized his tenure as "the court of the people."

Warren was born in Los Angeles March 19, 1891, but spent most of his boyhood in nearby Bakersfield, where his family moved when his father, Methias Warren, lost his job during a railroad strike.

Warren worked in rail freight yards part time as a youth. He decided at an early age to go to college and law school, vowing to be the first boy from Bakersfield's "railroad section" to make it through college.

Warren attended the University of California at Berkeley, intent on becoming a trial lawyer. He passed his state bar exams in 1914, and began private practice before he was drafted in 1917 during World War I.

Warren left the service a year later as a first lieutenant. In 1919, he went to work for the state assembly's judiciary committee in Sacramento, resigning a few months later to become a deputy city attorney in Oakland. By 1923, Warren had become the chief deputy district attorney of Alameda County. A year later, he became D.A. when his boss resigned.

In 1925, in his first election, Warren was elected to the post "by talking to more people than any candidate had ever done before," as he later said.

Warren married Nina Palmquist Meyers, a widow with one son, in 1925. The son, James, was adopted by Warren and the couple had five other children, three daughters and two sons.

Warren earned an early reputation as a no-nonsense crime fighter, which was later tempered by his decisions in favor of arrested suspects as chief justice. In 13 years in office, Warren battled bootleggers, convicted an average of 15 murderers a year, and uncovered a major bribery scandal in Oakland, sweeping the mayor and all but one councilman out of office.

Warren attracted national headlines in 1936 when he successfully prosecuted several union officials for plotting the murder of George Alberts, the chief engineer of a local freighter.

Warren, however, was unable to solve the most tragic case of his career as a district attorney. In May of 1938, his father, living alone, was beaten to death with a lead pipe. The crime was never solved.

Reform in food stamps urged

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A high-level Reagan Administration official says "large scale reform" is needed in the Federal Food Stamp Program to combat duplication and "out-of-sight" administration costs.

Philip J. Newlin, chief deputy of the Department of Benefit Payments (formerly the Department of Social Welfare), said much of the needed reform must be made at the federal level.

New city school appointee...

Congressional District in the June primary, running fourth among 10 candidates.

She was born in Chino, grew up in Pomona and lives at 1308 W. 11th St., with her daughter, Lisa, 5. She attended Mt. San Antonio College in Walnut, UCLA and Cal State Los Angeles. Currently, she is completing her doctoral dissertation at the Claremont Graduate School.

She is the recipient of a full Ford Foundation fellowships in administrative leadership.

Mrs. Montes taught five years at Washington, Madison and Hamilton elementary schools. She has worked as a consultant in curriculum development, as a counselor and as an assistant dean of students.

Before the appointment was made, Pine explained that eight persons had been interviewed as possible board candidates, and that the field had been narrowed to three finalists: Mrs. Montes, Dr. Margaret Preska and the Rev. Jack Truehitt.

Legislation allowing a board to appoint a fifth member to fill an interim period stipulates that the appointee has no voting powers for 30 days.

During that period of time, voters who wish to challenge the appointment may gather signatures to force a special election.

If there is no successful challenge, Mrs. Montes would be granted voting powers in mid-August, and then have to run for election next March, at the regular school board election. The law states that she could not run as an incumbent.

Suspect held in slaying...

growling at them next to the body. Olson said he put the dog outside and felt for a pulse on the body. When no pulse was found, Olson called for the coroner and detectives.

Olson said the body was tied at the wrists, ankles and neck with a telephone cord, bailing wire, clothesline and a "T"-shirt.

Sheriff's detectives questioning Guiterrez learned that the suspect, Sanchez, had lived with Young for a short time in the old house. Guiterrez told detectives that Young had finally ordered Sanchez out of his home several days ago for an unknown reason. Guiterrez said he let Sanchez then stay in his barn until he found a job. Detectives went to the Rancho Manor Apartments at 1900 S. Campus Ave. to find Sanchez. After locating the suspect and questioning him, detectives arrested Sanchez on suspicion of murder.

Two hours after sheriff's detectives had begun their investigation it was learned that the homicide had occured in Ontario's newly annexed territory, and the case was turned over to Ontario police.

Sanchez was turned over to Ontario police, who booked him in the West End Jail after further questioning.

Ontario police said this morning a preliminary autopsy on Young's body revealed that he had been beaten about the face, suffering a broken nose. The coroner's office reported that Young died of asphyxiation, caused from swallowing his own blood.

Manhunt for killers of two policemen

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — Two policemen were shot and killed early today and authorities began an intensive manhunt, checking all roads leading out of the city.

The names of the two officers were not immediately released.

A police department spokesmen said three males were being sought in connection with the shooting which occurred on Milwaukee's South Side.

Hawaiians dig out 10,227,300 pennies in drive

HONOLULU (UPI) — Hawaii residents plucked 10,227,300 pennies out of drawers and bottles during the three-week "Penny Ante Sweepstakes" sponsored by the Hawaii Bankers Association.

A spokesman announced Tuesday that the drive for stashed pennies was a tremendous success, and helped "Hawaii's banks catch up on their reduced allocations of pennies from the federal reserve system."

Similar drives have been held around the nation because of a penny shortage, and the HBA awarded numerous prizes to those turning in their copper coins.

One Honolulu resident, Paul Nishida, is the recipient of a one-week trip for two to the Expo fair in Spokane.

Convicts back after escape

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — All but three of 13 state pentitentiary inmates who commandered a prison bus Monday and fled into the Charlotte Park area were back in custody today.

Pat Mitchell and L.J. Bean, area residents, said they pulled their pistols on two strangers hitchhiking through their neighborhood in herringbone-type prison pants shortly after dark Tuesday.

Police identified the pair as escapees Charles Whittenberry, 22, of Knox County, serving 3-5 years for attempting to commit a felony and concealing stolen goods; and Henry Cook, 22, of Dickson County, serving 10 years for armed robbery and escape.

The other escapees, including two who turned themselves in shortly after the others abandoned their bullet-riddled bus, were picked up by police combing the area with helicopters and dogs.

The escape took place as about 35 inmates were being loaded onto the bus to be transported from the prison farm to the main prison for the noon meal.

Prison officials said prisoner Roger Chisham, 22, serving a 15-year sentence for rape, jammed a duplicate key into the ignition, sounded the horn, then tried to run down the guards as he roared to freedom. The bus was peppered with buckshot and pistol bullets as it sped off.

Stores must sell at advertised cost

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A preliminary injunction enjoining Market Basket food stores from selling items at higher-than-advertised prices could remain in effect for at least up to three years.

Superior Court Judge David N. Eagleson said the injunction, issued Tuesday, will remain in effect until a false advertising suit filed against the market by the state attorney general's office comes to trial in two or three years.

The injunction prohibits the market from selling items for a higher price than was advertised, and orders stores to list the quantity available and price of sale items in advertisements.

A girl should learn to flirt

Feminine client queries our Love and War man as to what's the biggest obstacle to romance from the male point of view. That's easy, he says. It's any lack of interest, warmth and responsiveness in the woman. Nothing turns off a young fellow more quickly than a young lady's refusal to be turned on. Does this suggest a girl should learn how to flirt? Certainly.

POLLSTERS asked numerous married women to name their favorite TV sports programs. Exactly 32 per cent said boxing matches. And 92 per cent of those were blondes.

A WOMAN'S teeth take up a larger portion of her bone structure than do a man's.

TO HIS LIST of redundancies, our Language man has added "rthash."

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS

Q—"What's the best-selling record ever made by a girl singer?"

A—Patti Page's 1950 recording of "Tennessee Waltz."

Q—"IF NEWSCASTER Frank Blair comes from the South as reported, how come he doesn't have a Southern accent?"

A—He practiced talking with pebbles in his mouth just like old Demosthenes.

Q—"DID Baseball Commissioner Boiwe Kuhn play baseball?"

A—Not well, he has said. In fact, he has disclosed he nver played any sport well. And he goes so far as to admit he has lost every golf game he can remember.

FREEZING

Wasn't it Jack London who spread the notion that you must stay awake to stay alive in subzero Arctic weather? Think so. Lots of people still believe it. But it's wrong. Military experiements prove that. If you're dressed warmly, not wet, and bedded under cover from the wind, sleep is just about your best defense against the cold. Exhaustion is what leads to freezing death. Sleep tends to save the heat in you.

A MINNESOTA MAN explained why he married his girlfriend after a courtship of only three weeks: "When it was dark enough to park, it was too cold. When it was warm enough, it was too light."

STUDIES indicate the average man shaves not seven nor six but five times a week. Could this be true? Thought six times a week was more like it.

Traveler's Aid for freeways

By ERMA BOMBECK

A U.S. Congressman recently deplored government spending and cited just a few of the appropriations he thought were frivolous.

1. $6,000 to look into the bisexual behavior of Polish frogs.
2. $70,000 to conduct research on the smell of perspiration from Australian aborigines.
3. $203,979 for the city of Los Angeles to extend Traveler's Aid to migrants who get lost on the freeways.

Now I'm as frugal as the next person, but frankly I think this is money well spent. Especially the idea of a Traveler's Aid program on the expressway.

They are jungles. Why, I once met a boy on an exit ramp who got lost on a cloveleaf in 1942, en route to Fort Dix. The kid didn't even know the war was over.

This too is little publicized, but there's an expressway near Cincinnati that was never built for people to exit. Why would they erect such a highway system, you ask? For many reasons.

It was used to test endurance records for Platformate.

It was built to research fuel emissions from beer trucks.

It was a road to nowhere for depressed 53-year-old women who had just been told by their obstetricians they were expecting.

It was a strip where the highway departments put their signs out to dry: YIELD MERGE STOP SOFT SHOULDER TRUCK ROUTE DOWNTOWN RIGHT LANE ENDS YOU JUST PASSED THE BALLPARK EXIT REDUCE SPEED. In no particular order.

I not only find the idea of a Traveler's Aid program on the expressway thrilling, but I would also like to see a Welcome Wagon lady cruise the area. What a joy it would be to have someone visit with you as you watch your radiator boil over . . . welcome you personally and wish you well in your new surroundings. Perhaps she could give you a certificate for a free lunch at your next Stuckeys . . . a picture of a tree suitable for framing . . . a bumper sticker saying, "HONK IF YOU THINK I'M LOST." She might even provide textbooks for the children so they might be qualified to graduate when you find an exit.

Granted, the government comes up with some pretty looney projects for spending the tax dollar.

But we could do worse than caring for gay frogs, people pollutants, and a whole generation growing up on the freeways without love.

Bar owner convicted

SAN BERNARDINO (UPI) — Joe De Victoria, 48, convicted of the second degree murders last August of his ex-wife and two other persons, was ordered to return to Superior Court for sentencing July 29.

De Victoria, a Yucca Valley bar owner, was found guilty of the shooting death of his ex-wife, Aileen Jean, 52; James Kirkendall, 46; and Marilyn Tiggeman, 45, at Mrs. De Victoria's Lucerne Valley hotel. An elderly man and a 14-year-old boy were also wounded.

An earlier trial, in which De Victoria said he could not recall the shootings, ended in a hung jury.

Son of ex-mayor faces 90-day psychiatric exam

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — the 36-year-old son of a former mayor of South El Monte Monday was ordered to return to Superior Court on Oct. 15 after a 90-day psychiatric examination.

Jerome Shapiro, Hacienda Heights, was convicted June 17 on charges of possession of explosives in connection with a bomb threat against Western Airlines.

He was arrested in August, 1973, after telephone threats were made to the airline that bombs would be placed in its Los Angeles terminal unless more than $60,000 was paid. Authorities found bomb components stashed in a terminal locker.

Chaparral Poets name new leader

POMONA — Pomona poet Pegasus Buchanan has become president of the California Federation of Chaparral Poets, reportedly the busiest assembly of poets in the nation.

Mrs. Buchanan succeeds Dr. Charles A. Welch of La Jolla, who resigned from that post because of ill health.

The federation has 30 chapters throughout the nation, and Mrs. Buchanan has been serving as vice president until the resignation of the president.

Mrs. Buchanan has won a large number of awards for her poetry. She was given first place in a recent national one-word contest for her entry of "Earthquake."

Funds will come from the $132 million storm drain bond issue approved by voters in 1970.

Two cities can contract with county

The cities of La Verne and Walnut will be able to contract with Los Angeles County for various services for another year.

The agreements permit the contracting cities to call on the county for certain services, which range from tree trimming to criminal prosecutions. Walnut contracts for engineering, building, and planning services and police protection.

Police officers form legal defense fund

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The 17,000-member Peace Officers' Research Association of California this week announced a formation of a legal defense fund to give coverage for officers in legal problems not covered by a city or county.

Bill Bean, president of the group which represents 215 peace officer associations in California, said it was the first such pact ever offered by a statewide group.

"The pact guarantees an attorney will appear for and, if necessary, defend any lawman who has subscribed to the legal defense fund," Bean said.

"The cause can be any civil, criminal or departmental action brought against the officer arising out of and in the course and scope of his employment," Bean added.

Car, motorcycle stickers assigned, not received

On Jan. 1 we sent the Department of Motor Vehicles a check for $39 for two stickers.

Our check was deposited on Jan. 7 but in May we still had not received our stickers for our car and motorcycle.

We sent in forms once and were sent back forms telling us we had to pay $3 each for the new stickers.

We then wrote telling the department we didn't lose the stickers and would not pay for them again.

A few weeks later we were sent another form instructing us to prove we had never received them.

This made us very mad. How could we prove it?

We are unable to sell our motorcycle because we have no sticker. We have been wanting to sell it since January.

Could you please help us in getting this straightened out? —Mr. and Mrs. R.S., Chino.

When we contacted the DMV, we were informed that stickers had been assigned to your car and your motorcycle and had been returned by the post office to the DMV "unclaimed" department.

You were asked once again to fill out applications for substitute stickers and certificates of nonreceipt.

This time, however, your $3 fee was waived in each case and an envelope was enclosed for your use.

You got your stickers but before they arrived Mr. R.S. nearly got stuck with a ticket for not having one of them. He had to get a temporary receipt from the DMV.

I am a widow and have been collecting a veteran's pension.

At this writing I have not had a check for seven months. After I received the last check I put through a change of address from Covina to Pomona.

I have been to the veterans' offices in Ontario and West Covina but nothing has happened.

Since I am on a fixed income—Social Security and the VA pension—and with the high cost of food and other living expenses, I just cannot make the grade.

Anything you can do to assist me in getting my long past due checks will be greatly appreciated. — L. T., Pomona.

After we got in touch with the VA regional office in Los Angeles, you received a check for approximately $375 representing retroactive payment. You should get a monthly check from now on.

I am enclosing copies of the communications I have received and sent in connection with an offer I received through the mail from Market Development Corp.

As you can see, the corporation offered a Treasure Chest of new products together with reservations at a hotel (one of three choices.)

I did receive the vacation certificate. Since the chest never arrived, I would be afraid to fly clear to Miami on the strength of this certificate for fear I would really have no reservations.

Although I have requested that the $15 paid for the chest be returned I haven't heard from the company.

I would appreciate your taking action in this matter as I feel that there must be many more people who were "taken" by this offer through the mails —N.J., Pomona.

We have written about Market Development Corp. several times but apparently not frequently enough as we are still getting letters like yours.

A suit is pending againt Market Development Corp. in San Mateo County. An injunction has been obtained against the firm.

The corporation has been ordered to refund the $15 when the Treasure Chest merchandise is either unsatisfactory or has not been received.

If your request for a refund was accompaned by proof of payment, such as a copy of your cancelled check or money order receipt, your next step is to write to:

Office of the Attorney General in care of the Public Correspondence Unit, 555 Capitol Mall, Sacramento, 95814.

If you did not send proof of payment to the company, we advise you to do so. You should send your request for a refund by certified mail to establish receipt by the corporation.

Council yields to mother's plea

Crossing guards back for summer

POMONA — An attractive, red-haired Pomona mother of two argued successfully Tuesday for summer school crossing guards.

The guards, promised Mayor Ray J. Lepire at a joint school board-City Council meeting, will be "back on the streets as soon as possible." This, he explained, could mean Thursday, or it could mean Monday. It would depend upon how quickly the city staff could recruit the necessary people.

This will mark the first time crossing guards will be used here during summer school sessions. In the past they have worked only during the regular school year.

The leader of this mini-crusade was Mrs. Ellen Siler of 165 E. Alvarado Ave. She was accompanied to the meeting by a group of parents sympathetic to her cause.

She pleaded primarily for a guard at Garey and Jefferson avenues, to protect some 75 children—including her two—who attend summer school at Lincoln Elementary.

"I'm asking, please give us a guard there for the rest of the summer, then look around the corner and plan ahead for next year," she said.

She told of pending legislation which would enable a city to form taxing districts to fund crossing guard services. She told of buck-passing between the city and the school district in her attempts to pinpoint responsiblity for the program.

"I don't really care who pays," she said, "Just so we have them."

Ken Pine, president of the school board, asked, "Just where does the responsibility lie?" City Administrator Jerrold R. Gonce responded "That's never been cleared up."

"We have a gray area here and it always continues until someone is maimed or killed, then we have an immediate solution," said Pine. "I think we should act now and supply the ounce of prevention."

School board member Don Donnelly echoed Pine's thoughts and said, "Let's do something before we have another tragedy. I'm assuming that the city is financially responsible."

City Councilman Charles Bader, speaking as a father of elementary school children, said, "The danger (of not having crossing guards) is readily apparent. It's a very dangerous situation. I think back to what happened on Valley Boulevard. A little girl was killed. (Rebecca Lopez, 5, Kellogg Elementary School pupil, was killed May 14, 1973.) Then we built a bridge."

At that point, Bader attempted to make a motion to have guards placed back on the streets. Lepire reminded him a prior motion was needed to waive the rules of having the matter placed on an agenda.

With that formality out of the way, Bader made the motion, which was seconded by Councilman Ben Ochoa, to have the crossing guards hired for the summer.

The council vote was unanimous.

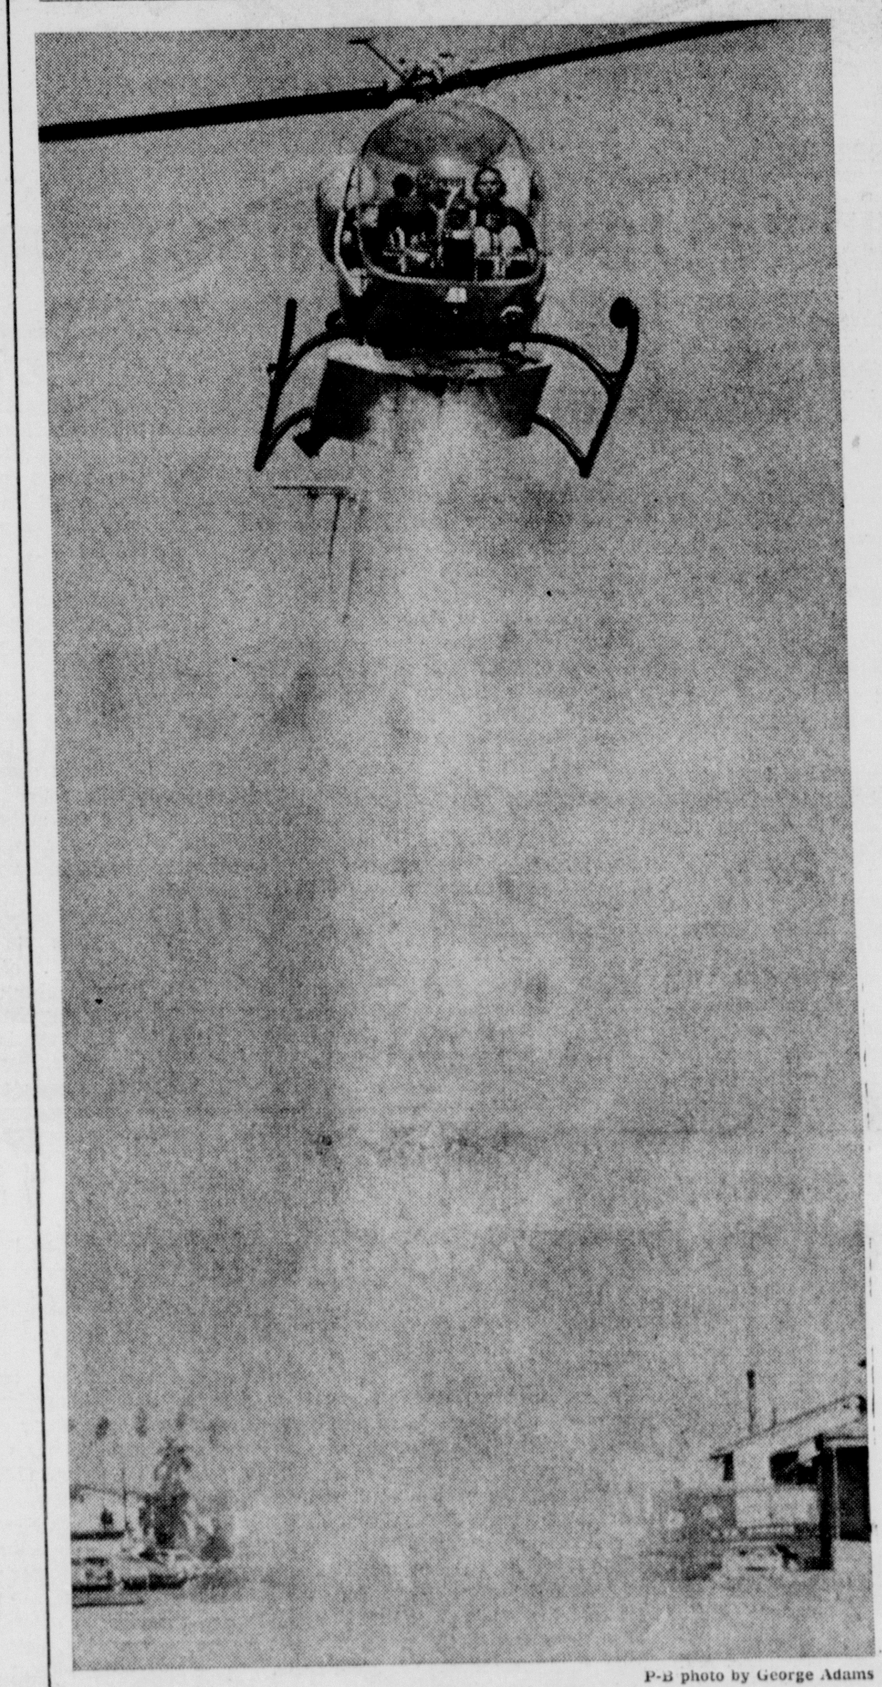

"The city has assumed the responsibility for the crossing guards," said Lapire. "It would have been nice if the school district had told us that there was to be summer school at X number of schools ahead of time."

"That information was sent to the police department," said Dr. Garrett C. Nichols, assistant superintendent of business services.

Ochoa suggested that the matter be reconsidered at the next joint meeting, with an "eye to ironing out the gray areas" and setting up a summer guard program.

Summer sessions at 20 elementary schools end July 26. The cost of placing guards at the schools for the remainder of the term was estimated at between $4,000 and $5,000.

Bader said that he hadn't realized crossing guards were not used during summer school.

GEARING UP

Pomona firemen Tuesday staged training procedures for fighting grass fires with the help of a police helicopter. Firemen on the ground signaled to the pilot where to make water drops. Firemen are gearing up for the summer grass fire season.

Mexican-Americans still angry with police

POMONA — A group of Mexican-Americans, still angered over police handling of a June 15 disturbance at the Eagles Lodge, charge that "nothing" has been done to resolve their grievances.

About 15 members of a group calling itself the "Minority Coalition for Equal Justice" told the City Council Monday night that "We have heard nothing" concerning grievances raised at the June 24 meeting.

Helen Fayloga, spokesman for the group, asked the council for a progress report on the grievances.

Mayor Ray Lepire said that a meeting was scheduled today between concerned citizens and police, including Chief F.P. Wallick, to "work out an understanding." Mrs. Fayloga indicated she had not been informed of the meeting.

Wallick said later he had been meeting with Nancy Lopez and other citizens, and would meet again today in an effort to prevent future problems such as the Eagles incident. "We're trying to get citizens to volunteer to monitor the dances, like the one held June 15," he added, "and we want to achieve a better spirit of understanding between police and people who sponsor the dances."

Mexican-American spokesmen chastised police at the June 24 council meeting for "over-reaction" and "police brutality" during the fracas at the lodge.

Eleven persons were arrested at the lodge, 954 W. Mission Blvd., after a rock and bottle-throwing incident following a dance. Nearly all those attending the dance were Mexican-Americans.

Police reports indicated a 17-year-old Pomona youth touched off the incident by throwing a pop bottle at a passing car, and another bottle at a police car. Some members of a group of about 200 persons which gathered later began throwing bottles, and more police converged on the scene.

Final arguments scheduled today in murder trial

POMONA — Closing arguments were scheduled today in the murder trial of Johnny R. Thomas, 28, and Roger L. Cox. 29, after the defense rested Tuesday afternoon.

Thomas and Cox are accused of murdering and robbing J.W. Clements, 40-year-old Corona man whose body was found in Live Oak Canyon March 19. He had been stabbed 23 times.

Pomona Superior Court Judge Carlos M. Teran told the jury members that they will be sequestered beginning tonight and will remain sequestered until a verdict is decided upon.

Thomas and Cox was arrested in Kansas several days after the slaying. They were returned here by sheriff's homicide detectives to face prosecution.

Fleet Reserve branch will name delegates

CHINO — Pomona Valley Branch 211 of the Fleet Reserve Association (FRA) will meet tonight at 8 at the American Legion Hall, 13130 Central Avenue.

Delegates will be elected to represent the branch at the FRA Southwest Regional convention in San Diego, and the national convention in Philadelphia, Pa.

The Ladies Auxiliary FRA, Unit 211, also will elect delegates to both conventions.

Branch secretary Ray Watson of Ontario said the branch is starting the new year with 116 members.

Auxiliary president Mary Tipping said a joint meeting will be held following the regular business meeting to plan branch and unit social activities for 1974-75.

Hearing set July 30 in explosion death

POMONA — Helaman Paul Hintze, 20-year-old San Dimas man, faces preliminary hearing July 30 in Pomona Municipal Court on murder and arson charges.

The date was set Monday during his arraignment, and he was released without bond.

Hintze was burned severely in the flash fire which all but leveled the house he lived in at 1117 Wehner Lane on May 22. He has been under treatment at the burn ward of County-USC Medical Center since the blast, but has been released.

The young man is charged with arson in the explosion and with murder in the death the day before of 3-year-old David Garza, son of the woman authorities said he was living with in San Dimas.

The little boy collapsed and died May 21 of internal injuries. Homicide detectives reported having been told that Hintze previously had kicked the child, but Hintze denied ever having mistreated the little boy.

Hintze appeared before Judge James Piatt for arraignment with his left arm bandaged heavily and he was forced to carry it straight our from his body. His face was blotched with scorch marks and his right hand was still pink.

Hospital spokesmen said immediately after Hintze was admitted that he had second-and third-degree burns over 46 per cent of his body.

Hintze was represented by Deputy Public Defender William Klump, who said that the defendant is still under medical treatment despite his release from the hospital. Hintze was released without having to post bond, partly because of a favorable investigation of his background by the sheriff's department and partly because of his physical condition, Klump said.

Condominium plan goes back to planners again

By GEORGE MacLAREN
P-B Staff Writer

CLAREMONT — The City Council Tuesday night climaxed nearly three hours of discussion on a proposed 18-unit condominium project in the Claremont Historical Overlay District by sending the matter back to the Planning Commission for a couple of revisions in the site plan.

The Planning Commission had by a unanimous vote granted a conditional use permit June 18 for H.B.W. Enterprises to construct the project on the southwest corner of Seventh Street and Yale Avenue.

C. Ray Fowler, 272 W. Seventh St., appealed the commission's decision, and the council Tuesday night held a public hearing on the appeal.

A Los Angeles attorney, Tom Winfield, representing Fowler and other neighboring residents, suggested that the four-plexes be divided into duplexes because the elevation plans show the two-story buildings as "massive, bulky, and obtrusive" structures.

He also suggested that parking be in the interior of the project in the plot plan, and that specimen trees be planted as part of the landscaping.

Councilman Frank Hungerford moved that the matter be sent back to the Planning Commission which would look into revising the four-plexes into smaller units and review the internal parking.

Architect Rufus Turner, representing developer Howard Weiner, said that if he had to make duplexes of the 18 units he would not be able to meet the code, which requires that all buildings be at least 20 feet apart.

Turner said he would be happy to sit down with Winfield and his clients to work out a satisfactory arrangement.

Hungerford said that it would not be fair for the developer if he had to decrease his density less than the proposed 18 units on the six parcels, and said he hoped the units could be arranged to preserve that density.

Turner objected to Winfield's using elevation plans as part of his appeal, and said that the Planning Commission had used only the site plan in approving the conditional use permit.

Councilwoman Eleanor Cohen said that she felt that the council should look at both the site plan and architectural renderings in considering whether to grant the appeal or deny it, but she also noted that the renderings are still a long way from ready.

She said that neighbors could appeal at the Architectural Commission meeting when the elevation plans were considered.

Councilwoman Claire McDonald said that the site plan fits the Historical Claremont ordinance as to density, and is harmonious to the district as a whole. She also felt that the architectural drawings should have something to do with the council's decision.

Councilman Gene Block agreed that the plan meets the ordinance in spirit.

Dick Collins of 355 W. Sixth St. called the Historical Claremont District a hodge-podge of houses, and said that all buildings "grew up" individually. He said there is no homogeneity in the neighborhood. He called the proposed project "an affront and a threat to our way of life."

The reason for 'get Henry' move

Secretary of State Henry Kissinger has performed for the United States with greater effect than did the Metternichs, Gladstones or Disraelis, Richlieus, or whoever for their nations. And under far different circumstances.

But the cry is Hang Henry now.

All he has done as the most casual reader or listener or viewer of the news is aware, is bring about a disengagement in the Middle East with a prospect of lasting peace. He has been the architect of detente with the Soviet Union. He helped pave the way for a reopening of relations with China and of course he helped bring about the disengagement of forces and withdrawal of U.S. troops from Vietnam.

So why hang Henry?

The rationale runs the gamut from his having engaged in wiretapping to having perjured himself before Congress.

If any Secretary of State with a bean didn't turn toward finding why his department and-or his efforts were being leaked during critical negotiations involving national security, someone should bounce him off the Washington Monument.

What apparently happened in this instance is that the President wanted to plug the leaks and asked Kissinger who had access to his data. At that point there were taps put on some telephones. Big deal!

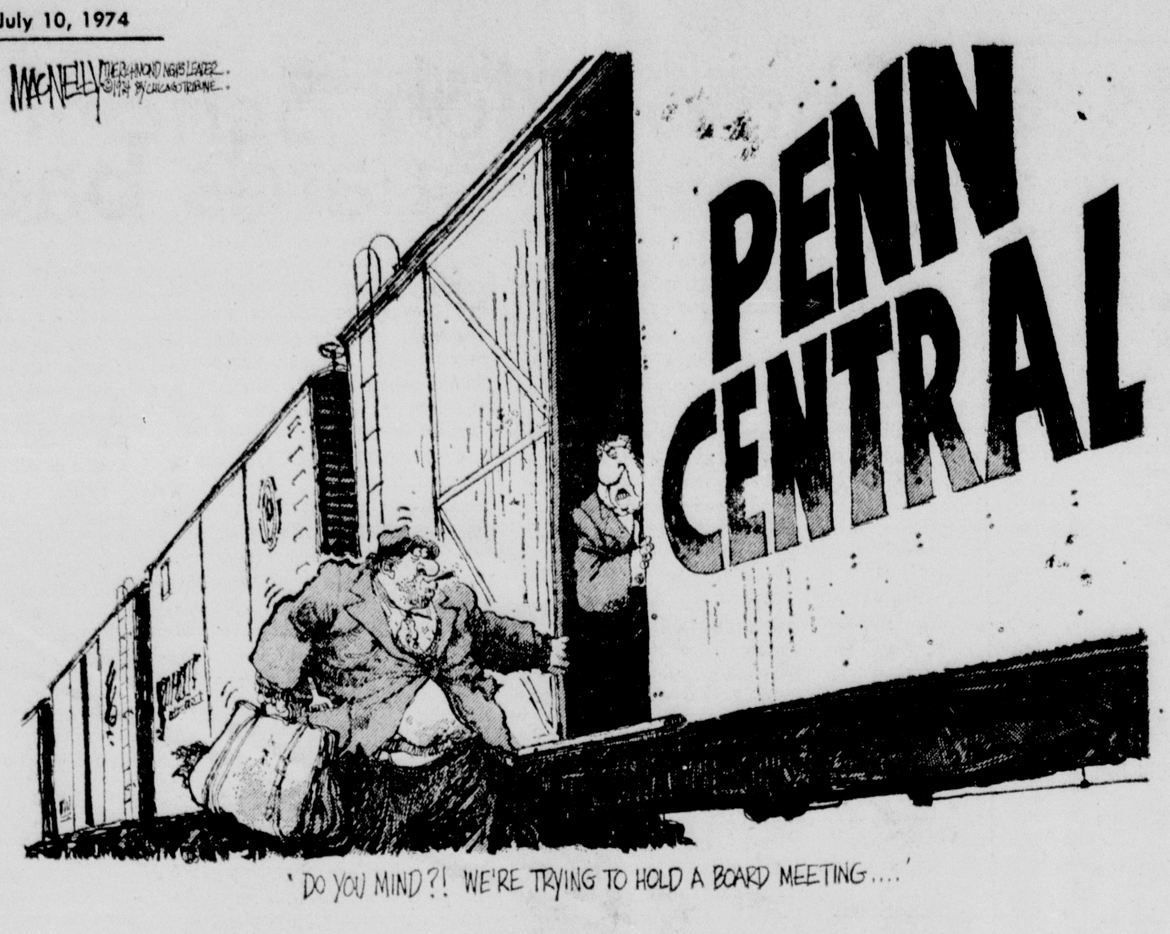

Kissinger also has put down the gauntlet to Congress on the matter of misleading or lying to them. This is a man of high intellect, keen wit, integrity and ego. Congress, obviously is going to have to sift the evidence, and just as obviously it is going to come up with an answer that Kissinger is clean.

The good Dr. Kissinger's problem is not going out with pretty girls or having gotten married to a delightful woman.

He is Secretary of State to a President who a whale of a lot of people want to hang in effigy if not in person. The fact that Kissinger wouldn't be Secretary of State unless President Nixon had appointed him, and that his accomplishments are as much the President's as his own is not material to the detractors.

President Nixon and Dr. Henry Kissinger have done more for this nation's foreign policy than any combo in our history. If the President has erred some place he will pay for it and may pay whether he has erred or not.

But to get at the President Henry must hang, too.

Engineers rattled by citizen's book

WASHINGTON — The Army Corps of Engineers have never learned that it's not nice to fool Mother Nature. But they're fast finding out that they shouldn't mess around with Martin Heuvelmans.

For more than a decade, this 71-year-old retired businessman has been investigating the engineer corps' 150-year, $28 billion effort to facelift the American continent. His findings have so rattled the brass hats that they have issued official orders on how to handle him.

This remarkable tale began in 1959, when Heuvelmans, a Belgian immigrant, bought a small plot of land in southern Florida and settled down to fish away his sunset years.

By day, Heuvelmans and his grandson angled the beautiful St. Lucie River for trout. In the evening, they dined on the day's catch.

On occasion, he noticed, the river turned muddy and the trout stopped running. He queried his neighbors. "Oh, that's the Army engineers running mud through the dam," they told him.

Heuvelmans thought about it. The more he pondered, the angrier he got. He conducted his own private investigation and concluded that the tons of sludge pouring down the river resulted, he said, from "the incompetent construction" of the St. Lucie Canal by the Army Corps of Engineers.

The corps, however, was too busy damming rivers, filling swamps and digging canals to bother with the protests of a testy old man who couldn't catch enough trout. So Heuvelmans complained to some congressmen. Their form letters thanked him for writing and assured him of the corps' concern for the public welfare.

Incensed, Heuvelmans launched a full-scale probe of corps projects across the nation. After a decade of digging, his findings have now been published in a book, "The River Killers." It is bylined simply "Martin Heuvelmans, Citizen."

The book describes how the corps "defiled Florida's waterways" with silt, sludge and slime. It attacks "the corps' wanton killing of America's rivers" from the Potomac to the Sacramento Delta.

The corps survives, Heuvelmans charges, by spending $1.6 billion annually on pork barrel projects dear to the hearts of powerful congressmen. The civil works branch of the corps, Heuvelmans concludes, should be abolished.

Heuvelmans' publisher, Stackpole Books of Harrisburg, Pa., arranged a publicity tour for the septuagenarian author. To everyone's surprise, however, Army Corps of Engineers spokesmen refused to appear on radio or television to reply to Heuvelmans. A general who had been scheduled to appear with Heuvelmans on Metromedia's Panorama television talk show in Washington, for example, backed out at the last minute.

We have now found out why. An internal corps memo, entitled "Policy Guidance on Responding to Inquiries on Book "The River Killers," explains it all.

Falsely charging that Heuvelmans had paid to get his own book published, the memo instructs corps employes: "Caution should be exercised to avoid helping the sale of the book. Debate with the author either in person, on radio, or on television should not be sought and voided insofar as possible."

The brass hats ordered "a conscious effort" be made "to emphasize the positive aspects . . . of Corps activities . . . A large number of Congressional inquiries regarding the book are anticipated. We are preparing a generalized response to the earliest of these, and will provide a copy to the field for reference and consistency."

Gossip for today

In today's world some things are as inevitable as night following day. And whether we like it or not we may as well face the facts. Have you noticed, for instance—

—That those who claim divine power are always the one who, when the going gets tough, are the first to shout long and loud for divine forgiveness?

—That one of the big disappointments vacationists are experiencing these days is that they can't see the forest because of the people?

—That a lot of our statesmen who would never think of giving the country back to the Indians are none-the-less giving it away in one form or another to practically any nation in the world that thinks it needs a handout?

—That even though we're bragging about how we are engineering world peace, it has already cost us upwards of $10 million to wage war on Symbionese Liberation Army troops?

And perhaps most frustrating of all, have you noticed that when they finally run out of anyone else to imitate, our TV stand-up comic imitators start imitating the imitators?

It's all very discouraging—but then, as Confucius is alleged to have once remarked: If inevitability is inevitable, relax and enjoy it!

TOM TIEDE

Sky's the limit for presidential gifts

WASHINGTON — If there is any single factor which threads together the sins of the White House felons, it is that none obeyed the constitutional mandate of public accountability.

Secrecy and arrogance dictated the actions of the Colsons and Magruders. But though the lesson is painfully clear to the rest of the nation, some sequestered in the Richard Nixon bunker still have not gotten the thought.

One of the latest example of Executive Office evasion occurred when a reporter inquired about presidential gifts to foreign dignitaries. The occasion, of course, resulted from the mild criticism which accompanied the almost offhand presentation of a $2 million military helicopter (and, temporarily, its crew) to Egypt's Anwar Sadat.

Sen. Robert Byrd, (D-W. Va.), for one, wondered before his colleagues about the propriety of the generosity: "The question that comes immediately to me is the obvious one. Was this helicopter. . .his to give away to the head of a foreign government? By what authority (did Nixon) act?"

The reporter asked nothing more than an answer to the senator's questions. What he received was the cold shoulder at first and, at second, ridiculous gobbledygook. After referring the reporter to the State Department, which referred the reporter to the White House, which again (six times) referred the reporter to the State Department, one White House staffer, Bruce Whelihan, said with heavy concern:

"We don't like to talk about the gifts the President gives. We don't like one recipient to know what the other has received. That's natural. You know, it's like having two girl friends, you just never tell the first what you are going to give the second."

As it happened, the newsman eventually got the information from head-shaking State Department officials. Though they, too, did "not think the subject was a public one," and in fact were "told not to answer questions about it," they yielded in the end.

Stuart Rockwell, acting chief of protocol, said funds for most presidential gifts come from a limited cache in the protocol division. "We usually give small gifts, symbolic of American craftsmanship." He added that in some cases the gifts (such as the silver Chevrolet just given Leonid Brezhnev) "were donated by manufacturers for the purpose."

Rockwell could not answer questions on the specific helicopter. "That was out of our hands." Other protocol people said that the President "obviously just decided to give what he wanted to give." But apparently, say legal authorities, he has the full right.

Chapter 22, section 2395 of the U.S. Code allows the president to "make any loans, advances, and grants to any. . .friendly government or government agency. . .in furtherance of (healthy foreign relations)." In this case a "grant" could be a helicopter; President Roosevelt used to give destroyers during World War II.

So it seems the Sadat gift was legally correct, even though the Byrd concern with the moral implications of "lavish" giving may still be fair game for debate. And it is true, too, as Nixonians intimate, a $2 million gift may not be the stuff of impeachment in a nation that pays $30 billion annually for interest on its public debt.

Yet the experience of the inquiring reporter is a depressing example of the unbecoming, unnecessary, unlawful suppression of even harmless information in the White House. Small wonder that reporters, as anyone else seeking truth in the administration, are reduced to eavesdropping and leak-catching for public intelligence.

As Democrat Lawrence O'Brien says it: "Is this any way to run a country?"

It's not. It's the politics of gossamer web — what you see is next to nothing. Richard Nixon may or may not be guilty of high crimes and misdemeanors, but he rightfully can be faulted for ignorance of the Constitution — especially that part which covers public accountability. He may have read it, as Harry Truman is alleged to have said, "but if he did, he didn't understand it."

Lonely moon

Five years ago, on July 20, 1969, the world was watching one of history's truly notable and significant events.

Neil Armstrong became the first man to set foot on the moon. . .that "small step for a man, a giant leap for mankind."

It was man's first demonstration that he could survive on another celestial body. It was the foundation of a new capability in the study of his solar system, his galaxy his universe.

Scientific knowledge has been enormously expanded by the Apollo missions, and even though that enterprise has been concluded and lunar exploration is quiescent while the studies and evaluations of its findings continue, the moon will not remain a lonely satellite forever.

Where men will go next, no one really knows. Back to the moon, certainly. To Mars? Probably, since it has been studied and is being studied. When more is known about its potential hospitality, man will go there. . .if there's any chance at all of survival.

That small step changed our future, indeed. We have "looked upon the stars and claimed them as our own."

PAUL HARVEY

Not all Indians equal, either

The cumbersome mismanagement of Indian Affairs by our government's Bureau of Indian Affairs derives mostly from the tendency of the bureaucracy to "lump 'em." Not all Indians are equal, either.

Few Indians are as gifted at weaving as the Navajos. No other Indians have the facility for silver sculpture as the Zunis. And wait'll you hear what the formerly warlike Apaches are up to.

In the ignominious record of Uncle Sam's disposal of the "Indian problem" there's blood on every page. And when the tribes were disarmed and herded into exile, the Apaches were "given" what government agents doubtless considered the most worthless acreage on the North American continent—a clump of mountains surrounded by our nation's most austere desert in what is now southern New Mexico.

Possessions had always been more a burden than a benefit to nomadic tribes. To this day our property-oriented economic philosophy is unnatural to most Indians.

But in their own self-interest some Indians of some tribes are beginning to accept the white man's way of equating progress with possessions.

I spent a recent weekend on the half-million-acre reservation of the Mescalero Apaches in New Mexico. For breakfast my gracious hosts served tried bread and yucca spread because they knew their guest would expect "something Indian." Elected Tribal President Wendell Chino, his wife and the tribal counsel ate their usual bacon and eggs.

Then by helicopter I air-witnessed an Indian wedding of the past and the future.

I saw preserved and protected herds of wild horses, elk and mule deer. Then I landed and inspected a gigantic cattle operation which is carefully rotated between high and low pastures for balanced land use and maximum productivity.

Only the brand remains reminiscent: a bow and arrow. I saw the fragile Ponderosa forests rescued from fire and sheltered from bulldozers, while in the valley a multimillion-dollar resort complex is under construction, including facilities for golf and tennis, riding and hiking and hunting, fishing and skiing.

Without ordinances—with just native intelligence — the Mescalero Apaches space their modern, immaculate houses. They can hunt on tribal lands any time, but voluntarily they hunt in season. They log their forests of fir, pine and spruce without leveling them.

They use their land and water without overusing. Now before somebody in Washington tries to claim credit for this Eden-to-Eden evolution, let me add that it had to be accomplished in spite of the red tape and recalcitrance of the Bureau of Indian Affairs.

The Mescalero Apaches refute the stereotype. They mean business. The wasteland to which they were exiled is bursting into bloom mostly because it is liberally watered with local sweat.

Paperclips, too?

So now it's a paperclip shortage.

Steelmills, it seems, have been cutting back on the production of low-grade wire for paper clips in favor of more profitable high-grade steel. So says the president of a company that manufactures a quarter of the world's estimated annual output of 20 billion paperclips. The result is that paper clips have more than doubled in price in the past year — if you can get them.

This is another blow to bureaucracy, which has already been hit by shortages and rising costs of the paper that paperclips are designed to clip. So far, however, it can be reported that the supply of red tape is as plentiful as ever.

Bilingual education

The following facts are presented to clarify the need and justification for bilingual education in the public schools:

Slightly more than two million Spanish surnamed pupils attend elementary and secondary schools in the continental United States. Approxmately 1.4 million, or about 70 percent of the Spanish surnamed pupils attend public schools in the five Southwest States of Arizona, California, Colorado, New Mexico and Texas.

Recently, a series of six published reports by the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights revealed the extent of ethnic isolation of Mexican Americans in the public schools of the Southwest. These reports have showed the limited participation of Mexican Americans in the education process and described the extent to which they are isolated from their Anglo counterparts.

Many Anglo-American stereotypes are revealed in the following justifications which prohibited the use of Spanish in the schools:

—English is the standard language in the United States and all citizens must learn it.

—The pupil's best intersests are served if he speaks English well; English enhances his opportunity for education and employment while Spanish is a handicap.

—Proper English enables Mexican Americans to compete with Anglos.

—Teachers and Anglo pupils do not speak Spanish; it is impolite to speak a language not understood by all.

The Commission's findings have indicated that these justifications had limited perspective in helping the child attain proficiency in basic skills. In a few districts where bilingual education is now trickling into the schools as a program for learning, students are beginning to master their basic skills, learn English and maintan their bilingual (Spanish-English) ability.

Bilingual education is an educational innovation which permits non-English speaking children to develop to their full potential as bilingual, bicultural Americans. At the same time, it permits English-speaking children to benefit by developing similar bilingual and bicultural abilities and sensitivities.

Bilingual education develops reading and writing skills in the child's native tongue while simultaneously introducing English language skills. The child's culture becomes an essential component of the entire school experience. In general, bilingual-bicultural education builds on the child's skills, such as language skills, rather than ignoring or suppressing them. The child's familiar experiences, community, and cultural heritage are incorporated into the educational program, rather than being excluded.

The Pomona Schools Bilingual program's efforts over the past several years have resulted in positive and measurable achievement of students participating in these classes. Both the federal and state governments have become actively involved in supporting bilingual education. However, these programs reach only a small percentage of the Mexican American children needing them.

The Pomona school dissrict has generated a quality bilingual program that will continue to develop. The results of the program can best be appreciated by visiting one or two classrooms to see first hand the involvement and participating of ALL students. I encourage you to schedule visits by calling Ken Noonan, the Bilingual Program Director, 623-5251, Ext. 328. — John Avila, Pomona.

Fatal shooting by deputy under investigation

RIVERSIDE (UPI) — A 26-year-old deputy sheriff has been temporarily suspended pending the outcome of an investigation into the fatal shooting of a man last Friday.

Authorities said deputy Dave Neher was called to quell a disturbance at the Desert Hot Springs Moose Lodge where he allegedly shot and killed Theodore M. Zurilgen, 55, Cathedral City.

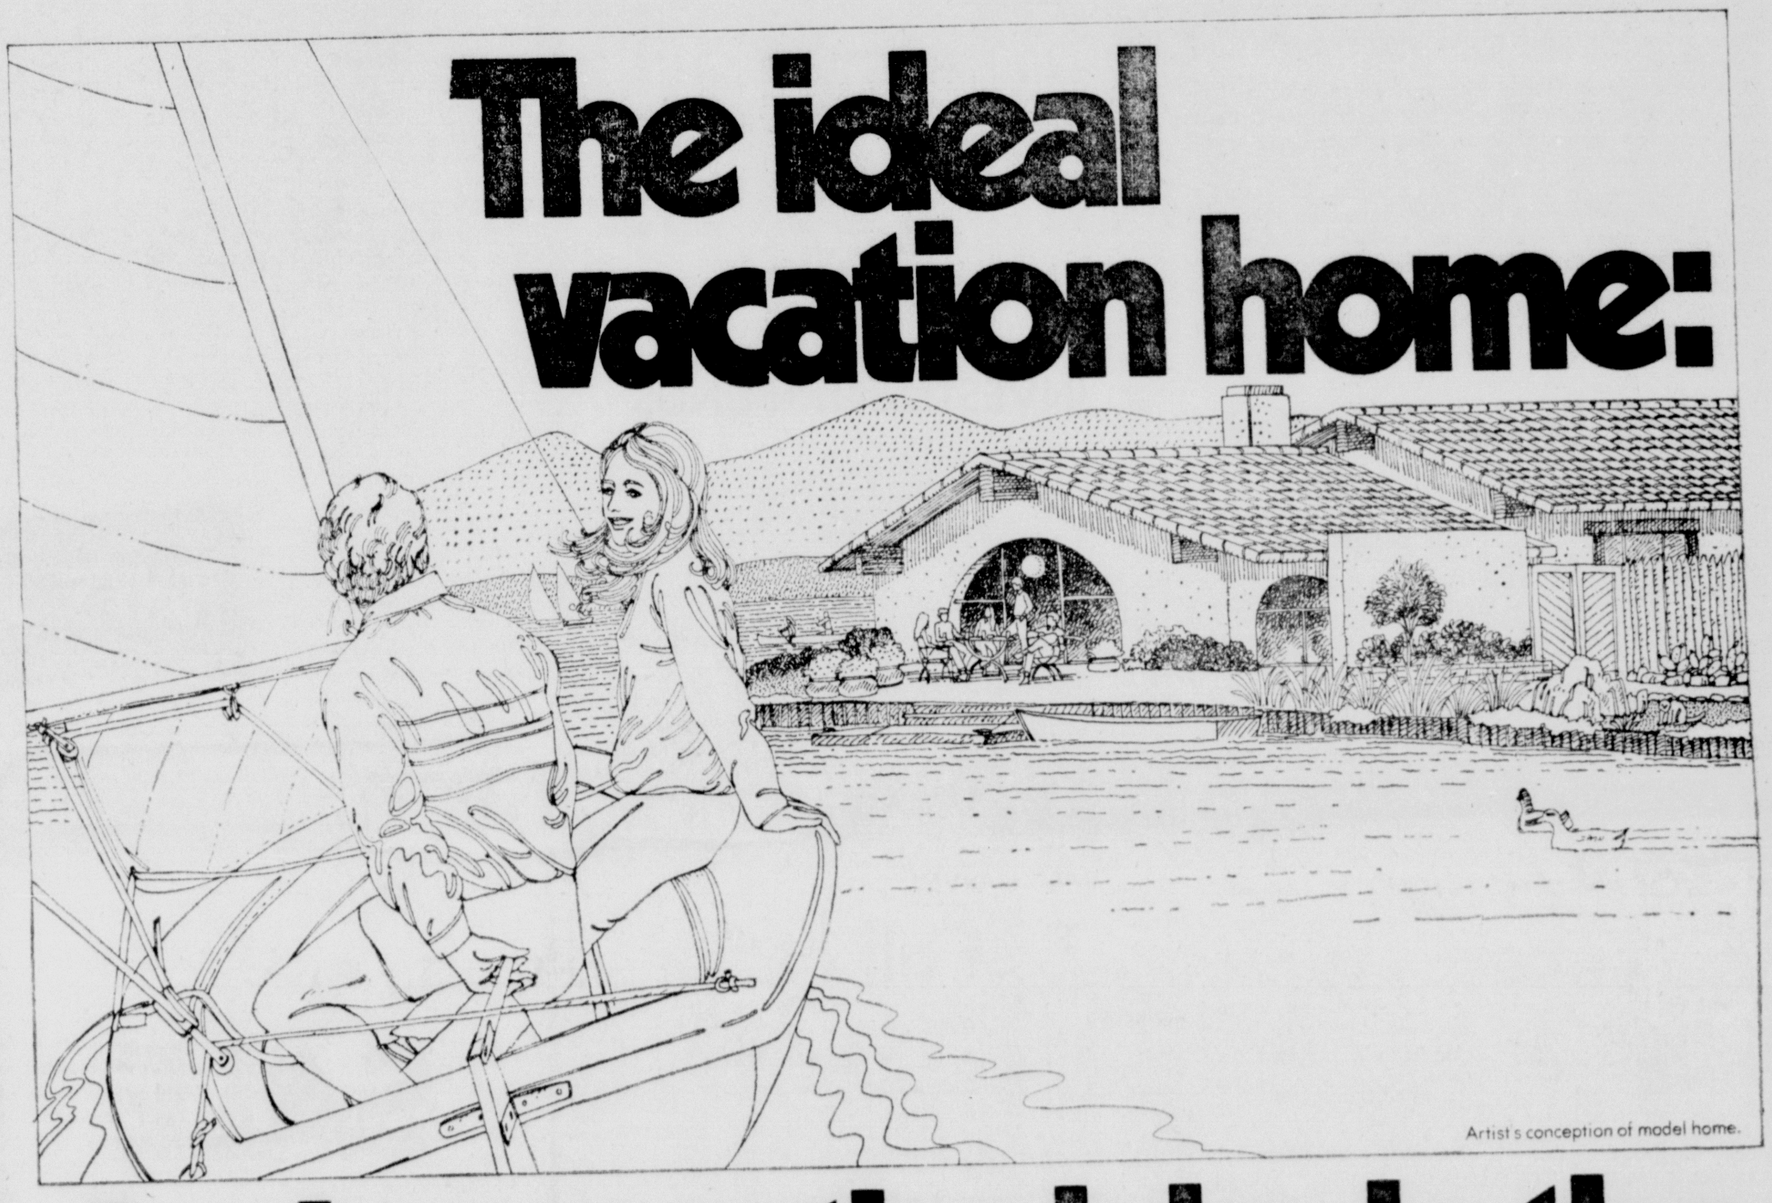

Zurilgen allegedly brandished a gun and made threats when he was denied admittance to the lodge. Zurilgen was found to be unarmed, however, after the shooting.

2 escape from burning plane

HAWTHORNE (UPI) — A single-engine plane burst into flames Monday just seconds after its pilot and his son escaped from the craft.

Authorities said the low-wing Spartan Trainer was about 60 feet off the ground with its landing gear up when it suddenly lost power, forcing Richard Young, Inglewood, to belly land the craft. He and his son, Gary, escaped before the plane burst into flames.

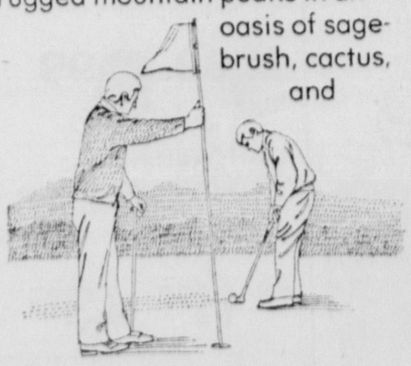

The ideal vacation home:

Artist's conception of model home.

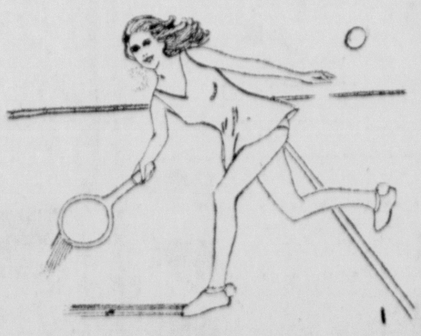

A place on the lake in the middle of the desert.

With a vacation home at Silver Lakes in the high desert of the Mojave, your family's only problem will be what to enjoy first. Set against a backdrop of rugged mountain peaks in an oasis of sagebrush, cactus, and cottonwood, Silver Lakes is a multi-million dollar, water-oriented resort community centered around two shimmering blue lakes. The lakes are complete and ready for sailing. Or fishing. Or just living near.

27-hole Golf Course. Golf will most certainly rival water sports in popularity at Silver Lakes. By Fall 1974, there'll be three interlocking 9-hole courses ready for your foursome. By early '75, an adjacent public clubhouse and overnight lodge, privately owned and operated. The challenging 27-hole layout was designed by famed golf course architect Ted Robinson of Palos Verdes.

Entertainment Center. Our massive, million dollar Silver Lakes Racquet Club is already open and welcoming visitors. Right now families are enjoying tennis, swimming, whirlpool, shuffleboard, entertaining in the elegant restaurant and cocktail lounge. Also ready: beaches and launching ramps at both lakes; 30-acre Cottonwood Park & Wildlife Preserve.

Estate planning needs attention

By ROGER SPEAR

Q — I don't believe you have ever discussed estate planning. I am in my early 40s and would like some pointers on this important subject. —P.F.

A — You are right, this subject has not been specifically covered here for a long time. Estate planning is something that younger people tend to put off and something that older people, having done, tend to forget. But an estate is a living thing which needs early nurturing and periodic attention. An estate plan has three phases: building, preservation and distribution. The latter usually receives the most attention. However, in order to have an estate to distribute you must accumulate something that can be distributed. This means budgeting, creating a savings plan and investment program, having adequate life insurance, planning for emergencies and taking advantage of tax savings devices. An array of professionals — lawyers, tax advisors, accountants, investment counselors and financial planners—are available to guide you. Take advantage of their services.

As for specific pointers on how to evaluate your assets and plan your estate, there are several preliminary steps to take. First you should compute your net worth (assets minus liabilities). This should include the appreciated or current value of real estate and investments as well as the cash value of life insurance and your interest in your company's pension or profit-sharing plan.

In order to get an idea of your total estate value, add the face value of your insurance and other death beneifts. If you have not drawn up a will, do so. Should you already have a will, make certain it is current, including the chosen executor. Be sure that your life insurance plan provides the amount of coverage you need according to your current and projected fmalncial conditions. Reexamine your savings and investment programs. If your objectives have changed, then make the necessary changes to fit your new goal. Consult a tax advisor on methods of reducing your estate tax liabilities, where necessary.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) The market has seen some panic selling in the past few days, but the volume on the New York Stock Exchange has not been high, acording to Dreyfus Fund. "The market is really concerned about inflation and the possibility of a major deflation," the firm says.

The slight business slowdown and decline in profits which lie ahead actually could be a blessing for the stock market "since they will bring with them a dampened inflation and a lower structure of interest rates," according to the Inverness Counsel. The firm believes under normal conditions "many stocks would be considered bargains at half their current earnings."

Laidlaw-Coggeshall believes the market is due for a turnround to the upside. And for that reason, the firm believes now "is obviously the time to buy stocks and patiently await the outcome." The firm says the "downside risk appears limited with upside potential great."

"Whether the market rallies from current levels, a high degree of caution is advised," according to Merkin & Co. "Any rally could be very temporary. A lack of a rally could lead to a further considerable drop with a possible downside of 650,700 in the Dow Jones industrials," the firm said.

The downward bias the market has shown laterly is "not indicative of any serious selling pressure," according to E.F. Hutton & Co. The firm noted there has been an absence of bids lately. Whether this trend continues should be known soon, the firm says.

Public companies should "not give up on Wall Street" despite the disappointing performances of most stocks, says Martin A. Cohen Associates of Fairfield, Conn. The firm points out Wall Street traditionally has provided the financing for business expansion and acquisition. "The company that turns its back on the financial community today will find it more difficult to arrange equity financing when the investment climate changes," it adds.

"Reported profits were up some 27 per cent in 1973 and up close to 20 per cent year-to-year, in the first quarter of 1974, but common stock prices over the same period have shown one of the worst declines in decades," according to Argus Research Corp. The firm predicts a 10 per cent gain in 1975 profits, which will not be inflated artificially by the sharp price increases of 1974. "The combination of a 10 per cent advance in profits of higher quality and a substantial decline in short-term interest rates will lift stock prices some 20 to 25 per cent from present levels over the next year," it forecast.

The first signs inflation is beginning to abate have appeared, says the Predictor, indicating higher stock prices between now and year-end. The West Hartford, Conn., firm cites an easing of commodity prices, consumer resistance to higher prices, strong capital spending, and continued technological advances. "All of this will help turn the tide against inflation," it says, "and although we do not expect the turn to come overnight, the wheels are already in motion."

Pamphlet available to readers

"Some Straight Talk about a Rather Sticky Subject" is a new pamphlet of questions and answers addressed to parents wondering about pre-sweetened cereals and their relationship to good nutrition and dental health.

Just published by General Mills, it is available without charge by writing "Some Straight Talk", Box 234A, General Mills, Inc., Minneapolis, Minn. 55460.

Less than three percent of a child's annual sugar intake comes from pre-sweetened cereals, according to a study based on U.S. Department of Agriculture data and cited in the pamphlet.

The pamphelt contains some "do's" for parents concerning breakfast, nutrition in general and dental health. It concludes with a list of references of the studies cited.

Ask Dr. Brothers

Policeman changes

By DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: My husband joined the police force six months ago, two years after we were married. We knew each other a long time before we finally decided to get married and I thought I knew everything about him, but since he's become a policeman he's changed. I'm afraid I'm falling out of love with him and this worries and depresses me. He seems to have become bitter and angry and this isn't the man I married.

He seems to be much more aggressive toward me and the children by my former marriage. He's quick-tempered and has a negative attitude about everybody. Our friends have noticed this change too and I think they're hurt by his sharp remarks more than he realizes. He seems quick to take offense and he misinterprets perfectly innocent remarks as attacks on him. I'm so upset by these changes that if something doesn't change soon I may consider getting a divorce. O.B.

Dear O.B.: Before you seriously consider divorce give your marriage a second chance and think about getting outside counselling. Your husband is in a difficult, trying profession and he would probably profit from professional advice that could help to restore and revive your marriage.

Most police officers start out as well-adjusted idealists, but because of the stresses of their work they may undergo personality changes. These changes can occur within as little as three months and may contribute to the negative public image of police.

Studies by Dr. William H. Kroes, a Cincinnati psychologist, showed that police enter their work as eager idealists, wanting recognition, wanting to do what's right, seeking reponsibility and hoping to contribute to society. Soon, the stresses of the work give them what he calls a "John Wayne syndrome." They become over-serious, cynical, emotionally withdrawn and authoritarian. He feels the high rate of alcoholism, ulcers, suicide and heart attacks among police are closely related to the severe stresses of their work.

When you consider public hostility toward the police, it's not too surprising that they may consider the world their enemy. I don't know what your husband did before he became a policeman but change, even a pleasant one, produces stress. People react differently to stress, some become physically ill, some become depressed and others become hostile and angry.

Many policemen, because of the stress in their jobs, have a desire to associate primarily with other policemen and their families when they are off the job. Often, they even move into different communities just to be with some of their fellow officers. This isn't usually wise because it only increases their feelngs of suspicion toward all outsiders.

It will be to your advantage and his if you can help your husband through this difficult period and reassure him that that his old friends will continue to be his friends if he's willing to accept them and give them a chance. It will help him in his job if he spends more of his off-duty time with civilians or non-police, as this helps to give him some perspective on the outside world.

Try to remember that through most of your husband's work day, he sees only the worst in mankind. If he is a sensitive man, this is bound to affect him. You can save your marriage if you will try to talk with him, to express your feelings honestly, and also to give him understanding.

New cook book out for budget minded

In the past three years, the price of meat has increased 50.7 per cent and the U.S. Department of Agriculture predicts high meat prices for the rest of 1974.

How does one stay within the grocery budget without reducing the standard of eating? One way is to learn how to make meat go further.

Better Homes and Gardens new "Meat Stretcher Cook Book" explains just how to do that. Designed for today's budget-minded homemaker, the 112-page book offers 274 delicious recipes, as well as hints and tips that explain how to stretch the meat dollar at the supermarket.

There are also many meatless main dishes. The recipes use tuna, clams, shrimp and salmon with cheese and include main dishes centered around zucchini, tomatoes, potatoes, beans and spinach.

Among the recipes are:

DIPPED BEEF SANDWICHES

In a skillet combine one 10½-ounce can condensed beef broth, 2-3 cup water, 1 tablespoon snipped parsley, 1 small bay leaf, ¼ teaspoon onion powder and ¼ teaspoon dry mustard. Add 12 thin slices cooked roast beef. Simmer, uncovered, 10 minutes. Remove bay leaf. Lift beef slices from broth and serve 3 slices on each of 4 split hard rolls. Serve broth in small bowls as a dip with each sandwich. Makes 4 sandwiches.

MAIN DISH PEACH-BEEF TOSS

- 4 cups torn romaine
- 3 cups torn spinach
- 1½ cups cooked beef cut in strips
- 3 medium peaches, peeled, pitted and sliced (1½ cups)
- 1 avocado, peeled, pitted and sliced
- 12 Cherry tomatoes, halved

Horseradish Dressing

Combine the romaine, spinach, beef strips, peaches, avocado and cherry tomatoes in a salad bowl. Toss salad with Horseradish Dressing. Serve immediately. Serves 6.

Horseradish Dressing: In screw-top jar combine ½ cup salad oil, 3 tablespoons vinegar, 1 teaspoon prepared horseradish, ½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, ½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper and 2 drops bottled hot pepper sauce. Cover; shake well.

November nuptials planned

Miss Barbara Searfoss and George Speicher are planning a November wedding.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin C. Searfoss of Fullerton is a sixth grade teacher in the Corona-Norco School District. She graduated from Chino High School in 1968 and received a B.A. degree in English from California State University in San Diego.

Her fiance is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Speicher of Pasadena. He graduated from John Muir High School in 1967 and from Cal State San Diego with a B.S. in marketing.

Mr. Speicher is the Orange County District manager for CALGAS, Inc.

Scholarships awarded

Scholarships were awarded this month by the Business and Professional Women's Foundation to 93 women from 33 states and the District of Columbia for career-related study. A total of $24,645 was distributed at ths time for academic and vocational courses which will assist women 25 and over to re-enter the job market, to prepare for advancement in their fields, or to change careers.

Recipients have studies in programs ranging from floral design, law, business administration, and cosmetology, to law enforcement, counseling, and dentistry.

The Career Advancement Scholarship program was establishin 1970 by the Business and Professional Women's Foundation to assist mature women who find it difficult to obtain loans or grants from other sources. The average scholarship is small — $300 for a year's study — but more than $220,000 has been provided over the four years of the program's existence to 857 women in all 50 states, the District of Columbia, and Puerto Rico.

Applicants must be 25 years of age or older, and must have the ability to undetake the proposed program and to use the desired training in a practical and immediate way. Because hundreds of applications are received each time the scholarships are awarded, financial need is a key requirement.

The Career Advancement Scholarship program is supported through contributions from BPW members and clubs and through grants from a number of foundations and corporations. Grants during the past year have come from the Avon Products Foundation, Borg-Warner Foundation, Connecticut General Insurance Corporation, Crown-Zellerbach Foundation, Exxon Education Foundation, Mobil Foundation, Jessie Smith Noyes Foundation, J.C. Penney Company, PPG Industries Foundation, Standard Oil Company of California, and the Elizabeth Firth Wade Endowment.

Yesterday's Discards-- TODAY'S TREASURES by Jean Barnes

A dealer told me that paper was getting to be collectible now. I thought I would pick up some paper things for investment. What do you think?—B.G.G., Franklin, Ind.

By "paper" I assume you mean postcards, greeting cards, sheet music, newspapers, magazines, land grants and a host of other things. Some persons have been predicting this for several years but as a fad it hasn't really caught the collector's fancy.

If you are interested in paper items you could make a good collection now because it is very plentiful. However, the same rules apply as to other collecting—buy only what you like, select the best you can afford and don't expect any profit on your investment except personal enjoyment.

I like old things and am just beginning to collect a few pieces. Can you recommend a good general information book that I would use?—L.L., Fort Worth, Tex.

One of the best books I have found for beginning collectors is "A Fortune in the Junkpile" by Dorothy H. Jenkins. This book is almost an introduction to many fields of collecting. You will want to add more specialized books to your library as your collection expands. A check with your local library or a knowledgeable dealer in antiques will help you in selecting more advanced books in your field. Have fun.

At a recent antique show, we saw a Hires root beer mug with high price on it. Are they really that scarce? C.W— Wichita, Kan.

This could have been a Mettlach mug made by Villeroy and Boch expressly for the Hires company. Anything with the Mettlach name generally commands a higher price.

I recently purchased a "cut glass" decanter for $35. I knew it was a reproduction but the label read "cut glass from Germany." I later discovered the glass was pressed pattern with only the small rose in the center cut with a wheel. How do you tell real cut glass?—T.K., Jackson, Mich.

Welcome to the club. Almost every collector has had a similar experience. Cut glass is generally brilliant in light, sharp to the touch. Get busy and find some good cut glass to examine. Train your fingers and your eyes to recognize quality before buying another piece.

(Jean Barnes will answer your questions in this column. She cannot answer by mail or telephone and no monetary appraisals will be given. Please send your questions to TODAY'S TREASURERS in care of this newspaper.)

Interest charges

"DEAR MISS VANDERBILT: Some companies now charge horrendous interest if the account remains unpaid beyond 30 days. The following is printed on the bill: 'Charge customers: To avoid additional finance charge, the new balance must be paid and received within 30 days of the closing date of this statement.'

"The snag is that the 'closing date' referred to is typed on the bill and, in all cases I have checked so far, is about week prior to the postmark on the envelope. Since these bills are often from halfway across the country and sent by ordinary mail, they can take an additional five or six days to reach their destinations.

"Instead of having 30 days in which to pay the bill, the customer ends up having to pay it almost by return mail—or be charged 12 per cent! I know it's not fair, but is it legal? —H.J., Summit, N.J."

If this happend to me, I would be tempted to wait the full 30 days after receiving the bill, then enclose the check for the exact amount with a memorandum that would say "Your bill was received on such and such a date. I am paying it within the allowed 30 days which I am figuring from the receipt of the bill, not from the closing date of your statement."

I would also punch a few holes in the statement so that it would have to come out of the computer and be attended to by human hands. If the company still insisted on the 12 per cent interest, I would close my account and refuse to pay it. Would they sue? A good question. I think Consumer Affairs belongs in this picture.

"DEAR MISS VANDERBILT: My daughter-in-law dresses her 9-year-old girl as a miniature of herself, which means completely unsuitably. She gives her home permanents when all the other little girls are wearing straight hair. I feel my granddaughter doesn't really 'belong' with her group. Is there anything I can do about this? —Mrs. R.J., Medford, Ore."

Little girls of 9 very often have strong opinions of their own. I am sure your granddaughter will soon protest that she is being dressed unsuitably, that her hair is "all wrong." Just be patient. Don't interfere.

"DEAR MISS VANDERBILT: Will you tell me the correct time and occasion to wear a long skirt? I see them being worn to church and on the street. I adore them, but hesitate to wear one because I am unsure of what is correct. I am in my 60s. Does age make any difference? —Mrs. N.E., Memphis, Tenn."

At this moment, fashion says any length is suitable. Age has nothing to do with it.

Ask The Cook
By Nan Wiley

While I was going through my files yesterday, I came across an item I had featured on a weekly menu sheet years ago when I was food consultant for a major grocery chain. Just as timely today, it is a comparison of two types of breakfast, their calorie count and staying power. If you get the mid-morning lags, it may depend on what you eat.

This first breakfast keeps you going nicely for 4½ hours. Four ounces of orange juice (54 calories), 1 poached egg (77), 1 slice enriched white toast (64), 1 teaspoon butter (33), and 1 glass skim milk (87). Total: 315 calories.

Now for the second breakfast. This one is good for no more than 1½ hours even though it has more calories. Four ounces tomato juice (25 calories), 2 glazed doughnuts (302), coffee without cream or sugar (0 caloies). Total: 327 calories.

The figures are from the United States Department of Agriculture. A regrettable number of us are breakfast skippers, not eating at all until lunch time (often a light hurried meal) and then we load up at night and wonder why we can't sleep.

For the most part it's easier if good eating habits are established early in life. When I was a kid, I wasn't too fond of eggs unless they were hard cooked or in potato salad, so my mom sat me down to a big glass of freshly squeezed orange juice (frozen concentrates weren't dreamed up yet), a big bowl of cornflakes with a whole banana sliced over it, plenty of cream and sugar, plus a glass of milk. I just didn't get out of the house for school or play until I had eaten that breakfast.

My standard breakfast today is juice (or melon when it's in season) plus a poached egg on toast. I hear from mothers who are horrified that their children want hamburgers for breakfast. Why not? Along with a glass of milk they are getting a good share of protein and something that will stick with them until lunch time.

The worst I ever heard was the mother who allowed her youngsters to breakfast on chocolate cookies and orange pop because she wanted to sleep late.

Almost any kind of meat, cheese, even a hearty peanut butter sandwich is acceptable, and if your child sticks up his nose at milk, how about a scoop of vanilla ice cream or a flavored milk shake buzzed in the blender?

I know the dry cereals are popular but whatever happened to good old oatmeal and cooked wheat cereals? Raisins, dates or other fruit stirred in make them more interesting.

Susan McGinnis wed in Covina ceremony

Tri-City Assembly of God Church in Covina was the setting for the marriage of Miss Susan Lynn McGinnis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert McGinnis of Ontario, to James Cecil Hall, son of the James A. Halls of San Dimas.

The Rev. Terry Clouse read the double-ring ceremony.

The bride chose a gown of white layered lace accented with sequins, pearls and clusters of pink and blue roses. Her illusion veil was shoulder length. Her flowers were roses and carnations.

Miss Michele Cloutman was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Misses Marty Strong, Kathy Hall and Debbie Bearden. Susie Cloutman and Annette McGinnis were flower girls and the ring bearer was Ernie McGinnis.

Paul Ford was the best man and ushers were Don Boulting, Lee Hall and Gregg Lawler.

Following the reception at the Hall home in San Dimas the couple left on a honeymoon and will make their home later in El Monte.

Angels' bad luck continues

By BILL LANGLEY
P-B Sports Editor

ANAHEIM — What will the Angels try next?

Exorcism may be the answer after their latest attempt to snap a maddening losing streak failed Tuesday night.

In an attempt to change their luck, the Angels' Bobby Valentine took the lineup cards to the pre-game meeting with Baltimore manager Earl Weaver and the umpires at home plate.

Besides wearing no. 13 on his uniform, Valentine walked under a stepladder and carried a black cat.

But it didn't get rid of the evil spirits at Anaheim Stadim.

The Baltimore Orioles jumped into a tie for first place in the American League East standings with a 3-1 victory thanks in part to Pomona product Rich Coggins, who scored the Birds' first two runs.

What next for the Angels?

At least the frustrating homestand finally ends this evening when Nolan Ryan (10-8) faces lefthander Ross Grimsley (10-7) in an unusual 6 p.m. starting time created to help Baltimore make a Thursday night date in Chicago with some sleep.

"It wasn't my idea," admitted Angel skipper Dick Williams about the pregame show, "but I approved it. Hell, we'll try anything. Maybe I should have let the cat hit."

The cat probably could have hit as well as his players. Crafty southpaw Mike Cuellar and reliever Bob Reynolds held the Angels to four singles and the one unearned run as the Halos' run production continues to be almost nonexistant.

Williams, who built pennant winners in Boston and Oakland, is facing the biggest challenge of his life in guiding the Angels.

The only thing new under Williams is more consistency. Earlier this season, the Angels lost frequently. Now, they are losing constantly.

Tuesday's loss ties the club record of "No hitting, no hitting," Williams exclaims took over) and puts the hapless Angels 17 games behind first place Oakland in the American League and seven in back of fifth place Minnesota.

"No hitting, no hitting," Willaims exclaimed. "We had the opportunities. We haven't been hitting and now we have no punch at all."

The latest loss can be blamed entirely on the hitting. For once, the Angels didn't commit a fielding error and starting pitcher Dick Lange hurled a strong game but got no help from the infamous bullpen, which is better known as the "arson squad".

Except for the unearned run in the first, the Angels were helpless at the plate. Mickey Rivers scored the opening run when he was safe on second baseman Bobby Grich's error, stole second and came home on Lee Stanton's grounder.

The Angels wasted a tremendous opportunity in the sixth inning when they opened the frame with back-to-back singles by Rivers and Dave Chalk. Staton sacrificed the runners to second and third but Frank Robinson drew an intentional walk. However, Cuellar got the slumping Bob Oliver to hit into an easy double play to get out of the jam.

After Stanton hit a two-out single in the eighth, Weaver called for Reynolds, a righthander, from the bullpen. He made a wide pitch to advance the tying run to second but got the struggling Robinson on an easy grounder for the final out then retired the Angels in order in the ninth.

Coggins, a Garey High graduate, scored Baltimore's first run in the opening inning when he was hit by a Lange pitch, advanced to second on a grounder and continued to third on a balk changed to the Angel starter. Boog Powell's single scored him.

It was the same story in the seventh when Coggins opened with a single and sped to third on a perfect hit-and-run hit by veteran Tommy Davis. Williams brought in lefthander Luis Quintana, just brought up from El Paso, to face Powell but the big first baseman was able to hit a long sacrifice fly to center to bring Coggins home with the winning run.

Baltimore got an insurance tally against Dave Sells in the ninth when Al Bumbry's triple scored Frank Baker.

"Scoring runs is part of my job," Coggins said. "I just try to get on base. Tommy's hit-and-run single was just perfect. We're an agressive team on the bases."

It seems that almost every team uses the Angels to move into first place.

"We started out slow last year too," Coggins said, "but we're gaining momentum now like we did last season. I think our platooning system helps us stay fresh."

The former Garey athlete admits Pomona is no longer his residence. "I've moved to Baltimore," he explained. "It's time to get some stability in my life. I want to continue my education hopefully towards a law degree. I plan to attend either Morgan State or Towson State this winter."

Coggins enjoys playing at Anaheim in front of his family and friends.

"You're going to have to watch my younger brother, Sanford Jr.," Rich said. "He will be a 10th grader at Bonita High and he is already bigger than me. He should be a super player."

ANGEL ANGLES — Diamond Bar's Bill Singer will begin throwing Friday, weeks ahead of schedule after his back operation. But the Angels would just as soon wait until next season to put Singer back on the mound to avoid any additional injuries. . .

The Angels will be going with a five-man starting rotation using Ryan, Lange, Frank Tanana, Ed Figueroa and Andy Hassler.

Coggins down but not out

Rich Coggins is down (so far) but not out.

The 23-year-old Pomona product had a fine rookie season last year with the Baltimore Orioles. He finished the season with a .319 batting average and was second to teammate Al Bumbry for Sporting New Rookie of the Year honors.

But this year, both Coggins and Bumbry have had a slow start. When the Orioles came to Anaheim to open a three games series with the Angels Monday night, each was hitting .204.

But Coggins is neither disheartened nor disguested.

"My attitude is very positive," he said as he pulled on his Baltimore uniform before the game. "I'm learning from the things I've been doing wrong and the mistakes I'm making."

That the 5-8, 165-pound speedster has devoted a good deal of time and effort to studying his problems is evident.

"Basically I think the other teams are pitching me a certain way and making me hit the ball in a particular direction," Coggins explained. "Then they bunch up on me that way defensively.

"Another thing," he continued, "they throw me more breaking pitches. I have a tendency to be aggressive at the plate. I swing hard and I've been getting out in front of the breaking pitches."

The lefthanded hitting Orioles faced more righthanded pitchers last year than they have so far this year.

"This year I think the teams are gearing their pitching so that we face more lefthanders," he said. "We just finished playing in Oakland. They used Catfish Hunter, a righthander, in the first game and then lefthanders Dave Hamilton and Ken Holtzman with Vida Blue (also lefthanded) next in rotation. This club (the Angels) has another lefthander (Andy Hassler) in its rotation since we played here."

The increased used of lefthanders by the opposing teams has cut down on Coggins' playing time.

"Last year I might play three times a week," Coggins reavealed. "It's at the point this year where somethimes I play once a week.

"Playing consistently can be just as important as getting three or four hits in a game," he continued. "If you play three in a row, you have a much better chance of getting your timing together and you're in harmony with yourself physically and mentally.

"If you don't play that often," he concluded, "you're searching for that harmony and confidence you need to succeed."

Leads in steals

Despite his low average, Coggins leads the Birds in stolen bases with 13. Last year he stole only 17 all season. However you have to first get on base before you can steal.

The little Pomonan has some ideas on this too.

"I'm not bunting as much as I should," he said. "I think I should bunt a lot more rather than respecting the infield even if it is playing in on me. I think if I bunted anyway in situations like that I might still get on base and eventually score a run that might be a big factor in the game."

Coggins is not worried because the season is half gone and his average is still hovering around .200. Last year both he and Bumbry hit well over .300 the last half of the season.

"There's still nearly half a season left," he grinned, "nearly 80 ball games. That's an inspiration in itself. Right now I want to concentrate on maintaining a positive attitude and making contact with the ball.

"If you make good contact and hit the ball hard," he added, you have a good chance of either getting a hit or forcing the other team to make a mistake."

Unlike many players in the major leagues, Coggins is not resentful about being a part time player.

"We've established pretty much of a platoon system," he explained. When a righthanded pitcher pitches I play and when a lefthander goes somebody else plays.

"There are 250 guys on this club with extreme talent," he continued. They could play on any team. When I'm sitting down and they're playing, I can't get too unhappy because they are very capable and good athletes."

So Rich Coggins bides his time patiently and watches and waits.

It would be great to see him wind up over .300 again. It couldn't happen to a nicer guy.

RIDING HIGH

New World Boxing Association Featherweight Champion Ruben Olivares rides on the shoulders of his trainers after knocking out Zensuke Utagawa in the seventh round at the Forum Tuesday night to win the WBA's version of the title.

Comeback complete for Olivares

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — After a campaign of two years and seven fights on the comeback trail, newly-crowned World Boxing Association featherweight champion Ruben Olivares of Mexico City is back on top.

"I'm happy as a lark," said the ex-bantamweight king after demolishing Japan's Zensuke Utagawa Tuesday night at the Forum to win the vacated WBA championship.

The hard-hitting Olivares decked Utagawa twice in the seventh round before putting him down for the final time at 1.29 to record an incredible 67th career knockout in 79 bouts.

"I could have gone 20 rounds tonight," Olivares grinned.

The ever-smiling 27-year-old Olivares became the first former bantamweight champ to win the featherweight crown since Harry Jeffra did it in 1940.

But Olivares isn't quite ready to begin his rule over the featherweight division just yet. At least not with total recognition.

Despite winning the WBA championship vacated by the retirement of Panama's Ernesto Marcel, Olivares has a rival titleholder to contend with —the World Boxing Council's topranked featherweight.

The WBC champion, however, won't be decided until Aug. 3 when Bobby Chacon of Los Angeles meets Venezuela's Alfredo Marcano, former world junior-lightweight champion, in a title-bout at the Olympic Auditorium in Los Angeles.

Brazil's Eder Jofre was stripped of his WBC crown for failing to defend it.

"I'm glad I won it, but I want to settle the issue of two champions so there's no questions asked," Olivares said. "That way I'll be the true champion."

There was no question about the outcome of Olivares' match with the crewcut 24-year-old Utagawa, who was making his first appearance outside the Orient.

For some unexplainable reason, Utagawa, the WBA's No. 1 rated featherweight, tried to slug it out with one of boxing's greatest knockout artists in history.

Every time he tried to work himself inside, though, the power-punching Olivares countered with punishing rights to the body and left hooks to the head.

In the seventh, Utagawa's pressing tactics proved disastrous.

Utagawa went down in the opening seconds of the seventh round from two vicious lefts to the side and another left to the head.

He took a mandatory eight-count, but was so badly hurt all he could do was cover up from the onslaught of Olivares' thudding body punches. Olivares then caught him with another left to the head and Utagawa hit the canvas again.

Still wobbly after taking another eight-count, Utagawa went down for the final time at the 1:29 mark when Olivares nailed him with an overhand right to the head.

"I made a mistake," admitted Utagawa, who was laying on a table in the dressing room with an icebag on his head and a towel wrapped around his chin. "I tried to hit with him. I tried to go in and he caught me with a left uppercut."

Season begins for Sun, WFL

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — The Southern California Sun, its offense built around three outstanding rookie backs, and the Birmingham Americans, relying on proven pro veterans in the backfield, clash tonight in a World Football League opener.

The game, to be played in Birmingham's 70,000-seat Legion Field, will match the two teams shown in a poll to be the overwhelming favorites in the first WFL title race.

In the poll, five of the 12 team public relations directors in the WFL picked the Sun to win the championship and four tabbed the Americans.

Birmingham Coach Jack Gotta thinks the Americans will be "one of the better ones" among the WFL teams, while Southern California Coach Tom Fears says, "everybody seems to think we, along with Birmimgham, are the teams to beat."

The Americans' all-veteran backfield comprises quarterback George Mira, running backs Charlie Harraway and Paul Robinson and flanker Dennis Homan.

Harraway, however, has been hampered by bruised ribs and may be replaced by rookie Carl Bartles for the Sun game.

Birmingham has three solid veterans in the offensive line— tackle Paul Costa, guard Joe O'Donnell and center John Matlock. But Costa, bothered by a bruised ankle, may not start.

Southern California's rookie backfield trio is quarterback Tony Adams from Utah State and running backs James McAllister and Kermit Johnson, both from UCLA.

Adams threw 52 touchdown passes in three years in college.

The Sun's only veterans in the starting offensive lineup are wide receiver Dave Williams and tackle Joe Carollo.

Owner says Rams will play

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Los Angeles Rams owner Carroll Rosenbloom said Tuesday regardless of whether the National Football League players strike is settled, the 29th annual Los Angeles Times charity game between the Los Angeles Rams and the Cleveland Browns will be played Aug. 2.

"As far as we are concerned," he said, presumably referring to the Rams management, "we intend to play the game. As a matter of fact, we may play with the same team with which we will play all season long."

It was not clear whether Rosenbloom received any support from the players.

More than 50 Ram rookies are scheduled to report to the training camp at Cal State Fullerton July 17. The 44 veterans on the Ram roster are supposed to report to camp July 21.

The annual Times charity game has raised $2,286,885 for youth programs in Southern California.

Dodger bats help Downing breeze to win

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The Philadelphia Phillies succumbed once again to crafty pitching and timely hitting as the Los Angeles Dodgers handed them an 8-4 setback Tuesday night behind the off-speed offerings of Al Downing.

The 33-year-old veteran, making only his ninth start of the season for the Western Division leaders, took advantage of a lot of early Dodger scoring and breezed through 6 2-3 innings before giving way to supersaver Mike Marshall.

Downing was entrusted with eight runs through the first five innings and permitted the Phillies' only a first-inning tally on back-to-back doubles by Larry Bowa and Mike Schmidt.

"I was trying to do something in the first inning that I haven't done," Downing explained. "I was trying to throw power pitches and I was getting them up over the strike zone and got hurt.

"I could easily have been out in the first inning," he said of four Phillies' line drives, two of which were gloved in right field. "One more hit might have done it, but I did a lot of soul searching and fortunately got out of it."

After the first, the diminutive lefthander settled down, mixing off-speed curves and change-ups with an occasional fast ball, while striking out seven and walking only one in evening his record at 3-3.

Meanwhile, his mates were tattooing home plate with single runs in the first, second and fourth, a double marker in the third and a three-spot in the fifth.

Steve Garvey slammed his 15th homer of the season in the opening frame and Bill Russell brought two runs in with his fifth homer in the fifth.

"Get a guy that many runs and he can pitch his type of game," said Dave Cash, the league's fourth-leading hitter who went 0-3 against Downing before singling in the ninth off Marshall to extend his hitting streak to eight games. "He used to be able to throw through a brick wall, but he went to his off-speed stuff 60 per cent of the time tonight."

Porter represents valley

Top prep cagers in action tonight

By CRAIG TRAVIS
P-B Staff Writer

FULLERTON — The 5th Annual Cal Coaches Association All-Star basketball Classic means a lot to many people for a great many reasons.

To interested viewers tonight's 8 p.m. all-star game features the greatest high school basketball players in Southern California.

To the players and the players' parents (as well as the fans) it marks their final hoop appearances before entering the college scene.

It may also be the last opportunity to view the top local players before furthering thier basketball careers in other locales.

For one superstar it is his last game before embarking in a pro career in another sport.

But for many, the game pits the L.A. City's Player of the Year, Ivory Ward, against the Southern California teams' Mark Wulfemeyer, the 4-A Player of the Year.

As added incentive for local rooters, the Cal State Fullerton-hosted affair will also be showing off the valley's own Clev Porter.

The 6-foot-5, Ganeha High ace should see plenty of action in this, one of the more competitive contests of his young career. The two-year all-CIF performer, headed for USC, averaged 22 points and 17 rebounds per game during his sendioryear when the Giants finished first in the San Antonio League with a 24-5 record.

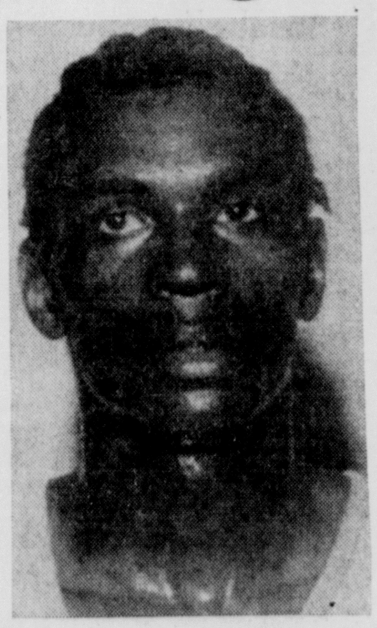

Porter made the San Dimas all-tourney team and was an outstanding rebounder on a team that toured Brazil.

Porter's So. Cal teammates include Leon Jordan, Dan Macane, Bart Penfold, Mike Santos, Mark Scott, Brad Smith, Oscar Williams Jr., and Wulfemeyer.

Wulfemeyer, the 6-1, 185 pound back court star, became the state's all-time leading scorer this year by ammassing a four-year total of 2,608 points for a 27.5 average, which includes this year's impressive marks—an average of 36.5 markers per outing.

The CIF Player of the Year and all-America was all-league and all-county for each of his four prep years. The Troy guard accounted for 19.7 points as a freshman, 22 as a sophomre, and 30.5 as a junior.

Wulfemeyer recently singed a baseball pact with the California Angels and will leave for the club's Idaho Falls team immediately after the basketball tilt.

CLEVE PORTER

The Soutern Cal team is coached by Crescenta Valley's Ed Goorjian.

"We've made tremendour progress," said Goorjian. "The kids are getting to know each other pretty well and work as a unit."

The only player with a locked up position for the So. Cal stars is center Mike Santos from Morningside, the co-player of the year in the 3-A division.

"It's very close among three guards for the two spots," Goorjian added, naming Wolfemeyer, Grey and Williams. Larry Hudson of Long Beach Jordan and Greg Bunch of Pacific are battling it out for one forward spot while Fountain Valley's Dan Malane and Porter are dueling for the other spot."

Each of the 13-man squads are comparable statistically. The CIF has a slight size edge, averaging a little over 6-4, as compared to the City's 6-4 standard. The CIF also has a combined scoring average of 22.4 markers per game while the City rates 20.3 points per individual.

Coach Willie West of the L.A. City team, which leads the series 3-1, has an outstanding assortment of talent. Ward, a 6-8 post man from Fremont, copped the City's Player of the Year award while averaging 18 points per game.

Finley gives Dark okay to hire Winkles

OAKLAND (UPI) — Charlie Finley, who seemingly thrives on confusion, has struck again.

His latest move involves the coaching staff with the Oakland A's.

In a thoroughly unorthodox move, Finley gave Manager Alvin Dark the word Monday night he could fire Dick Williams' holdover coaching staff and replace it with his own.

Dark, who had sought permission to make the move last spring after being named manager, waited until the conclusion of Tuesday night's 7-0 victory over the Cleveland Indians to drop the bomb on Irv Noren and Vern Hoscheit.

"I kind of had an idea something was up," said Noren, "when Alvin wouldn't look at me during the game. As far as I'm concerned, they fired the wrong guy. Alvin should know how it feels to get fired. But he got fired for not doing his job; I got fired for doing mine."

Hoscheit, who has been in baseball for more than 30 years, was even more critical of Dark and Finley.

"When you have to work for people like that," said Hoscheit, "it's time to get out of baseball. Dark is a horsesfeathers manager and Charlie Finley is no good either. He promised us a raise and he never kept his word."

Dark said he acted because it is a manager's prerogative to hire his own coaches. In that regard, Dark named Bobby Hoffman as his bullpen coach and fired California Angels manager Bobby Winkles his third base coach. Both join the A's in New York Thursday for the start of an 11-game road trip leading up to the All Star game.

"All I'm going to say on this," said Dark, "is that we still have a long way to go and I simply wanted my own men. This is no reflection on the coaches. They did a good job."

The players were startled by the news and although they had played one of their better games to climb 4½ games in front in the American League West race, the game was forgotten.

"This is inhuman," said Reggie Jackson, who last year publicly criticized the Oakland coaches for getting on the A's players.

"I'm glad to see Bobby Winkles back in baseball but not this way," said Sal Bando. "It's no way to treat two guys like Noren and Hoscheit, who did such a good job for this club over the last few years."

Most of the players dressed quickly and left the ball park quickly after hearing the news of the firing.

"What can you expect on this club?" said Gene Tenace.

City, CIF cagers play at Fullerton

Special rules for the game will include a legal dunk shot, 10-minute quarters, no zone defenses (except for a zone press in the backcourt), a two-minute period at the end of the game when the offense must get off a shot in 24 seconds; and a rule that each player on the roster must see five minutes of playing time.

As an added attraction, CS Fullerton's national championship gymnastics team will perform a demonstration during halftime.

British Open

Miller three back

LYTHAM ST. ANNES, England (UPI) — Leading moneywinner Johnny Miller moved into a challenging position at the British Open Golf Championship today by shooting a one-over-par 72 which left him three strokes off the early pace set by Britain's John Morgan.

The 27-year-old Californian said before the tournament that his opening round would be decisive and after battling wind, rain and Royal Lythan's trap-filled 6,822-yards, he said, "I'm playing good enough to win. The green light is on."

Miller, last year's U.S. Open Champion and winner of five tour events this year, built his score around "a No. 1 iron I picked up Tuesday."

Morgan, a schoolmaster turned professional golfer, went out in the third threesome of the day and set a target 35-34-69 for the other 153 men in the field.

Ireland's John O'Leary matched par but nobody else among the early starters, including favored Jack Nicklaus, was able to better par.

Nicklaus blamed poor club selection and a wind he'd never experienced in three visits to Royal Lytham for his 37-37--74, but was not too disappointed with his round in the circumstances.

Ben Crenshaw had a 36-38--74 and Ron Cerrudo was also at 74 with halves of 38-36. Phil Rodgers had nines of 36-40--76, while Al Geiberger shot 37-39-76.

With a southwest wind blowing off the Irish Sea scores ballooned and both Miller and Nicklaus said they'd be surprised if more than four players broke par.

Miller birdied the opening hole when he canned a 12-footer, but he missed from 11 feet at the next for a bogey. He then matched par until the 13th when he missed an uphill 5-footer and fell two shots back at the 17th after being buried deep in a bunker. He got a shot back at the finishing hole by sinking a 30-footer.

"It's a good deal. Everything is okay," Miller said as he sipped an orange juice.

Nicklaus, disappointed but not too upset at his round, said: "This is my third open at Lytham and today's wind was one I've never experienced before. It did a 100 degree turn compared to what we had to contend with during practice.

"I had a reasonable chance in the conditions but let three shots get away because of wrong club selection," Nicklaus added.

Nicklaus, the 4-1 favorite, said he "played a reasonable round of golf because of the uncertain conditions, but I would have been happier with a 72."

Nicklaus, who bogeyed the second hole when he three putted from 25 feet, said conditions were good for seven holes until the wind got up. He dropped another stroke at the eighth when he took a three wood instead of a driver for his tee shot and found the rough. He needed to sink a 20-footer but failed to make it.

Nicklaus' only birdie came at the 10th when he pitched to within 10 feet and holed out, but he was back in trouble at the par 4 15th and 17th, holes he bogeyed in 1963 when he lost the title by a stroke to New Zealand lefty Bob Charles.

At 15 he took the wrong lie off the tee, while he was into a righthand bunker at 17.

"Who's Morgan?" Nicklaus asked as he left the press tent. "Good luck to the kid, he must have played a great round."

"The kid" is 30, has been a pro 6½ years and his only claim to fame is that he was bitten by a rat in the 1968 open at Carnoustie.

"I played so badly there that I wanted to slink away quietly. But I got bitten by a rat when I went to recover my ball from the rough and made the headlines," Morgan said.

Sports news in brief

THE UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA Berkeley disclosed Tuesday that three football players asked for financial assistance and then used the school funds to buy $3,600 worth of luxury items including watches, perfumes and cameras.

HOUSTON PITCHER DON WILSON has been named National League Player of the Week. Wilson pitched back-to-back shutouts over Atlanta and Pittsburgh last week. He edged Gary Mathews of the Giants, Richie Zisk of the Pirates, and Cleon Jones of the Mets all of whom hit over .400 last week.

FORMER DODGER BILLY GRABARKEWITZ Tuesday was sold by the Philadelphia Phillies to the Chicago Cubs for slightly more than the waiver price. Grabarkewitz is hitting only .133 and having difficulties in the field.

Aztecs win exhibition

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Early goals by Uri Banhoffer and Jose Lopez sparked the Los Angeles Aztecs to a 2-1 victory over Guadalajara of Mexico Tuesday night in an international soccer exhibition match before 3,031 at Balboa Stadium.

The two clubs will meet again Thursday night at the Los Angeles Coliseum.

The victory, the third for the North American Soccer League Aztecs in six meetings this year with teams from the Mexican professional leagues, was costly for Los Angeles.

Forward Jerry Kazarian, who set up both Aztecs' goals with corner kicks, reinjured his right leg and probably will miss the remainder of the NASL season.

Deadline for decision on All-Star game today

CHICAGO (UPI) — The annual summer football classic between the College All-Stars and the current world champion Miami Dolphins loomed today as the first major casualty of the National Football League players strike.

The sponsoring Chicago Tribune, flustered by boycotts of practices at both training camps, threatened to cancel the July 26 contest if it did not receive assurance by 4 p.m. today that the game will be played "without interference."

All-Stars Coach John McKay of Southern California told his team Tuesday that if he could not begin practice soon with a full squad, he would prefer to go home.

Officially, the start of practice for the 48 All-Stars who reported to training camp was delayed from Tuesday until 4 p.m. today because the All-Stars did not undergo their physical examinations until Tuesday night.

The one-day delay for the examinations resulted when the All-Stars voted Monday to honor picket lines and refuse to practice unless "serious negotiations" were underway between the NFL and the NFL Players Association. The rookies said they would refuse to play in the game if the veterans did not have a signed contract.

At Northwestern University's Dyche Stadium, the All-Stars' practice site, 15 veterans carried picket signs Tuesday afternoon. A few of the All-Stars kept in shape by working out at a nearby lot on the shore of Lake Michigan.

Prospects of a quick return to negotiations appeared cloudy. Ed Garvey, executive director of the players association, flew from Chicago to Washington to meet with federal mediator John Scearce and reported that no new talks had been scheduled.

Tuesday night, Players Association President Bill Curry and several other NFLPA representatives, including attorney Leonard Lindquist of Minneapolis and Miami Dolphins' player representative Doug Swift, met with about 35 of the All-Stars.

Kermit Alexander, first vice president of the Players Association and a defensive back for the Philadelphia Eagles, said the All-Stars "reaffirmed their earlier position" at the meeting.

But Wayne Wheeler, a split end from Alabama who signed with the Chicago Bears, said "a couple" of the All-Stars declared their intentions to end their boycott and practice.

Swift told the All-Stars that about 25 Miami veterans would definitely continue to boycott the Dolphins' training camp, Alexander said. Only a handful of regulars have practiced in Miami since the start of camp Sunday.

The All-Stars also listened to a brief talk by Lindquist, who "dispelled" fears of management retaliation against rookies who supported the players strike, Alexander said. Lindquist told the rookies that most of the threats violated labor laws.

ED SNEED, fresh from a four-stroke win in last week's Greater Milwaukee Open, will shoot for his second consecutive victory on the PGA tour in the $100,000 Quad Cities Open which starts in Bettendorf, Iowa Thursday.

Play opens in new WFL

By United Press International

Crowds totaling 145,000 — About 50 percent capacity — are expected to welcome the new World Football League to the sports scene tonight in five cities.

Although most of the teams in the 12-club league are considered question marks, the five-game opening card is featured by a matchup between two title favorites —the Southern California Sun facing the Birmingham Americans at Birmingham, Ala.

The game is expected to draw 35,000 at the 72,000-seat Legion Field and may feature a passing duel between 10-year veteran George Mira of the Americans and Tony Adams of the Sun, who threw 52 touchdown passes in three seasons at Utah State.

In the other games, which the WFL hopes will gain added attention in view of the strike by National Football League players, the Detroit Wheels are at Memphis Southmen with 25,000 expected in a 50,000-seat stadium; the Hawaii Hawaiians at Florida Blazers with 15,000 in a 27,000-seat park, the Houston Texas at Chicago Fire with 35,000 in a 55,000-seat stadium and the Portland Storm at Philadelphia Bell with 30,000 likely to turn out in the massive 90,000-seat J.F. Kennedy Stadium.

Anticipating a fairly impressive turnout of fans, WFL Commissioner Gary Davidson, who conceived the idea of the league, issued an optimistic pre-season statement.

"We have progressed much faster and farther than most people expected," he said. "Our football product appears to be substantially better than even some of our coaches expected and the fan response has been encouraging."

Here's what the fans can expect competitively on opening night:

Southern California at Birmingham

In addition to Mira, the Americans have an all-veteran backfield of running backs Charlie Harraway and Paul Robinson and flanker Dennis Homan. Adams has Kermit Johnson and Jim McAlister among his running backs and a potential star receiver in Dave Williams. An all-out offensive battle is anticipated.

Houston at Chicago

Houston has plenty of experience —Mike Taliaferro, Paul Gipson, Jim Nance, Willie and Charlie Frazier and Rick Eber —but the Fire has an interesting passing combination in quarterback Virgil Carter and Jim Seymour. Both franchises are considered strong for the long run but are rated unknown quantities competitively.

Hawaii at Florida

Florida has veteran Bob Davis at quarterback while rookies Norris Weese, from Mississippi, and Jim Fassel, from Long Beach State, will alternate at the position for Hawaii. Rookies are carrying the load for Hawaii this season until such NFL stars as Calvin Hill, Randy Johnson and Ted Kwalick take over in 1975.

Detroit at Memphis

Bubba Wyche, a former University of Tennessee star who played four seasons in the Canadian Football League, will be at quarterback for Detroit with veteran John Harris, former Notre Dame star, and rookie Danny White sharing the throttle for Memphis.

Portland at Philadelphia

Both teams are largely inexperienced although Portland quarterback Greg Barton played for the Detroit Lions and Toronto Argonauts and Philadelphia QB Jim Corcoran has seen action with the New York Jets and New England Patriots.

The league's first week of competition will be rounded out Thursday night when the New York Stars play the Jacksonville Sharks at Jacksonville, Fla., in a game which will be televised over a 100-station TVS network.

Aguilera, Ayers pep Post 78 win

CLAREMONT — Dave Aguilera fired a four-hitter in his first start and Jim Ayers homered and singled to pace Claremont Post 78 to a 2-0 win over La Verne Post 330 Tuesday at Pomona College.

Aguilera fanned five and walked three in pitching his shutout. It was his second win of the year against no losses.

Ayers tagged La Verne starter Brian Ranney for a long homer leading off the second, and then singled and eventually scored on Bob Wright's one-bagger for a Post 78 insurance tally in the sixth. Wright also had two hits in the contest for the Cardinals.

Claremont is now 21-12-1 on the season.

Leo's coach taking 'team' to Africa

LA VERNE — Coach Art Bias will take a team of basketball players to Africa's Ivory Coast next month.

The Leo basketball coach took his own team to Mexico in May. As was the case with the trip to Mexico, Bias hopes the trek to the Ivory Coast will become an annual event.

"It's something we've been working on for some time," Bias said. "It was pretty late when I found out about the possibilities. I wanted to make it an All-SCIAC team, but a number of the other conference coaches couldn't contact their players."

The team this year will consist of Center Bill Rockwood, forward Don Carter and guard Dave Castenadad of La Verne, Norm Carter and Garry Stewart of Pomona-Pitzer, Dan Moon, Mike Savage and possibly Rod Jenson of Redlands, all from SCIAC teams.

Coming from outside the conference are former college players Larry Holliday of Oregon, Mike Washburn of Colorado State and Leon Jackson and George Agnew, formerly of La Verne.

Agnew is now an assistant to Bias.

"We'll leave August 17 for New York City," Bias said, "and then fly to Abidjan, the Ivory Coast Capital via Air Afrique. I asked if I can conduct some clinics along with our games."

"We've been working with different federations in different countries trying to set up tours," Bias revealed. "We're looking for sponsors, or collectively to absorb the cost. There is a tax write off on such an expense and business or organization interested can contact me at school."

Earl Anthony wins at Fresno

FRESNO, Calif. (UPI) — Earl Anthony of Tacoma, Wash., added still another pro bowling title to his record and perennial runner-up Dave Davis of Atlanta finished second again Monday night in the $47,000 Fresno Open bowling tourney.

Anthony took his second straight PBA victory, fourth of the year, and 11th of his career as he added the $5,000 first prize to his bulging bankroll. He has earned $64,625 this year to dominate the tour.

Davis has won a dozen events in his career, but since his last victory in 1970, he has finished second a dozen times without winning. His 234 average during the 42 games was the best in the tourney, but he finished second to Anthony by splitting his 24 games while the Tacoma southpaw had a 16-8 record.

Ross Packard of San Jose was third in the tourney at Cedar Lanes as the PBA now heads for Tucson, Ariz.

Kurt Bevacqua returns to K.C.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Reserve infielder Kurt Bevacqua was reacquired Tuesday by the Kansas City Royals from the Pittsburgh Pirates for minor leaguer Jose Martinez and cash.

Bevacqua, who drove in 40 runs and had seven game-winning hits in a reserve role for the Royals last season, played in only 18 games for the Pirates with a .114 batting average.

The 31-year-old Martinez, an infielder who was hitting .198 at Omaha, will be reassigned in the Pirates' minor league system.

FIGHTER SCOTT pounded out a unanimous 10-round decision Tuesday over Bobby Lloyd in a light-heavyweight bout at Miami Beach Auditorium.

Major league roundup

Morgan says Reds 'better wake up'

By United Press International

Joe Morgan is right when he says the Cincinnati Reds "better wake up" if they're going to win the National League's Western division title because it's been 65 years since a team won the NL pennant at the pace which the Los Angeles Dodgers are setting.

That pace is .690 — 60 victories in 87 games —and the last NL pennant winner which exceeded that percentage was the 1909 Pittsburgh Pirates, who had a .724 mark with 110 victories and 42 losses.

The Dodgers swept to their 16th victory in their last 20 games when they defeated the Philadelphia Phillies, 8-4, Tuesday night and at their current pace will finish the season with 112 wins. To match that, the Reds would have to win 64 of their last 78 games, an .821 pace, to tie for the division title.

Morgan may or may not have been aware how the law of averages already is crowding in on the Reds when he spoke for his teammates after a six-homer barrage Tuesday gave them an 8-5 triumph over the Chicago Cubs.

"Our offense has not been going well, especially the last two weeks," said Morgan, whose first-inning homer touched off Cincinnati's attack. "We almost died up in Montreal and we haven't had six home runs in a week, let alone a day. Maybe this is what we needed to wake us up."

Spoken like a true competitor, of course, but the Dodgers, who are playing like they don't know whether they are asleep or awake, just rolled over the Phillies a few hours later to maintain their 10½-game lead over the Reds.

The Houston Astros defeated the St. Louis Cardinals, 5-2, the Pittsburgh Pirates edged the Atlanta Braves, 5-4, the San Diego Reds shaded the New York Mets, 5-4, and the Montreal Expos beat the San Francisco Giants, 5-4, in other NL games.

American League results were Oakland 7 Cleveland 0, Baltimore 3 California 1, Minnesota 3 Detroit 2, New York 8 Kansas City 2, Boston 2 Texas 1, and Milwaukee 6 Chicago 5.

Reds 8 Cubs 5

Morgan, Tony Perez, Cesar Geronimo, Dan Driessen, Johnny Bench and George Foster all homered for the Reds easing Jack Billingham to his ninth win against six defeats. Rick Monday and Jose Cardenal homered for the Cubs as the hitters enjoyed a favorable wind in Chicago's Wrigley Field. Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson predicted before the game that there would be between six and 10 homers in the game.

Astros 5 Cardinals 2

Lee May drove in three runs with two homers and Dave Roberts held the Cardinals to two hits over the last eight innings for the Astros, who dealt Jack Curtis his 10th loss against four wins. May, who also had a single, homered in the second with none on and then connected again with one on in the fifth.

Pirates 5 Braves 4

Ken Brett won his ninth game in his last 11 decisions and his 11th win of the season for the Pirates, whose big blow was a two-run double by Manny Sanguillen in a four-run, fourth-inning outburst. Phil Niekro was the loser and saw his record dip to 8-8 for the Braves.

Padres 5 Mets 4

Fred Kendall drove in three runs with a double and a single and Dave Roberts hit a two-run homer which enabled rookie Dan Spillner to win his fifth game for the Padres.

A's 7, Indians 0

Jim "Catfish" Hunter pitched a three-hit shutout for his fifth straight victory and 12th win overall while Joe Rudi drove in three runs with a pair of singles in leading the A's over Cleveland.

The As jumped Cleveland starter and loser Steve Arlin, 2-3, for three runs in the first inning with Rudi driving in two of them with his single. It became 4-0 in the third on a walk and Rudi's second single.

Red Sox 2, Rangers 1

Cecil Cooper collected two doubles and a walk and scored both Boston runs while Luis Tiant allowed only four hits as Boston defeated the Rangers.

With two out in the first inning, Cooper and Carl Yastrzemski drew walks from losing pitcher Jim Bibby before Dwight Evans' single to right scored Cooper.

Cooper hit his first double in the third inning and Yastrzemski slammed a towering triple off the centerfield wall to drive home the decisive run.

Yankees 8, Royals 2

Graig Nettles' grand-slam homer, his first as a major leaguer, capped a six-run first inning and sparked New York to a victory over the Kansas City Royals. The win was the Yankees' fifth in their last six games.

Twins 3, Tigers 2

Harmon Killebrew's single in the bottom of the 11th scored Steve Brye from second base to give the Minnesota Twins a victory over the Detroit Tigers.

Brewers 6, White Sox 5

George Scott drove in four runs, including a game-winning home run in the bottom ning home run in the bottom of the ninth inning, in leading the Brewers over the White Sox.

Yankees option Fred Stanley

KANSAS CITY (UPI) — The New York Yankees optioned infielder Fred Stanley to their Syracuse farm club of the International League to make room on the roster for Sandy Alomar, who was due to join the club Tuesday night after being purchased the California Angels.

Stanley appeared in 22 games this season for the Yankees and had six hits in 32 times at bat and three RBI's.

Orlando Ramirez happy, proud man

ANAHEIM (UPI) — Orlando Ramirez, touted as the first Colombian to make it to America's major leagues, is proud of his accomplishment.

"This makes my country and my family very proud," said the 23-year-old shortstop, who joined the slumping California Angels Saturday.

"They might build a statue of me and put it next to the one of Simon Bolivar," he laughed.

Ramirez, signed in his home in Cartagena, Colombia, before the 1972 season, is counted on to bolster an Angels' infield which has been blamed for much of the team's troubles.

"I was nervous when I just got here," he says. "But I'm not really any more."

His manager, Dick Williams, brought Ramirez up from the Angels' Salt Lake City farm team after the Angels dropped five straight under Williams.

Ramirez, who speaks little English, said Williams is experienced in dealing with Spanish-speaking players.

"He can speak a little Spanish," he said. "We can communicate."

The Angels credit their Latin American scout, Carlos Santiago, with locating Ramirez and inducing him to sign an Angels' contract. Other teams had their eyes on him, but Ramirez had to wait until his military obligations were fulfilled.

"I had to serve four years in the Air Force," he said, "from when I was 16 until I was 20. I played for the Air Force team during that time, though."

Tom Sommers, the Angels' minor league director, recalls that the 5-10, 168-pounder earned an instant reputation as a fine fielder. But in his first 30 minor league games at Shreveport, La., he hit only .098. Sent down to the rookie league in Idaho Falls, Ramirez hit .125 in 35 games, although he stole 22 bases.

In his first full season in 1973, Ramirez hit .260 and stole 30 bases for the Angels' Davenport, Iowa, farm club, leading the league's shortstops in fielding.

"He has always been outstanding defensively," said Sommrs. "The only question was whether he would hit enough. He has made great progress with the bat recently."

Sent to the Angels' Arizona winter instructional league, Ramirez upped his average to .291. This season, he was hitting .341 at Salt Lake City when he caught Williams' eye.

Ramirez was pressed into service for the American League West's last place team immediately.

Basketball stars pace 'Superstar' entrants

ROTONDA, Fla. (UPI) — Basketball stars John Havlicek, Bill Bradley, Julius Erving, Bob Lanier and Jim McMillian are among the first group of athletes who will compete in the preliminaries next month of "The Superstars."

A total of 24 athletes will take part in a decathlon of sporting events Aug. 12-13 to determine six qualifiers for the finals next February. The contestants compete in seven of the 10 sports available, but not the one in which they specialize.

Others who will compete are hockey players Yvan Cournoyer, Dave Schultz and Bernie Parent, track stars Bob Seagren, Steve Smith, Ben Jipcho and Dave Wottle, bowlers Larry Laub and Johnny Petraglia, skier Hugo Nindl, speed skater Ard Schenk, figure skater Tim Woods, high diver Rick White and former University of Southern California football great Anthony Davis.

Prize money will total $220,000, the same as last year.

The Superstars competition has been expanded to include a separate competition for women in January and one for celebrities in March.

Poly recruits star QB

POMONA — Cal Poly's quarterback fortunes could be in safe hands for the next few years.

While returning starter Jim Zorn has apparently locked up the job for the 1974 campaign Bronco head coach Andy Vinci has lured a top frosh signal caller to the Pomona campus.

Signing a letter of intent was Sam Ross, a 6-1, 190 pounder from Sharpsville High School located near Pittsburgh, Pa.

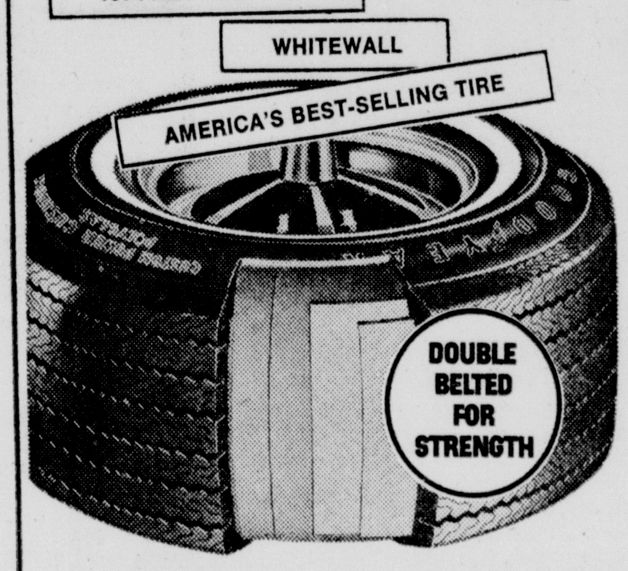

Ross, recruited heavily by Notre Dame, Syracuse, Pittsburgh, and several other leading Eastern schools, will report to the Broncos when they open camp August 19.

Honors won during his high school career include a two-year selection as All County and All Northwest, named to the All-State team and twice led his league in touchdown passes.

"He's my type of quarterback," Vinci said after landing the high school standout. "I just feel fortunate Sammy decided to attend school here at Cal Poly."

ON THE MEND — Veteran Gary Nixon is expected to challenge Yvon DuHamel, July 26-28, as one or the favorites in the Kawasaki Superbike International at Laguna Seca near Monterey. Nixon should be ready to offer strong competition after recovering from injuries in a spill.

Nixon, DuHamel go for Superbike title

MONTEREY — The two outstanding performers from last year's Kawasaki Superbike International—injured Gary Nixon and frustrated Yvon DuHamel—registered their strongest racing efforts of 1974 recently, serving notice that they are among the favorites in the third annual Superbike meet July 28 at Laguna Seca.

Last year the two veterans and former teammates made a runaway of the $60,000 Kawasaki race until DuHamel clipped a lower rider, fell and handed the win to Nixon, the popular two-time Grand National bike champion from the late 1960's.

Nixon was back to his winning ways again in New Hampshire last June 16, when he led almost from wire to wire in the 75-mile National at Bryar Motorsports Park. Flying to Japan a few days later for a test session for the Suzuki motorcycle factory, however, Nixon crashed and broke several bones. It is hoped he'll have mended sufficiently in time to be able to defend his Laguna Seca championship.

DuHamel, meanwhile, impressed everyone with a spirited fifth place finish.

It was the highest placed showing this year for Yvon, the captain of the Kawasaki racing team, who has been running into bad luck for much of the season.

DuHamel, who has been dividing his road racing starts between America and Europe, and earlier announced he was cutting short his European travels because of continuing mechanical woes.

"I don't want to go clear to Europe for a race and not even finish," snapped the plucky little French-Canadian motorcycle and snowmobile racer. But his strong Loudon finish indicates that the 33-year old DuHamel has now found the finishing combination again. This is bound to stimulate even more interest in the KAWASAKI SUPERBIKE INTERNATIONAL, which after only three years has become one of the richest on the American Motorcycle Assn.'s Grand National tour.

Less fortunate than DuHamel at Loudon was his hard-charging Kawasaki teammate Art Baumann. The San Francisco rider took a nasty spill during the rain-delayed race and received a severe shaking. Baumann, however, is expected to be back in action in time for Laguuna Seca.

Interestingly, while former-Kawasaki-now-Suzuki rider Nixon was holding off the second and third-place Yamahas of Gene Romero and David Aldana at Loudon, Yamaha super-star Kenny Roberts was running the furthest behind he has all year. The defending Grand National racing champ was back in fourth place for the entire 75 miles.

Laguna Seca is located on the Ft. Ord army base, 15 minutes from downtown Monterey.

Track toughened for Hang Ten

CARLSBAD — Important changes have been made to the Carlsbad motocross track in preparation for the Hang Ten Grand Prix Sunday. They include an extra quarter-mile-long section of track and the addition of several footbridges to improve spectator convenience.

"The changes have been made both for riders and spectators," explained co-promoters Gavin Trippe. "By lengthening it by a quarter of a mile, we have actually stretched the course to a full mile and a half which should make the track more demanding and increase competition. The added footbridges will allow spectators to cross the track in several different places which will give them better viewing possibilities. We have also erected several grandstands at strategic points which will further improve comfort."

The entries for the Hang Ten Grand Prix already include the fastest 500cc motocross racers from the U.S. and 11 other nations. Finland's Heikki Mikkola and Belgium's Roger DeCoster, battling for the 1974 world championship, are co-favorites in what is America's only world points round.

The added quarter of a mile of track is expected to make the roller coaster-like raceway even more challenging.

Outlook good for Palmer

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Extensive tests on pitcher Jim Palmer's ailing right elbow show no nerve damage which could have shelved Palmer for the rest of the season, the Baltimore Orioles announced Tuesday.

Palmer, last year's American League Cy Young Award winner, underwent electromyography tests Tuesday at a local hospital.

"There is no evidence of injury to the ulnar nerve in Jim Palmer's right elbow and we therefore cannot confirm the diagnosis of damage to that nerve made by Dr. Robert Kerlan in Los Angeles last week," said Orioles physician Dr. Leonard Wallenstein.

Kerlan diagnosed the nerve damage after examining Palmer last week and prescribed a minimum six weeks rest.

But since Tuesday's tests proved negative, Wallenstein said he is now arranging "further neuro-surgical consultations with expert specialists" to try to diagnose Palmer's ailment.

Cubs' Harris out 15 days

CHICAGO (UPI) — Chicago Cubs second baseman Vic Harris, who sprained knee ligaments in a collision in Sunday's game with the Atlanta Braves, was placed on the 15-day disabled list Monday.

Dr. Jacob Suker, Cubs' team physician, said he re-examined Harris and found that the medial collateral ligaments on his left knee were sprained. The knee was placed in a cylinder cast, Suker said.

Harris suffered the injury in the fifth inning when Atlanta's Darrell Evans slid into him at second base to break up a double play.

Southland racing

IRVINE — Professional racer Larry Huff, the new operator of Orange County International Raceway, is one of six drivers featured tonight in Orange County International Raceway's All-Pro series opener. A pair of top handlers have been selected from each of drag racing's professional divisions (Top Fuel, Funny Car, Pro Stock) for three rounds of match race competition. Winning drivers return automatically for the second series event.

Huff reappears at the wheel of a 1974 Dodge Dart which recently shattered the track's long-standing Pro Stock record, covering the quarter mile in just 8.82 seconds. The 32-year old racer also owns the national speed mark at 157.12 mph.

Chatsworth veteran Dick Landy duels the local favorite three times in the Pro Stock portion of Wednesday's show.

"Funny Car Summer" star and full-time L.A. Mirada fireman Jim Dunn also matches his Plymouth Satellite and Bakersfield's James Warren entertains a challenge from Northern rival.

Gates will open at 4 p.m. to accommodate 200 modified cars and motorcycles. Eliminations will follow at 7 p.m.

Roberts passed Baldwin for the point lead and the pair engaged in some bumper-banging action.

Gates will open at 4 p.m. to accomodate 200 modified cars and motorcycles seeking midweek E.T. Bracket competition. Elimnations will follow at 7 p.m.

SAN BERNARDINO — Jack Roberts and Ivan Baldwin have been waging an all-out battle for the NASCAR stock car racing championship at Orange Show Speedway in San Bernardino this year.

Tempers flared two weeks ago when Roberts passed BALDWIN FOR THE POINT LEAD AND THE PAIR ENGAGED IN SOME BUMPER-BANGING ACTION.

However, the pair are expected to unite Saturday night in an effort to keep the out-of-town invaders away from the winner's circle in the "Firecracker 500" series race. Racing begins at 6:30.

The Orange Show Speedway is the third stop in the rich five race series that started in Las Vegas, Nevada on July 5 and ends in Bakersfield on July 28.

Each of the five races is 100 laps in length with a $15,000 purse posted for the series. A point fund of $1,250 has been established for the top five series finishers luring many name drivers from other speedways to the Orange Show oval.

GARDENA — The first appearance of the fledgling California Racing Association midget division astrts a busy mid-summer week of motorsports at Ascot Park, Thursday at 8 p.m.

Following quickly will be the sixth race in the $15,000 American Motorcycle Association (AMA) on-summer championship series Friday night. The event is also the final tune-up for the big dirt bikes before the AMA doubleheader, featuring the Gardena Gold Cup on the half-mile, July 19, and the 25-lap national on the TT course, July 20.

Saturday night, the super spring buggies and the Baja sprint sedans of the Southern California Independent Drivers' Association put on a special event for the California Off-Road Vehicle Association.

The second destruction derby of the month will follow the regular weekly program of Figure 8 and Oval stocks Sunday night. Continental Motosports Club Motocross returns Wednesday night, July 17.

VALENCIA — A grand opening of the new one-sixth mile oval for the speed-ster division will take place Saturday with a field of 50 pro riders set for action in a 22-heat event program that will get the green flag at 8 p.m.

Following a trial period during the past two weeks on the new clay oval that is the longest track currently being used on the SRA circuit, riders of the alcohol-burning machines are expected to have their gearing, compression ratios and fuel mixing problems well sorted out, and will now be involved both with gaining points towards the championship at the stake level and to grab the largest share of the cash purse that goes on the every Saturday evening.

SAUGUS — General Manager and Promoter Marshall Wilkings has scheduled a full night of racing for Saturday night, July 13, as the Olympic Racing Association season moves into the summer stretch.

Mike Fortier, Van Nuys, Dan Press, Arleta, and Jim Thirkettle of Panorama City continue their battle for the Sportsmen Championship along with over forty of the high powered V-8 sportsman racers in a forty-lap main event.

Lancasters' Lee Nels will lead a host of Limited Stock cars as he tries to stop the young Mission Hills ace, Mike Minley in his hot Ford and Camarillos' Steve Rowe in their 25-lap main.

Amateur sports car racing at OMS

ONTARIO — Amateur sports car racing returns to Ontario Motor Speedway for the first time in several years Saturday and Sunday as drivers of the California Sports Car Club take part in the Regional Championship Races.

The 3.194-mile, 20-turn infield road course at Ontario Motor Speedway has been used only once before for amateur road racing, that event being held just after the inaugural California 500 was staged.

Under the sanction of the Sports Car Club of America, this weekend's regional points races will feature some of the west's top drivers and machinery as entrants compete for year-end regional championship awards.

Heading the list of drivers entered will be such names as Danny Ongais of Carlsbad, well-known Top Fuel and Funny Car drag racer, who has started competing in the highly-competitive Formula A class and has won the last two events he has entered in a Lola. Battling Ongais will be Bill Baker of Pismo Beach and Michael Brayton of Newport Beach.

Other top drivers in their classes entered this weekend include Dennis Aase of Anaheim (C Production and A Sports Racing), Andy Burgraff of El Toro (Formula Vee). Richard Shirey of Huntington Beach (Formula Ford), Dick Colburn of Los Angeles (D Sports Racing), Bob Greene of Lancaster (F Production), Ronald Hedstrom of Walnut (G Production, Bill Yates of North Hollywood (H Production), John Williamson of Culver City and Tim Sharp of San Diego (Showroom Stock Sedan).

The 52 fastest cars in qualifying will start each of the six 12-lap championship points races Sunday.

Saturday's schedule calls for practice and qualifying will continue Sunday at 8 a.m. to be followed by the six points races beginning at 12 noon.

Following the sixth race Sunday will be the running of Bob Challman's Australian Pursuit Four-Lap Trophy Dash, open to the first two finishing cars in each class in the preceding regional races. Classes will start inverted from a standing start at various time intervals with $200 in prize money up for grabs.

Valley flat trackers vie at Corona

CORONA — Motorcyle racing will be a big part of the racing schedule this week at Corona Raceway, as the Flat Track and TT motorcycles will compete today, and Motocross on Thursday and Friday.

Many of the top young flat trackers will be at Corona tonight beginning at 7:30. Thirteen-year-old Mike Tidwell of Upland leads some 100 riders on the quarter-mile short track and the ¾-mile TT steeplechase course. Along with Tidwell, other top young riders include 15-year-old Eddie Lawson of Ontario, Corona's Steve Fortune (16), 11-year-old Tim McWhorter of Riverside.

Heading the list of riders competing on Thursday and Friday nights will be Dave Williams and Steve Bauer, both riding 125cc machines. Other top riders include Brad Lynch (250cc), Kelly Callaway (250cc), Greg Done (250cc), Rick Rogers (125cc), and John Gless (mini).

On Saturday night, the street stocks return to Corona Raceway to compete along with the Figure 8 and Oval Stocks beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Pro cyclists vie for title

IRVINE — Motorcycle racers from as far away as Oklahoma City and Albuquerque have entered the top fuel category for the Professional Dragster Championships at Orange County International Raceway, July 26-27.

Dave Campos and Jerry Cox, a pair of Albuquerque residents and Marion Ownes from Oklahoma City will go against the top riders from the West, including Harry (Joe) Smith, Sonny Raslawski and Russ Collins.

There will be four qualifiers in both the top fuel and top gas motorcycle brackets, an added feature for the 8th annual PDA Championships this year, supplementing the top fuel, funny car and combo eliminator competition that is expected to draw record crowds to the OCIR quarter-mile strip.

Campos set a NHRA record at Irwindale in 1971 with a 9.14 et and still holds the "A" fuel record for AHRA at 9.06 established at Fremont Raceway in 1972. Cox was the runnerup in the Indy Nationals two years ago and has been the New Mexico state champion since 1969. Owens, a 34-year old carpenter, was a qualifier at Indianapolis last year. All three ride single engine Harley Davidsons.

Tickets for the $60,000 PDA Championships can be obtained at any Ticketron, Liberty or Wallich's Mucis City Agencies.

Raiders obtain Leroy Kelley

OAKLAND (UPI) — The Oakland Raiders announced Tuesday that they obtained veteran running back LeRoy Kelley on waivers from the Cleveland Browns in a National Football League deal.

Kelley, 32, a 10-year NFL veteran, is fourth among the league's alltime leading rushers with 7,274 yards in regular season play. He has scored 90 touchdowns during his decade with the Browns and played in the NFL Pro Bowl game six times.

He currently is the leading active ball carrier in the NFL.

North-South clubs begin Shrine drills

LOS ANGELES — Fifty-six members of the North and South squads of the 23rd annual Shrine Football Classic will report on Sunday to begin preparation for the July 27 beneift game.

The players will report to the International Hotel for physicals, a luncheon and a tour of the Los Angeles unit of the Shriners Crippled Childrens Hospital, which has received more than $1 million of support from game proceeds.

Following the hospital tour where each player "adopts" a child for the game, the 28-member sqads will report to their training camps for 12 days of drills for the game, which will be played in the Rose Bowl.

The North team, coached by Hall Lambert of Taft High and Paul Womack of Redlands High, will workout at Whittier College.

The South squad, coached by John Hangartner of Kennedy High (La Palma) and Ralph Vidal of Gardena High, will set up its headquarters at Long Beach State.

Having produced 27 All Americans and three Heisman Trophy winners in its 23 year history, the Shirne game is the premier post-high school football game in California.

This year's clash is shaping up as a battle between the South's running attack and the North's passing game.

The South squad boasts two running backs, Dwight Ford of Bell High and Kevin Cole of Gardena High, who both broke USC's Anthony Davis Los Angeles City rushing records that he set while at San Fernando High School.

Ford and Cole, "Co-Players of the Year" on the 1973 All-City prep team, both surpassed the single season mark.

Ford ran for 1,651 yards in 221 carries for a 7.5 average. The 9.7 sprinter also set the career rushing record of 3,831 in three years, eclipsing the Davis mark of 3,005.

Cole, a member of Gardena's LA City championship football team this past season, gained 1,606 yards in 220 carries for a 7.3 average and 17 touchdowns.

The North will counter with quarterback Dennis Sproul, Lao Altos High All-CIF "Player of the Year," throwing to two prep All American receivers, Randy Simmrin of John Burroughs High and James Sarpy of San Fernando High.

Sproul compiled sensational statistics in leading his team to the CIF 4-A football title last fall. He completed 200 of 295 passes (68) per cent for 2,380 yards and 24 touchdowns.

Tickets for the charity game, sponsored by the Al Malaika Shrine Temple, can be purchased by contacting the Shrine football office (213-749-0166) or from local Shrine members.

Senate okays amateur sports agency

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate approved Tuesday legislation to create an independent federal agency to rule over amateur athletics and end the disputes that have marred America's participation in international competition.

Despite administration opposition, the Senate passed and sent to the House legislation which would establish a five-member Amateur Sports Board to govern Olympic and international-level amateur sports. The vote was 62-29.

A long-standing feud between the Amateur Athletic Union (AAU) and the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) has periodically prevented the United States from fielding its top talent in international events and barred athletes from competition because of jurisdictional disputes.

During floor debate Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., called the bill "a crucial step in the crisis of American sports" and said it would "begin to break the stranglehold that the massive amateur sports bureaucracies have held over amateur athletes for 70 years in America."

He added it was designed "to end, once and for all, the divisive sanctioning wars that have marred the history of amateur athletics in this country and have often worked to the detriment of individual amateur athletes."

The proposed board would designate sports organizations which then would sanction amateur athletic competition— limited to three sports per organization — among teams of different nations or for trials for the Olympics and other international events.

Sen. Marlow Cook, R-Ky., lost an attempt to eliminate the board and provide instead binding arbitration by the American Arbitration Association for disputes between amateur organizations and between an organization and an athlete barred from competition.

Although Cook's amendment was defeated, 68-23, the Senate approved a proposal by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., designed to strengthen the recourse of an athlete barred from an event.

Amateurs tee it up in 49th Publinx tourney

The 72-hole event runs through Saturday.

Hitch, a traveling salesman from Ventura, Calif., tied Philip T. Reichel, of Minneapolis, Minn., for second at Flanders, N.J., in 1973, one stroke back of Stops, of New Orleans, La., whose winning total was 294, 10 over par.

It should take a similar total to capture this year's championship over Brookside's No. 1 course, which lies in the shadow of the Rose Bowl and plays to 6,791 yards and a par of 72.

Though not particularly long, the course is well trapped, with water and out of bounds strategically placed to gobble up errant shots.

Brookside has hosted several tournaments, including the 1968 Los Angeles Open won by Billy Casper.

Seattle won the team championship at the 1973 tournament, defeating Detroit on the fourth extra hole.

Rattles & straws

A sphere of influence

By JOSEPH FIRMAN

Well here it is vacation time, and our wide and varied country calls to us to come for a visit, to see new parts of the land, to camp and fish and loaf, to lose our cares in Far Rockaway and lose our wallets in Fun City.

One place that can call but I won't answer is Jacksonville, Fla., where the Betz family has recently discovered a weird metal sphere that rolls about as if controlled by some (aaaeeeagh!) unseen force and makes the family dog whimper. I don't know what it is and neither does anyone else, but Jacksonville was the first city I scratched from my list of Summer of '74.

The Betz family plans to ship the bowling ball-size steel sphere to astronomer J. Allen Hynek, the nation's leading expert on Unidentified Flying Objects (UFOs). He's at Northwestern University, so the second name I scratched off my vacation list was Evanston, Ill. I don't care what they find when they open the ball, I don't even want to be in the same state. I'll be in a state of shock.

The 25-pound globe was found by Antoine Betz, a marine engineer, and his son, Terry, 21, a pre-med student at Florida Junior College. It was lying in the grass on their farm on Fort George Island, 15 miles northwest of Jacksonville. There was no indentation in the ground, no crushed grass or scorched bushes. It was just (aaaagh!) there!

Betz said that when the ball was placed on a level table, it rolled to the edge on its own power, then rolled around the four sides in smaller rectangles until it stopped in the center of the table where it had been placed. There's a good Unidentified Rolling Object.

When the family dog was placed near the sphere, Mrs. Betz said, "she began to whimper and covered her ears with her paws—something I have never seen her do." It gives a body pause.

Technicians from the U.S. Navy examined it—you know the Navy. Figured it was there sphere. They found it was made of high grade steel. Xrays revealed several smaller spheres inside.

"When you pick it up and shake it, then set it down," said Mrs. Betz, who loves to live dangerously, "it has a motion inside. It's almost as though it were trying to get away from you." Well, if I were a mysterious steel globe, I'd try to get away from those nosey Betzes, too, but if she keeps shaking it like a dice cage at Vegas, we'll probably not have a Jacksonville much longer. Or a Florida either—small loss.

Hoax? New-type bowling ball? Visitor from (gulp!) outer space? What does the family dog know that we don't?

Whatever that little metal sphere is, I'm staying away from Florda this summer. You can take Betz on it.

Bridge

East punished for blindness

By Oswald & James Jacoby

There are none so blind as those who will not see. This is particularly true about bridge players who are blinded by their high cards and fail to see thah maybe something bad may happen to their rock crusher.

We can't find any fault with East's bidding. His partner would probably go down at four hearts, but East certainly held enough values to get there. Likewise, his double of five clubs was a correct decision, but his defense let South make his contract.

Opening lead—6♠

West got off to the fine lead of the six of spades. Dummy's jack lost to East's king and it was up to East to proceed from that point.

The simple, safe defense would be to cash a heart and the second high spade and settle for down one. But East wanted more than a one trick set. He led a trump.

South won in dummy and led the queen of hearts. East was in again and still refused to take the sure set. He led a second heart!

East had refused to see what just might happen to him and he was punished severely for his blindness.

South ruffed in dummy; led a diamond to his king; a second one back to his ace; and a third diamond which he ruffed. East's queen and jack were gone. South ruffed his last heart; discarded his second spade on the 10 of diamonds and his impossible contract had been made.

Long search

Japanese elections

Ruling party's losses blamed on discontent

TOKYO (UPI) — Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka today blamed voter "discontent and irritation" over soaring prices for his ruling party's setbacks in the Japanese parliamentary election.

Tanaka refused, however, to call the election reversals a defeat despite the disappearance of his party's 24-seat majority in the upper house of the Diet, the Japanese parliament.

The latest unofficial returns from Sunday's parliamentary vote indicated Tanaka's Liberal Democratic party (LDP) would wind up with only 126 seats in the 252-member upper house.

The Liberal Democrats previously held a healthy 134-seat majority in the upper house, a relatively weak legislative body with power to delay but not defeat legislation approved by the lower house.

The Socialists remained the strongest party in the opposition, winding up with a total of 62 seats in the upper house. The Buddhist Komeito had 24, Communists 20, Democratic Socialists 10 and independents 10.

The latest returns gave Tanaka's Liberal Democrats 62 of the 130 seats at stake in Sunday's elections, which was seen by political analysts in Japan as a test of party strength.

"The voter turnout reflected clearly (the people's) discontent and irritation with the confused situation touched off by the oil issue (crisis)," Tanaka told a news conference.

The premier refused to concede defeat and said, "Many people thought the LDP lost in the previous upper house election three years ago, but it didn't lose. Criticism against those in power is severe.

Tanaka had hoped to see the LDP keep a comfortable majority in the upper house, strengthening his own position within the party for a bid next year to win a second, three-year term as Liberal Democratic leader.

WHAT'S IN STORE...

JUST "PEACHY"

The time has come to talk about Prunus Persica (a rather ghastly name for something as delightful as the peach!). As indicated by its Latin title, the fruit was originally grown in Persia (Iran) but was brought to Europe in the pre-Christian era, then, to the American continent by the early European colonists.

Since its arrival, it has been grown in nearly all parts of the U.S. where temperatures are moderate. Although Georgia has received more glory for peach production, California has 50,000 acres of bearing peach orchards. These are mostly in the San Joaquin Valley and furnish Alpha Beta's tasty summer supply.

The beauty of the ripe peach is matched by its nutritional values. A pound of peaches (about 4 medium peaches) will serve four persons. Each serving will have only about 35 calories, but will contain .5 grams iron and 1,320 I.U. of Vitamin A, as well as smaller quantities of other vitamins and minerals.

If your family doesn't eat all the peaches fresh, try this quick peach dessert:

BARBARA'S PEACH CRISP

Filling:
4 heaping cups peeled, sliced peaches
½ cup sugar
¼ tsp. cinnamon
3 tbsp. flour
¼ tsp. almond extract (optional)
Mix all ingredients together and spread filling into greased baking dish (10x6x2).

Crumb topping:
Mix 1 cup brown sugar with 1 cup flour, cut in 1 cube butter or margarine. Sprinkle crumbs over peaches. Bake at 375 degrees for one hour. Serve warm, with cream or ice cream.

INCA TUNA CHOWDER

Drain oil from 2 cans tuna into a deep kettle. Add 1 medium onion, sliced, and cook until tender but not brown. Stir in 1 can condensed cream of celery soup and blend in 1 cup beer or ale. Add the tuna, 1 can cream-style corn, 3 cups milk, ⅛ teaspoon dried leaf basil, ¼ teaspoon pepper sauce and ½ teaspooon celery salt. Bring to a boil and simmer 5 minutes. At serving time, garnish with 1 tablespoon chopped fresh parsley or 1 teaspoon dried parsley. Serves 6 or 8.

Royal dish served with almonds, rice

When they ask you, "What's for dinner?", tell them, "Galloping Horses!"

This adaptation of a popular, old recipe from Thailand was probably eaten by Kings of Siam. It should please your man, too, with its combination of stir-fried lean pork and crunchy, chopped almonds, exotically seasoned and served over papaya halves or orange sections.

Complete the main course with individual servings of rice — plain steamed or fried — and small bowls of clear soup such as beef or chicken broth garnished with thin slices of green onion. For dessert, fruit sherbet or vanilla ice cream topped with diced candied ginger would top off this oriental feast to perfection.

GALLOPING HORSES (MA HO)

Crsip lettuce leaves or shredded lettuce
2 large papays OR 4 large navel oranges
Lemon juice
Salt
¾ to 1 pound lean thin pork steak or cutlets
Salad oil (not olive)
1 clove garlic, peeled, chopped
2 to 3 tablespoons chopped almonds
1 teaspoon sugar
1 teaspoon anchovy paste
1 tablespoon soy sauce
1 tablespoon water
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
⅛ teaspoon ground coriander
Dash cayenne pepper

Line 4 salad plates with lettuce. Pare papayas; cut into halves; scoop out seeds and discard. Cut each papaya half in two lengthwise and place on lettuce-lined plate. (Or, peel and section oranges; cut off back membranes and arrange sections pinwheel fashion over lettuce.) Brush papaya with lemon juice and sprinkle lightly with salt; put into refrigerator to chill.

Cut the pork into small squares and brown quickly in lightly oiled, hot fry pan, stirring as needed for even browning; crush the garlic and add it and the almonds to the pork, continuing to stir now and then.

When the almonds are lightly browned, stir in the sugar, anchovy paste, soy sauce and water. Heat to simmering, then add parsley, coriander and cayenne. Mix well and, when very hot, spoon over the chilled papaya and serve at once.

Makes 4 servings.

FISH FRY TEAM

Fish and cornmeal pair up naturally

The South abounds with fresh seafood from the Atlantic, the Gulf of Mexico, the Chesapeake Bay and many brackish rivers and streams. With such an abundance at hand, it is no wonder that fish has long been a favorite on Southern menus.

Fish and shellfish can be prepared in countless ways—baked, broiled, grilled and poached—but probably the simplest and the best loved is pan fried. If you have a fisherman in the family you already know the delight of freshly caught fish sizzling in the skillet. Frozen or fresh fillets also make a tempting Southern "fish fry", dipped in cornmeal and panfried until golden brown.

Corn, another staple of the Southern diet, is the base for numerous hot breads—hush puppies, corn dodgers, hoe cakes and spoon bread to name just a few. Dixie Corn Cakes, another favorite, team up beautifully with fried fish. These tender, flavorful pancakes are made with corn oil margarine. When used regularly in place of butter, margarine can be one of the most important sources of polyunsaturates in the diet.

Complete your fish-fry menu with cole slaw and ice tea for a tempting Southern menu.

PAN-FRIED FILLET OF FLOUNDER

- ½ cup yellow corn meal
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon paprika
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- 1 pound fillet of flounder
- ¼ cup skim milk
- 2 tablespoons margarine
- 2 tablespoons corn oil
- Corn oil
- Lemon wedges
- Parsley sprigs

In a shallow dish thoroughly combine corn meal, salt, paprika and pepper. Dry fillets on absorbent paper. Dip each in skim milk, then coat evenly with corn meal mixture; set aside.

Melt margarine in a large skillet. Mix in corn oil. Fry fillets, skin side last, on medium heat until golden brown on both sides and fish flakes easily, about 3 minutes on each side. Serve with lemon wedges and garnish with sprigs of parsley. Makes 4 servings.

BREAD CRUMB COATING: Substitute ½ cup fine dry bread crumbs for corn meal.

Use fresh vegetables in gazpacho

Fresh local vegetables are coming to market for city dwellers while home gardeners are smacking their lips waiting for their own beauties to ripen. Make refreshing use of a mix of vegetables available in a Gazpacho Salad. This is a take-off on the Spanish gazpacho, a cold summer soup always served with diced fresh vegetables and croutons. The salad is a meal in itself. You'll want to serve a crusty, toasted bread to sop up the juice in the European tradition.

GAZPACHO SALAD

- 3 ripe tomatoes, peeled and cut into wedges
- 1 medium cucumber, peeled and thinly sliced
- 1 green pepper, cut into thin strips
- 1 medium onion, thinly sliced and separated into rings
- ¼ cup peanut oil
- ¼ cup tomato juice
- ¼ cup white vinegar
- ⅛ teaspoon garlic powder
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- Crisp salad greens
- Croutons

In a large bowl combine tomatoes, cucumbers, green pepper and onion rings. Blend peanut oil, tomato juice, white vinegar, garlic powder, salt and pepper. Pour over vegetables and toss to blend. Chill thoroughly. Toss just before serving. Serve on crisp salad greens and garnish with croutons. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Teacher found guilty on two morals counts

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UPI) — A high school science teacher whom a teen-age girl accused of taking indecent pictures of her in exchange for passing grades, has been found guilty on two morals charges, and innocent of a third.

A Superior Court jury of five men and one woman deliberated four hours recently before finding Richard Hauck, 41, an Old Saybrook resident, guilty on two counts of risk of injury to a minor and innocent of second degree sexual contact with a minor.

Meatless main dish recipes in new book

Meatless main dishes provide an excellent way to stretch your grocery dollar. By planning some meals around fish, eggs, cheese or vegetables, you can substitute the protein you ordinarly get from meat and often save money as well.

Better Homes and Gardens new "Meat Stretcher Cook Book" contains 274 'meat-stretching recipes, including an entire chapter of recipes for meatless main dishes. There are recipes using tuna, clams, shrimp and salmon . . . main dishes with mozzarella, Swiss and cottage cheese . . . recipes for omelets and souffles . . . and main dishes centered around zucchini, tomatoes, potatoes, beans and spinach.

Among these meatless main dish recipes is an old Italian favorite—Three-Cheese Manicotti. Mozzarella, Parmesan and cottage cheese are combined with two eggs to supply all the protein and nutrition an average family needs in one meal. This dish can be served with a tossed salad, toasted French bread and red wine.

THREE-CHEESE MAICOTTI

- 1 8-ounce can tomato sauce
- 1 envelope spaghetti sauce mix
- 2 cups shredded mozzarella cheese
- 1 cup cream-style cottage cheese
- ½ cup grated Parmesan cheese
- 2 beaten eggs
- ¼ cup snipped parsley
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- 8 manicotti shells, cooked and drained

Blend tomato sauce, spaghetti sauce mix and 1½ cups water. Simmer, uncovered, 10 to 12 minutes. Meanwhile, combine 1 cup of the mozzarella, the cottage cheese and Parmesan. Add eggs, prasley, salt and pepper; mix lightly. Stuff manicotti shells with cheese mixture, using about ¼ cup for each. Pour ½ cup of the sauce mixture into a 12-x7½x2-inch baking dish. Arrange manicotti in dish; pour remaining sauce atop. Sprinkle with remaining mozzarella. Bake, uncovered, at 350 degrees till bubbly, 25 to 30 minutes. Serves 6.

A no-bake filling makes dinner pie

Pioneer Alaskan homemakers had to use their resourcefulness to compensate for the dearth of summer fruits.

We're more fortunate today because California ships plentiful supplies of fresh summer fruits throughout the country. A special favorite, juicy, sweet California peaches, are starting to come into our markets now and will be in abundant supply until mid-September.

Culinary-minded Alaskans used home-made wild berry and currant preserves to add "fresh" fruit flavor to pies and cakes. A small amount of currant jelly, for example, flavors a whole Alaskan meringue pie filling.

But how much more elegant the glacial Alaskan pie will be if you pile the soft, currant-flavored meringue into a nutty crumb crust and top with juicy fresh California peach slices.

The no-bake filling makes this commpany fare you can create in about 15 minutes.

Most peach purists prefer eating their peaches fresh for out-of-hand snacking. But if you combine Alaskan ingenuity with the luscious and plentiful availability of fresh California peaches here, you can devise some delicious desserts.

Alaskans have been enjoying ice cream since the days of the earliest settlers. Then, they concocted the mixture by mixing milk, sugar and vanilla with fresh-fallen snow. While they might add fruit flavor with preserves, you can glamorize plain vanilla ice cream by serving with a generous topping of sliced fresh peaches sprinkled with lemon juice and sugar. Or serve fresh peaches with a topping of equal parts of vanilla ice cream and dairy sour cream whipped together until soft, but not melted. It's a tangy complement to this summer fruit.

Californians who really know peaches like them served chilled but not ice cold. California peach growers recommend buying peaches that are firm but will yield slightly to pressure. While a rosy blush is nice to look at, it's a sign of variety, not ripeness. Select peaches with a uniform creamy yellow background, instead.

For more exciting ways to use and serve fresh fruits this summer, send a stamped, self-addressed business-size envelope to "Fruits of Summer," P.O. Box 4640, Sacramento, CA 95825.

ALASKAN PIE

½ package (15 ounces) almond flavored, crescent-shaped cookies
⅓ cup sugar
6 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
¼ cup finely chopped almonds
3 egg whites
½ cup red currant jelly
2 fresh, ripe California peaches, unpeeled and sliced
Lemon juice
Vanilla ice cream (optional)

Place cookies between two sheets of waxed paper. Crush with rolling pin. There should be 1½ cups of crumbs. With pastry blender, thoroughly mix crumbs, ¼ cup of sugar, butter and almonds. Press mixture firmly and evenly against bottom and sides of 9- or 10-inch pie pan. Bake in 375-degree oven for 12 minutes.

Meanwhile, melt jelly in small saucepan and set aside. Beat egg whites until soft peaks form, then gradually beat in remaining ¼ cup sugar. Slowly beat in the melted jelly; continue beating until stiff peaks form. Pile mixture into cooled crust. Brush peaches with lemon juice to prevent browning; arrange on top of jelly meringue. Cut in wedges to serve. Accompany with scoops of ice cream, if desired. Makes 6 servings.

Transform favorite snacks with bananas

They're here, the days when youngsters are home from school for the summer and clamoring for more to eat.

Better be ready with some interesting sandwiches and edibles on a bun. Take a shortcut to new sandwich and bun fare. Add banana, and you've got the new look in luscious luncheon and snack specialties. Sliced bananas and peanut butter are the small fry's sandwich heaven. For older youngsters and yourself a Banana Reuben Sandwich is sheer joy. The inspired Reuben Sandwich combination of corned beef, sauerkraut and Swiss cheese grilled on rye could never be topped except by a few surprise slices of mellow banana. Somehow the salty tang of the Reuben combo is deliciously complemented by the tropical taste of the banana.

You're adding good nutrition as well as exciting flavor when you add bananas to summer sandwiches. Bananas, we are reminded by the Banana Bunch, industry-sponsored center for consumer information, have a good supply of several essential vitamins and minerals, and they're a whiz for energy value, sorely needed in hot weather. Add this golden package of nutrition to a hot dog and you have something your teen-agers will appreciate—the Schizo-Frank.

It's half a frankfurter and half a peeled banana, wrapped in a slice of bacon, and grilled to sizzling goodness. Serve on a mustard-spread bun. This is lazy weather fare that makes an uneventful day at home perk up nicely, thank you.

Weave modestly priced bananas into your warm weather cooking plans. They make fabulous salad plates along with any fruit in season, and some of the vegetables, too, such as carrots, tomatoes, and crisp salad greens. And for the fun at the sandwich grill, "go bananas," and enjoy.

BANANA REUBEN SANDWICHES

4 slices rye bread
2 slices Swiss cheese
¼ pound sliced corned beef
½ cup sauerkraut
1 banana, sliced
1 tablespoon butter or margarine

For each sandwich, layer on 1 slice of rye bread 1 slice of cheeese, half of corned beef, half of sauerkraut and half of banana slices. Top with second slice of bread. Melt butter in large skillet, add sandwiches and cook until golden brown, turn and cook on other side until toasted. Serve immediately.

BANANA SCHIZO-FRANKS

2 bananas
4 slices bacon
4 frankfurter buns
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
4 slices American cheese, optional

Cut frankfurters in half lengthwise, peel bananas and cut in half lengthwise. Match half a frankfurter with half a banana, wrap 1 slice of bacon around each and fasten with wooden pick. Repeat with remaining frankfurters and bananas. Place on a broiling pan 4 inches from heat and broil 3 minutes, turn and broil 2 minutes longer. Spread mustard on each roll, top with cheese if desired and place under broiler last 2 minutes of frankfurter cooking time. Serve banana-frankfurters in rolls.

California plums play many roles

With fresh California plums in such plentiful supply from now through late September, it's plum experimenting time!

California ships about 90 per cent of the nation's plums and some 20 major varieties. All fresh plums are delicious eaten ice-cold from the refrigerator, and they're also a versatile fruit that adds a lively flavor touch to many dishes.

Spark a summer fruit salad or compote with slices of crimson Santa Rosa, El Dorado or Queen Ann plums. The wine-flavored Mariposa, Nubiana or yellow-fleshed Sim-ka make rich ice cream sauces. Bake a pie or tart with ruby red Laroda or bright green Kelsey plums. Make sprightly jams, jellies and butters with Santa Rosa, Nubiana and Queen Ann plums alone or combine them with another favorite fruit.

Be sure to perserve some of summer's plum bounty to brighten winter's meals, too. All fresh California plums freeze well, and the plums that hold their shape when cooked are also the best to can. California plums growers especially recommend Santa Rosa, El Dorado, Nubiana, and Queen Ann varieites for canning. Set a few jars aside for friends, too. They'll appreciate your thoughtfulness.

Californians especially enjoy serving fresh plums in this flaming Jubilee. Peeled plum halves are delicately flavored with orange slivers, cloves and a sprinkle of orange-flavored liqueur and brandy. At serving time, the sauced plums are flamed in a chafing dish at the table. When the flames flicker out, spoon the colorful mixture over scoops of vanilla ice cream. Be sure to dim the lights for a plum spectacular presentation!

For more exciting ways to use and serve fresh fruits this summer, send a stamped, self-addressed business-size envelope to "Fruits of Summer," P.O. Box 4640, Sacramento, CA 95825.

PLUMS JUBILEE

8 fresh California plums, peeled, halved and pitted (may leave plums whole, if desired)
½ cup sugar
1 tablespoon slivered orange peel
4 whole cloves
1 tablespoon water
4 tablespoons orange-flavored liqueur
4 tablespoons brandy
About 1 quart vanilla ice cream

In a saucepan, combine plums, sugar, orange peel, cloves, water and 1 tablespoon EACH orange-flavored liquer and brandy. Let stand about one hour, stirring occasionally, to dissolve sugar and let juices form. Gently bring the mixture to a boil and simmer about 3 minutes or just until plums begin to soften. Chill until serving time.

To serve: Heat plums to simmering in chafing dish over flame at the table. Warm the remaining liqueur and brandy; pour over plums and carefully ignite with a long match. Gently stir sauce until flames die down, then spoon mixture over large scoops of vanilla ice cream. Makes 8 servings.

To peel plums, place in boiling water until skin cracks; transfer to cold water, then slip off skins.

Heart hints

Special menu to fix for outdoor supper

If your summer will include an evening with a box supper and if you want some new ideas for your moveable feast, try these from the American Heart Association, Greater Los Angeles Affiliate.

For a meal that is different and delicious experiment with Arabic flat bread (the hollow kind) filled with a hot meat mixture.

Pack the mixture into a wide mouth, insulated container. When you arrive at your evening's destination pour the mixture into the bread. (Slit the tops before you leave.) Wrap your meal and its edible container in a napkin, and, voila, a neat and tasty repast.

The following recipes for chicken curry and beef picadillo are from the American Heart Association Cookbook and follow Heart Association's recommendations for controlling fat in your diet.

2 tablespoons slivered salted almonds
2 cups water chestnuts, thinly sliced
3 cups diced cooked chicken
¼ cup chopped pimiento
1 cup dained pineapple tidbits
3 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon curry powder
1 teaspoon paprika
½ teaspoon sweet basil
1½ cups chicken broth or bouillon

Slice green onions and celery diagonally, about ½ inch thick. Heat oil in a skillet and saute onions, celery and peppers until slightly browned. Add almonds, water chestnuts and cooked chicken. Mix well with flour, paprika, curry powder and basil. Saute lightly, stirring constantly, until well blended. Mix in broth, pimiento and pineapple. Cover and let steam briefly. Season with salt and pepper.

BEEF PICADILLO

1½ pounds lean ground beef
2 tablespoons margarine
1 clove garlic, chopped
1 large onion, chopped
1 green pepper, chopped
4 sprigs parsley, chopped
¼ cup seedless raisins
¼ cup sliced blanched almonds
2 tablespoons sliced pimiento
12 stuffed olives, sliced
1 tablespoon capers
1 bay leaf
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ cup tomato paste
¼ cup dry red wine

In a large skillet melt the margarine and saute garlic until brown. Discard the garlic. Saute the onion, green pepper and parsley until the vegetables are soft. Add the ground beef; brown, stirring with a fork to prevent lumps. Mix in the remaining ingredients. Simmer, covered, stirring occasionally, for about 13 minutes.

WILD STRAWBERRY JELLY WITH CHABLIS

Prepare one small package of wild strawberry jello according to the directions, substituting ½ cup of chablis or other dry white wine for an equal amount of water. Sliced strawberries or a small can of white grapes (drained) make a nice addition. Fill the desired number of platic cups and chill until set. Unless the evening is unusually warm the jello will stay firm for several hours.

Casino slots sealed until fees are paid

LAS VEGAS (UPI) — All but three of the Riata Casino's 180 slot machines remained sealed Tuesday as the Nevada Gaming Control Board waited for $40,000 in fees owed by the "strip" casino.

The board sealed the machines and closed all but seven gaming tables Monday night for nonpayment of the quarterly fees. The casino continued to operate six 21 tables and one Big Six for which the fees had been paid.

Casino officials had told the control board the fees would be paid on Tuesday, but a board spokesman said the fees remained due. There is no time limit on when the fees must be paid, but the Nevada Gaming Coomission could take action on the Riata's license to operate if the fees are not paid.

Three spreads are light, easy, tasty

In the summer a culinary queen's fancy may turn to thoughts of food easy to prepare, tasty, and light.

Here, to star on a warm evening, are some new, extra-special sandwich spreads—Cheese Spread (a blend of 3 cheeses), Curried Chicken Salad, and Salmon Salad a la Russe. Each of these features a unique flavoring—the light and tangy taste of beer.

Add pretzels, chips, or whatever may be your family's favorite crunchies, crisp relishes, fresh fuirt, and your summer meal is complete.

CHEESE SPREAD

1 cup grated Cheddar cheese
½ cup grated Bianco and Bierkase cheese
1 package (3 ounces cream cheese, softened
¼ cup beer
¼ teaspoon dry mustard

Combine all ingredients and blend well. Chill. This is very good on thin slices of black bread or pumpernickel.

SALMON SALAD A LA RUSSE

1 can (1 pound) salmon, flaked
2 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
¼ cup thinly sliced green onions
1 tablespoon chopped capers
½ cup mayonnaise
2 tablespoons catsup
2 tablespoons beer

In a bowl, combine salmon, eggs, green onions and capers. Blend together the mayonnaise, catsup and beer; combine with salmon mixture. Chill. Makes about 2 cups spread. Good served with lettuce on white, rye or rolls.

CURRIED CHICKEN SALAD

2 cups cubed cooked chicken
¼ cup mined onion
2 tablespoons chopped stuffed olives
2 tablespoons minced green pepper
½ cup sour cream
3 tablespoons beer
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon curry powder
Dash garlic powder.
Dash pepper

Combine chicken, onion, olives and green pepper. Blend sour cream, beer, salt, curry powder, garlic powder and pepper; blend into chicken mixture. Chill. Makes about 2 cups salad. Excellent on pumpernickel bread.

Survey reveals what consumer knows about chicken

A nationwide survey has just been completed by the National Broiler Council to determine consumer attitudes about the preparation, purchasing and serving of chicken.

The study was designed to find out what consumers wanted to know about chicken. . . and what they thought they already knew. Tabulations were made of more than 1,000 responses to questionnaires mailed at random to nine geographical regions of the United States.

Among the results was the clear indication that consumers recognize the low-calorie, diet value of chicken but they are not as aware of chicken's high nutritional value.

As a diet food, chicken was rated top choice by more than 80 per cent of those responding. Beef placed second and pork, a low third.

However, a larger number of replies thought beef was the most nutritious meat, followed by chicken and pork again in third place.

It is obvious that consumers recognize that chicken is lower in calories than any meat and that the fat content of chicken is low, making it a highly desirable food for weight-watchers.

What they fail to recognize is that chicken is rich in protein, vitamins and minerals . . . that it is hard to find any one food packed with more nutritional value than chicken.

Chicken provides more protein for less money than sirloin steak, chuck roast, round steak, rump roast hamburger, beef liver, ham, pork roast, pork chops, bologna, sausage, frankfurters, bacon, salami, liverwurst, ocean perch, haddock and processed cheese.

(Source: USDA booklet on "The Cost of Meats and Meat Alternates." March, 1973).

The adult daily protein requirement is about 60 grams. A six-ounce serving of chicken (not counting bone and skin) contains 46 grams of protein—76 per cent of the average daily protein need.

The protein quality in chicken is tops, too, because it contains all of the amino acids (the chemical units of which proteins are made).

On a cost basis, chicken is one of the best and most versatile ways to supply protein. Chicken is also rich in vitamins and minerals. And it is lower in fats than any other popular meat. Most of the fat (64 per cent) that chicken does contain is unsaturated.

CHICKEN COOKING CONTEST

State winners have been chosen and are ready to head for Winston-Salem, N.C., for the 25th anniversary of the National Chicken Cooking Contest on July 25. There will be 51 contestants competing for $25,000 in cash prizes.

In the 1967 contest, first place dinner in the outdoor division was this recipe for cooking chicken on the outdoor grill.

ORIENTAL COOK-OUT CHICKEN

2 whole broiler-fryers
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon monosodium glutamate
½ teaspoon pepper
2 oranges

SAUCE

1 cup frozen orange juice concentrate, undiluted
4 tablespoons corn oil
2 tablespoons french dressing
3 tablespoons soy sauce

Rub inside of chicken with salt, monosodium glutamate and pepper. Make sauce by mixing together ingredients listed. Using pastry brush, brush chicken inside and out with sauce. Peel oranges as apples in long spirals, keeping skins in one strip. Cut orange segments into small pieces and place inside of chickens. Tie chickens securely with wings together and tails to legs. Place on charcoal broiler rotisserie rod, securing with forked holders. Place spiral orange peels around chickens, holding in place with food picks. Cook on rotisserie for approximately 1 hour or until done, basting frequently. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Turkey again to distribute poppy seeds

ISTANBUL (UPI) — Turkey will resume growing opium poppies this fall despite objections from the U.S. government, the newspaper Cumhuriyet said recently.

A government resolution authorizing opium poppy cultivation in three Turkish provinces will go into effect before July, the Istanbul newspaper said.

"Following the publication of the government resolution in the official gazzette, poppy seeds will be distributed to peasants in Konya, Usak and Denizli (provinces)," Cumhuriyet said.

In October government farms will distribute opium poppy seed also to the peasants of Afyon, Burdur, Isparta and Kutahya, where poppy cultivation was banned in 1971.

The United States had urged Turkey to ban opium poppy cultivation on grounds that most of the heroin consumed by American addicts was derived illegally from Turkish poppies grown legally for pharmaceutical purposes.

Turkey's five-month-old coalition government headed by center left Premier Bulent Ecevit said the ban was an "irreparable loss" for the peasants of poppy-growing provinces.

Survey shows women—alone or not—enjoy cooking

NEW YORK (UPI) — Contrary to popular opinion, a lot of women do like to cook.

Six out of ten surveyed by a women's magazine said they enjoyed everyday menu planning and cooking most of the time. One out of ten told the Redbook reader survey they find it very enjoyable and gratifying. Only three per cent said they absolutely hated it.

Readers were asked how they felt about food and what they knew about it. Turns out they know a lot but would like to know more. Ninety five per cent want all food products to be labeled for nutritional content. Ninety six per cent said they would like to see the law changed to require ingredient lists on all packaged goods.

Most of the women showed great concern for and knowledge about nutrition. Relatively few are vitamin users, but two-thirds of those with children under six years old said they give their children vitamins daily.

Nearly six out of ten said they had changed their buying habits and meals because of all the talk and publicity about nutrition.

Very few do any real advance planning of menus or meals. More than half said they buy a variety of foods once or twice weekly and plan each day's meals as they come along. An additional 17 per cent said they planned their main dishes as much as a week in advance, but left the choice of vegetables and other foods for the last minute.

The majority said they purposely cook extra meat, fish or poultry so they will have leftovers. The leftovers go mostly into new main dishes or sandwiches.

One big surprise: most of the women who are either single or who cook their evening meal alone make it a full meal rather than a snack or a sandwich.

Another surprise: 83 per cent said all family members eat dinner, their main meal, together almost every day. Business was given as the main reason for the family not eating together daily.

Still another surprise: nearly nine out of ten of the women with children said their children always eat breakfast. A typical weekday breakfast consists of juice, coffee, toast, muffins or roll for the adults, plus ready-to-eat cereal with milk for the children.

There is at least one exception to this rule. A reader in Roxboro, N.C., wrote:

"Our breakfasts are usually sandwiches, soup, leftover casseroles, hot dogs, gravy over rice or potatoes or some such menu.

"Our favorite is bacon, lettuce and tomato sandwich, followed by a number two spot of tuna and lettuce on toast for me and a banana sandwich for my husband.

"We love the arrangement; oddly enough, we both grew up on this type of diet."

If these survey results differ from the national average, it is not so surprising. The average composite woman is based on a random sample of 4,000 chosen from the 85,000 who answered a 127-question quiz. She is 30.7 years old, married, with 1.8 children and a family income of $13,574. In half the cases, she also is a working wife.

Snacks always are welcome at a party

A variety of hot or cold snacks is always welcome now taht it's relax-outdoors-time. Family and friends all like to nibble while waiting for the barbecue chef to work his magic with hamburgers, hotdogs or chicken. Pizza snacks are quick to make from a base of a packaged cheese pizza mix. These treats also are good for teenagers to prepare for their friends, releasing Mom from kitchen duty for awhile.

PIZZA PUFFS

1 package (15 3-8 ounce) complete cheese pizza
1 egg, beaten
½ cup milk
1 tablespoon vegetable oil
3 cups vegetable oil

Mix pizza flour mix, 1 tablespoon oil, egg, milk, and canned grated cheese from package. Cover and let stand in warm place for 10 minutes. Lightly flour board. Roll out dough into a 10 x 12-inch oblong. Cut into 2 x 1-inch rectangles. Heat oil in 2-quart sauce pan to 370-degrees. Fry dough for 3 to 4 minutes until puffy and golden brown. Makes about 4 dozen puffs. Heat pizza sauce. Dip puffs in heated sauce.

PIZZA BEEF FRITTERS

1 package (15 3-8 ounce) complete cheese pizza
1 egg, beaten
½ cup milk
½ pound ground beef
¼ cup chopped onion
¼ cup chopped stuffed olives
3 cups vegetable oil

Combine pizza flour mix, egg, milk, beef, onion, olives and one tablespoon of vegetable oil. Mix well; cover and let stand in a warm place for 10 minutes. Heat oil in a 2-quart sauce pan to 370-degrees. Drop batter by teaspoons into fat. Cook for 3 to 4 minutes. Makes approximately 4 dozen fritters. Warm pizza sauce. For appetizers dip fritters in heated sauce.

MINI PIZZA APPETIZERS

1 package (15 3-8 ounce) complete cheese pizza
Rolled anchovies
Pimento, chopped
Chopped eggs
Caviar
Cocktail onions
Pickle slices

Prepare pizza dough according to package. Add half of packaged grated cheese to pizza dough. Divide dough into 6 or 8 pieces. Shape into small rounds. Place on cookie sheet; form rim around edge. Spread 2 tablespoons sauce on each mini pizza. Garnish with any of the above or your favorite combinations. Sprinkle remaining cheese on top. Bake at 425 degrees for 10 minutes. Serve hot or cold.

End Turkey aid for ban lift, urges Mondale

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Turkey's decision to resume growing opium, the raw material for much of the heroin smuggled into the United States, should result in suspension of U.S. economic and military aid, says Sen. Walter F. Mondale.

Mondale said that he will introduce legislation requiring the cutoff because he does not think President Nixon will use his authority to suspend aid to Turkey.

In a Senate speech, Mondale called Turkey's decision to lift the three-year ban on the growing of opium "a major setback in the struggle to rid this country of the menace of heroin."

He conceded there would be strong objections to his proposal and that a cutoff of economic and military assistance could cost the United States its military bases in Turkey.

"For those who feel otherwise," said Mondale, "I would only ask them to consider how many lives wrecked by heroin they are willing to pay for these bases."

PASSENGER CAR TIRE GUARANTEE

Montgomery Ward guarantees each of its passenger car tires for a specified number of miles when used on passenger cars or station wagons, except taxis. If your tire does not give you this mileage because of:

- defects in material or workmanship,
- normal road hazard failure,
- premature tread wearout (2/32 inches or less remaining);

Montgomery Ward will:

1. During the first 10% of guaranteed mileage, replace the tire free.
2. During the remaining guaranteed mileage, replace it for a prorata charge based on mileage used.

Nail punctures repaired free during the entire guaranteed mileage.

For guarantee service and adjustments, return tire to any Montgomery Ward branch with the Guarantee Booklet issued at the time of sale.

Charge after first 10% of guaranteed mileage based on selling price in effect at the time of return at branch to which returned, including federal excise tax.

Passenger tires used on taxicabs, and motor vehicles other than passenger cars are guaranteed on the same basis against defects in materials and workmanship only.

The doctor comments

Urinary operation may be needed again

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I am 70. Ten years ago I had a transurethral operation on my prostate gland. A month ago I had the same operation. The doctor who operated on me said that it is not unusual to have the growth again. He said that I did not have a tumor. I am in good health but don't relish the idea of going through the same operation again sometime in the future. Can you give me more information on this subject?

DEAR READER—Can't say I blame you. The prostate gland is literally like a donut surrounding the urethra just outside the bladder. As the prostate enlarges it fills up the hole in the donut and compresses the urethra. That is what causes the symptoms of urinary obstruction. The transurethral operation inserts an instrument through the urethra to the area of the prostate. By boring out the hole with the instrument the obstruction is relieved. This operation does not remove all the prostate gland, but enough to adequately remove the obstruction. The boring out procedure is usually pretty generous to try to prevent the recurrence of the obstruction.

Since the prostate gland is still there, if it continues to enlarge, eventually it can begin to fill up the hole in the donut again. When this happens the doctor has to either do another "bore job" or surgically cut out the prostate. If the operation is done fairly late in life, and if the prostate doesn't continue to enlarge too rapidly, then it may last a person for their life span, otherwise the problem may recur.

I can't guarantee you that you won't need another operation, but there is a good chance that your present operation should last at least as long as the last one, or more than 10 years. Your prostate gland growth may now be slowing a bit too, which could work in your favor.

DEAR DR. LAMB—My sister has very white teeth and claims it is because she uses baking soda and salt in stead of toothpaste. What do you think about this? Is it all right? And, she claims that you can improve your teeth also by using peroxide as a mouthwash every hour all day long. Couldn't that be harmful?

DEAR READER—There are many substances you can use to polish the teeth, and they will make the teeth whiter. But that doesn't mean the teeth will be healthier. Pumice, a fine gritty abrasive, is used by denists in polishing your teeth. However, you shouldn't use it regularly, because it is abrasive enough to wear your teeth down.

The same can be said about soda and salt. They may clean your teeth, but they may take part of the teeth away with the food particles and stains. So, whiteness doesn't mean healthy teeth. I believe you would be much better off to use commercially tested and approved toothpastes that contain materials to protect against tooth decay.

Peroxide as a mouthwash may not cause any harm if it is not too strong. If you use a strong solution you can burn the sensitive gingiva (gums) and damage them. I would definitely think that once an hour would run the risk of damaging tissues.

'Back Wallace' bid opposed by Rev. Jackson

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Rev. Jesse L. Jackson says he will appeal to blacks to organize to stop any movement to win favor for Alabama Gov. George Wallace to become vice president.

Jackson has called "cynical" a statement by Fayette, Miss., Mayor Charles Evers, a black man, that he would support Wallace. Evers said Wallace is no more racist than any other white politician and that he is at least practical enough to deliver power concessions to the blacks.

"It's cynical to argue that all white politicians are equally racist," said Jackson, head of Operation PUSH, a civic rights group. "First of all, it is not true that all whites are equally racist. There are degrees of everything."

Besides, Jackson said, he has seen no evidence that Wallace has undergone any change on the race question, as Evers contended in a speech Sunday.

Jackson said other black politicians do not share in Evers' backing of Wallace, noting that Wallace failed to get significant support in last month's gubernatorial primary.

"He got about 7 per cent of the black vote and fewer than half the blacks voted," Jackson said.

Hawaiian question: mine ocean floor or preserve environment?

HONOLULU (UPI) — Hawaii is weighing the possibility of a billion-dollar sea mining industry with the dangers of polluting her unspoiled shores.

A study of the ocean environment has astounded state officials, scientists and the business community with the revelation that deposits on the ocean floor between the islands hold a treasure in precious metals and a possible economic bonanza for Hawaii.

The report, "Hawaii and the Sea, 1974," prepared by Gov. John Burns' Task Force on Oceanography, disclosed that vast amounts of gold, silver, platiunum, iridium, osmium and palladium in addition to maganese, nickel, iron and copper occupy a plateau 3,000 to 6,000 feet deep.

George Wilkins, a scientist with the Navy's Undersea Center and head of the task force, said although manganese deposits were known to exist in the islands prior to his team's report, "there was no world shortage of manganese and saturating the market would just reduce the metal's value."

Working with scientists at the University of Hawaii and in private industry, the task force learned that based on a one million ton-a-year mineral harvest that could be taken by one mining ship from the ocean floor, the metals haul could come to an annual gross value of $785 million.

"When we considered a longterm operation involving three ships, the annual value of the metals came to about $2 billion," Wilkins said, "with about $1 billion expanded within the state.

"The 24-member task force was astounded, not only at the value of the deposits but that they had been lying there ignored so long."

Considering that any such mining would probably start out with a one ship harvest, samples taken indicate the gross value of the deposits at $270 million in platinum, $12 million in gold, $400,000 in silver, $26 million on palladium, $130 million in osmium, $8 million in iridium, all precious metals, plus $130 million worth of manganese and titanium and varied amounts of other metals.

Wilkins believes the formation of the treasures resulted from volcano geothermal fluids flowing into the sea over millions of years. The plateau, called the "Waho Shelf," runs from the north coast of Oahu to the Kauai Channel and is so vast that "a ship bringing up one million tons of ore a year could operate on the plateau for a century."

Despite the initial costs of a mining ship and a plant about the size of an average-scale oil refinery built on the shore, the task force is convinced the industry could operate at a great profit.

But the possible threat to Hawaii's environment, already deeply scarred on Oahu by innumerable high rises, overcrowded beaches and sewage dumped into the sea, is a key factor in deciding whether to mine the ocean floor.

Hawaii's neighbor islands still remain relatively unblemished, and environmentalists are determined to keep them that way.

"Many citizens of Hawaii have come to realize that indiscriminate growth is like a cancer that defaces, degrades and ultimately may destroy the vital body in which it spreads," Wilkins said.

"We are concerned with the total impact on Hawaii," he said. "The environment and the changes in life style where the industry is located have to be considered."

One puzzling question involved in the discovery is who owns the deep-ocean bottom between Hawaii's islands?

"The area is beyond any current national jurisdiction," Wilkins said. "We hope the federal government will assert jurisdiction and control over the sea floor in the Hawaiian Archipelago to prevent exploitation."

Two Ontario scouts win safety run

ONTARIO — Two Ontario Explorer Scouts wound up this year's annual Youth Safety Run with the most miles per gallon of any of the 17 driving teams.

Driver Fred Borgards and codriver Dave Lewis were awarded trophies at the Victory Circle Restaurant at the Ontario Motor Speedway. The pair, in a 1974 Chevrolet Vega furnished by Bob Hicks Chevrolet of Ontario, averaged 29.071 miles per gallon over the 900-mile course to Yosemite National Park and return. The drivers had no penalities assessed against them.

A Pomona entry, a Cadillac furnished by Tate Motors of Pomona, won the luxury class for 8-cylinder cars with 14.837 miles per gallon. The car was driven by Edward Ripley and David Quiroz, members of the Pomona Police Department Explorer Scout Post.

Other class winners were a Pontiac Firebird for Compact Class C 6-cylinder cars; a Plymouth Duster for Specialty Class D 8-cylinder cars; a Plymouth Sattelite for Compact Class E Intermediate 8-cylinder cars; and a Ford LTD for Standard-size Class F 8-cylinder cars.

The competitors left the Ontario Motor Speedway at 4 a.m. June 24 and began arriving early the morning of June 25. They spent one day at Yosemite and returned to the speedway.

Among other local youths selected for honors at the close of competition was Frank Foty, co-driver from La Verne. He and two others were selected by officials to have best exemplified the spirit of the run. They won all-expense paid trips to Expo '74 in Seattle.

The 21st annual Youth Safety Run was sponsored by the Police Advisory Council for Car Clubs with technical assistance from the Automobile Club of Southern California.

ALCOA raises ingot prices

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Aluminum Co. of America (ALCOA) announced that it was increasing the cost of its basic aluminum—unalloyed 99.5 per cent primary aluminum ingot—from 33.5 to 36 cents a pound effective with shipments Aug. 2.

Explaining the increases matched those announced last week by Reynolds Metals Co. and Kaiser Aluminum, ALCOA said "proportionately higher prices also will apply Aug. 2 in varying degrees to alloy ingot forms and grades," to which such elements as copper and magnesium have been added.

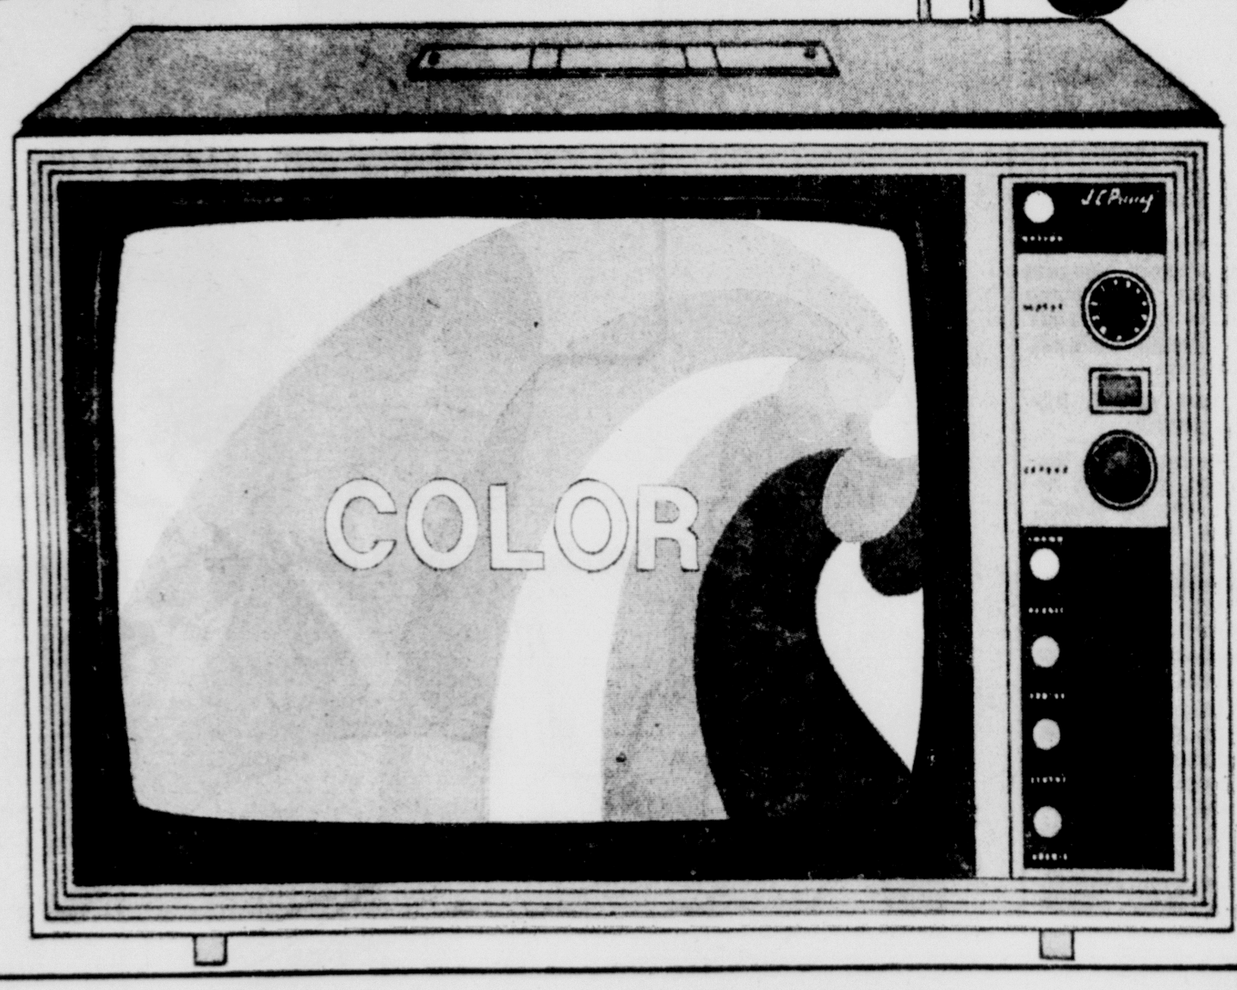

ALCOA said higher prices also "will be applied selectively to some mill products, including soft alloy extrusions," from which such products as storm doors and window sashes are constructed.

Economists earlier predicted that the aluminum price increases, coupled with those announced earlier by the nation's steelmakers, eventually would be passed along to U.S. consumers in the form of higher retail prices for a wide variety of products.

Demo chairman says telethon huge success

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Democratic National Chairman Robert Strauss says the party's June 29-30 telethon was a political, artistic and financial success.

He said that the party expects to collect $6.3 million of the $7 million pledged.

State Democratic parties will get two-thirds of the anticipated $4 million profits after payment of $2.3 million for air time and production costs, he said.

The national party will receive slightly less than $1.5 million from the 21-hour show.

AAA: gasoline plentiful and prices stable

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gasoline remains in ample supply and prices are stable, an American Automobile Association survey showed today.

The AAA's weekly Fuel Gauge Report, a survey of 4,950 service stations across the nation, said that only 0.3 per cent of the stations contacted were out of gasoline—the same percentage as last week.

The sampling also revealed that the average price of regular and premimun gasoline at the pump held at 56 cents and 60 cents a gallon, respectively.

The AAA said 67 per cent of the stations were open after 6 p.m Saturday and stations remaining open for business week nights and on Sundays increased 1 per cent.

Water is a great attraction to birds

By DR. FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: We started feeding wild birds just a few months ago and are already going broke from the "success" of our program. We were at first delighted and gratified at the response to our homemade feeder, but now we're overwhelmed. All that seed is expensive! Is there something else we can do to attract birds in a small area besides feeding them? We can't put in a lot of plantings and that sort of thing, we don't have the ground space for it. Anything else? —E.C.

Dear E.C.: One of the least expensive ways to appeal to feathered freeloaders is to supply water (in addition to, or, in this case, in lieu of, food). The most enticing water bath arrangement is one which includes a shower effect, or at least, dripping water. This can be a continual drip of water into the fountain from a small overhead nozzle. A tiny pump for water recirculation is a water-saving alternative and uses very little power. During the nesting season, a small mesh bag containing a variety of short pieces of yarn and what-have-you for nest-making is an additional enticement.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Buster passed on recently as a result of bad kidneys. Little Squirt's the first puppy we've had in many years. He's already had his first shots which brings me to my question. Just how important is this vaccination for leptospirosis anyway? Kind of seems to me they just add on new shots whenever they can find one. —K.O.

Dear K.O.: The vaccination for leptospirosis is neither new nor unimportant. Acute infections of leptospirosis in puppies and adult dogs can, and do, cause death. A chronic carrier-state of dogs is surprisingly common. These dogs shed the leptospiral organisms through the urine and are capable of causing infection in other animals. (Consider that the same leptospiral organisms can cause similar dangerous disease in people).

Dogs who carry the leptospiral organisms in the kidneys over long periods of time develop, as a result, a form of nephritis with permanent destruction of kidney tissue. This is often a primary cause of kidney disease in older dogs, and if Buster had not been protected against leptospirosis, it certainly could have been a factor in his demise. Leptospirosis vaccination, then, is vitally important both for Little Squirt and, indirectly, for you as well.

MEETIN' & EATIN' at BETSY ROSS

Hi, Neighbors,

We are pleased that the Gulf Oil Co. Odyssey Magazine recently found time to mention us in an article on "Find Great Ice Cream." Quote: "And east of Los Angeles in Pomona, the large, modern, red, white and blue Betsy Ross Ice Cream Parlor dispenses a $2 Yankee Doodle Dandy Sundae. Any enthusiast who orders the sauce-drenched mound of frozen creams — and finishes all of it — becomes a charter member of the parlor's Gourmandizer Club. Among the parlor's regiment of whopping sundaes supercharged with patriotic names, you can choose the encredible Washington Monument, a foot-and-a⅜half of vanilla ice cream layered with boysenberry, pineapple and strawberry syrups, and topped with slide bananas, whipped cream, nuts—and the American flag."

Didya know?? The Frankfurter is still hot at the age of 107! One hot July day of Coney Island's boardwalk in 1867, Charles Feltman, an enterprising food hawker, put a hot sausage inside a toasted weiner roll for the first time and called it a frankfurter, after his native Frankfurt, Germany. At that time, it sold for a dime. We at Betsy Ross pride ourselves in keeping that hot July tradition alive. We can't sell it for a dime, that's true, but we do invite you to renew your acquaintance with that good ole American tradition, "The Hot Dog," as it's known on our menus.

Now that we as a nation have just passed our 198th birthday, it is time to re-evaluate our ideals and strive for togetherness in the next two years. We should present to the world that same, patriotic, religiously-oriented nation that took root almost 200 years ago, and flourished as no nation before has ever done.

God Bless America.

Motown star to open at Amphitheater

DIANA ROSS

LOS ANGELES — Screen and recording star Diana Ross will open a one-week engagement at the Universal Amphitheater Monday at 8:15 p.m.

Miss Ross, nominated for an Academy Award for her role in "Lady Sings the Blues," was guest of honor at the recent Newport Jazz Festival where she was presented with the first annual Golden Gardenia Award

'Celebration'

VCT will present a 'ritual' musical

POMONA — Valley Community Theater will open a ritualistic presentation of the Harvey Schmidt-Tom Jones musical, "Celebration," at 8:30 p.m. Thursday.

The first-night performance will be followed by the traditional champagne reception for cast, stage crew and audience.

The play will be presented at 8:30 Friday and Saturday nights through Aug. 3. Reservations can be made at 622-6954.

"Celebration," directed by Mark McQuown, is a musical about winter, a ritualistic staging drawing upon the ancient and modern conventions in theater that protray a basic confrontation between the forces of decay and those of regeneration. Personifying those forces are Ed McCormick, as the young orphan, and John Smithson as Mr. Rich.

The characterization of the vulgar, corrupt, and self loathing Mr. Rich is drawn dramatically and forcefully by the authors in a play with otherwise regenerative themes. Parental guidance is advised by the VCT management for those under 16.

McCormick, a VCT veteran, was Captain Jim in last season's "Little Mary Sunshine" and directed BCT's production of "Dames at Sea." He is a graduate of Cal Poly where he won best actor awards in the drama department in 1969, 1970, and 1971.

Smithson is a VCT newcomer but a veteran of over 40 productions in the last 15 years. Originally from Michigan, he has played leads in such shows as "The King and I," "How To Succeed in Business Without Really Trying," "The Fantastiks" and "Once upon a Mattress."

McQuown directed "The Owl and the Pussycat" three season ago. He holds a bachelor of science degree from Cal Poly and an M.A. from UCLA.

Focus upon the human choice between the conflicting forces is acheived in the character of Angel, played by Donna McCormick. Angel is the stage-struck siren who wants "to be somebody." Miss McCormick has been in such VCT productions as "Cactus Flower" for which she won Best Supporting Actress, and "Dames at Sea." She received numerous awards from Cal Poly.

The Revelers, an ensemble in the tradition of a Greek chorus, participate in the clashing confrontation. The Revelers are Kathy Lane, Jennifer Adams, Frank Kohel, Terry Lee Engle, April Vahle, Bob Weis, Craig Seibert, and Sue Mix.

Engle, previously seen in VCT's production of "Once Upon a Mattress," "Oliver!" and Gallery Theater's production of "Fiddler on the Roof," will play Major Domo. VCT newcomer Tom Kyler will portray Potempkin, the narrator.

Technical staff for this production includes Cathey Fonleroy, choreography; Barbara Wilson, costumes; John Rice, musical direction; Nick Hooyboer, technical director; Tim Askew, technical assistant; Carol and Tom Spencer, properties and Carl Hossler, art work. Accompaniment is by Dennis Castellano, Jim Rogers and Joe Zacky.

The Lighter Side

Gabby Hayes is really easterner?--no way

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Each new report shows the sale of booze going up, up, up. Why are folks drinking so much more than they used to?

The answer, I believe, is because modern life makes it so hard to maintain illusions.

We all need some insulation from stern realities at times. Illusions help camouflage grim actuality. When one of their illusions is shattered, people turn to alcohol to cushion the shock. Here's a good example:

I read somewhere recently that Gabby Hayes, Hopalong Cassidy's old sidekick in a hundred million westerns, actually was a native easterner who never rode a horse until he was almost 50 and hated cowboy movies.

Few persons can survive a jolt of reality like that without a good stiff drink.

Et tu, Gabby? Another illusion down the drain? Set 'em up again, bartender.

As Peter de Vries once wrote, "A man's got to believe in something, so I believe I'll have another drink."

If a man can't believe in the essential westernism of Gabby Hayes, what can he have faith in? How could the sincerity that went into "Yer durn tootin', Hoppy" have come from the lips of someone born in Wellsville, N.Y.?

Ah, me. There simply are times when reality is too painful to contemplate stone sober.

An auto company has a television commercial in which information about its cars is punctuated with persons exclaiming "I didn't know that."

What of the times we might wish to exclaim "I didn't want to know that?"

I certainly didn't want to know that Gabby Hayes hated westerns. Something within me died when I found out. But there was no way I could have avoided the disillusionment.

I had already read about the real Gabby before I realized what I was reading.

This is not to advocate a flight from reality. But wholesale destruction of illusions must be stopped if we are to abate the curse of demon rum.

If we have laws safeguarding freedom of information, why couldn't Congress enact companion legislation upholding freedom from information?

The trick would be to preserve a protecting coating of illusions without interfering with the general spread of enlightenment.

Warning labels on books, magazine articles, etc., might be the answer. "Caution: The material contained in this publication is so disillusioning it may drive you to drink."

Film actor to receive doctorate

INDIANA, Pa. (UPI) Film and television star James Stewart, a native of this city, will receive an honorary doctorate of letters from Indiana University of Pennsylvania at its centennial celebratiin this fall.

Stewart is not an alumnus of the university. He graudated from Princeton University with a degree in architecture before taking up an acting career.

JANICE GILLESPIE, 24-year-old school teacher, is one of the few female clowns in the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus, which plays at the Forum in Inglewood Tuesday through July 30.

Claremont Music Festival

Four concerts scheduled at Pomona College

CLAREMONT — Centennial celebrations of the music of Charles Ives and Arnold Schoenberg and solo appearances by cellist George Neikrug and horn virtuoso Barry Tuckwell highlight the second week of concerts at the Claremont Music Festival on the Pomona College campus.

On Friday at 8:15 p.m. music director Giora Bernstein will conduct Schoenberg's Five Pieces for Orchestra, the first of five works by Schoenberg to be performed during this centennial of the composer's birth. The program will also include "Deserts" by Edgar Varese, and the Second Horn Concerto by Richard Strauss. The solosit in the latter work will be Tuckwell.

On Sunday at 4 p.m. Bernstein will direct the first of three Sunday afternoon chamber orchestra concerts, a series inaugurated this season. The program includes the first performance of "Suite from Shinju" by composer Paul Chihara, instrumental music from Purcell's "The Fairy Queen," and the Symphony in D Major by Frerick the Great.

Neikrug will be the soloist in Haydn's Cello Concerto in D Major.

Ives and Louis Spohr will be featured Wednesday at 8:15 p.m. Five seldom-heard short works by Ives will be presented: "From the Steeples and Mountains," "Adagio Sostenuto," "Allegretto Sombreoso," "Tone Roads No. 3" and "Scherzo: Over the Pavements."

The Octet in E for Clarinet, Two Horns and Strings by Spohr will be played by Mitchell Lurie, clainet; Tuckwell and Duane Saetveit, horns; Charles Libove, violin; Kenneth Harrison, viola; Neikrug, cello; and Bertram Turetzky, contrabass.

Claremont Music Festival concerts are held in Bridges Hail.

The first of four free Institute concerts will be offered Monday at 8:15 p.m. in Lyman Hall of Pomona College's Thatcher Music Building. The program will consist of chamber works by members of the Institute.

Miles of coastline

Chile has approximately 6,000 miles of coastline on the Pacific Ocean.

Tougher law directed at skinnydipping

INCLINE VILLAGE, Nev. (UPI) — Skinnydipping is a popular sport at Lake Tahoe, and officials say they will try to put some teeth into the law which does not make it an offense.

Dave Neasham, district park ranger, said there have been numerous complaints about swimming in the raw at Sand Harbor and Hidden Beach at Lake Tahoe.

When there's a complaint, he said he usually asks the bathers to put on their clothes. If they won't, he asks them to leave. If they refuse to do either, a ranger can arrest them for interfering with a police officer.

JACK SHELDON, musician, actor and comedian, will perform in the Eagle Playhouse of Busch Gardens, Van Nuys, at 8 and 10 p.m. Monday and Tuesday. Sheldon, a trumpeter, conducts his own orchestra. He has performed widely on television and in nightclubs.

What's your reason for not buying a home NOW?

TROUBLED OVER HIGH INTEREST RATES

It is true interest rates have risen, but they do seem to have stabilized in the past several months. And while the rates may seem high, they are not climbing as rapidly as are labor and material costs. An increase or a decrease of ½ percent in interest rates only amounts to 30c per month per $1000 on a 25 year loan. Is it really wise to deny yourself the security, pleasure and pride of home ownership on the vague hope of interest rates going down, thus saving you only $3 or $4 a month? The value of your home will increase at a much faster rate than can be gained by any lowering of interest rates. NOW is a good time to buy!

WONDER WHERE TO BEGIN LOOKING?

Worry no more . . . most folks have found that the best place to shop for that new or lived-in home is in the Classified Real Estate columns of the Progress-Bulletin. It's here (and only here) that each day you'll find the very latest offerings of homes 'for sale' . . . advertised by the area's leading real estate firms and builders. Check the want ads today—and every day—to find the home that satisfies all your needs.

YES NOW IS A GOOD TIME

The power of the Want Ads is with the people. Want Ads are people offering goods and services to other people. Really, people helping people Can we help you?
